OKLAHOMA STATE NEXT Cadets Face Centenary

By JOE CALICOATTE
For the second time this week, A&M's basketball team will make its appearance on the hardwoods of G. Rollie White Coliseum as they meet the Centenary College Gentlemen of Shreveport, La.

Centenary's Gents should be familiar faces to most of the Cadet squad, since A&M broke their all-time scoring record against them last year. At the time A&M was beginning a hot streak that netted them a 95-38 victory in the season opener.

A&M is in top physical shape for tonight's game with the whole team beginning to sharpen up their pace. Earlier this week the Cadets beat the University of Houston, 66-61, and raised their statistical standards a bit.

Field Slump

Shooting from the field has been in a slump this season as the Aggies only averaged 29.8 per cent of their shots, but saw a slight increase with 37.1 against Houston. However, at this stage of the game last year, the Ags were hitting in the 40 per cent ranks regularly.

Carroll Broussard is still the leading scorer for A&M with his 18.3 average. The Stanley twins are in a tight battle for second place as Don hit 20 points against Houston to boost his average to 12.4 while brother Pat lagged a little behind against the Cougars and tossed in only five for a 10.3 average.

Top Rebounder

Don Stanley is the team's top rebounder with 33, followed by Broussard with 31. Jerry Windham, the only soph in the starting lineup, has grabbed 27 off the boards to hold down a third place spot.

Free throws have made a big difference in Aggie scoring so far this season. Against Houston the Cadets 20-29 to make the total for three games 66 and adds up to a .667.

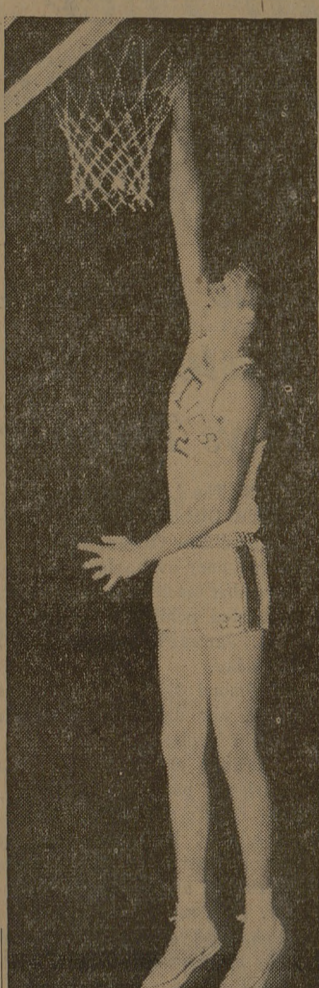

A&M will take a short break after tonight's game and won't play again until next Thursday night when they meet Oklahoma State University in the Houston Tournament.

The Aggie Fish will open their 1960-61 season in a preliminary game tonight that starts at 6. The varsity contest will begin at 8.

Weather Causes Turkey Shoot Location Change

The Range and Forestry Turkey Shoot scheduled tomorrow has been moved from the range behind Easterwood Field to the rifle range at Kyle Field. The change was made due to the inclement weather which has plagued the area.

Because of the restricted conditions of the range at Kyle Field, the shotgun contests will be eliminated and no weapon of larger calibre than .22 will be used in the firing.

Under the new conditions of the firing, there will be target shooting with .22 rifles and pistols, and the ham shoot will be held.

The time for the shoot will be as originally planned, from 10:00 a.m. until dark.

'Our Great Need Is Understanding'

"Our greatest strength is our free, productive and educated citizenry," Ambassador Horace H. Smith, told an assembly of SCONA VI delegates and an interested public in the third keynote address Thursday night in Guion Hall.

Smith, the State Department Adviser to the War College of the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., went on to say our greatest need was more understanding and a more faith on the part of the American public in their elected government leaders.

"Such understanding, he said, can only come out of a deeper and clearer sense of our national purpose, a sharpened awareness of the nature of the threat we face, and of the nature of the threat we face, and of the special limitations that are placed on our efforts to meet this threat by the need to preserve the essence of our freedom and democracy while countering it."

Smith said our national purpose is now essentially the same as it was 200 years ago—"the preservation of the territorial integrity of the United States, the safe-guarding of the freedoms of the individual American, and the advancement of the cause of peace with freedom throughout the world."

Every American, Smith said, should understand the nature of the United States' policy making process.

"If the citizen is to judge fairly or criticize constructively and vote effectively, he must know the practical limitations on the roles of his congressman or senator and the President and his aides."

Smith said the average citizen, aside from using his vote and voice effectively, "must also recognize the necessity of continuing the present commitment of manpower and funds to the national security program."

"As long as Russia is spending 25 per cent of her gross national product on armaments, we may have to step up our nine per cent," he said.

"The American citizen, therefore, must be willing to contribute the taxes to finance these commitments. He must also make an active response to the requirements of military service—whether under the ROTC, selective service or enlistment."

Smith also emphasized the need for able citizens who are willing to accept the responsibility that goes with civilian government service, "both at home and abroad."

Chairman Praises SCONA Workings

"SCONA VI is going as well as any of the past conferences have and I think it's going better than some."

Tom Reid, chairman of SCONA VI, had that to say about the overall progress of the meet.

Now in its third day, the sixth annual Student Conference on National Affairs has attracted some 140 delegates from 63 schools from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

"The weather threw us for a little while. There were a few transportation problems because of the bad weather, but it didn't set us back any," said Reid.

"Besides the main speakers, the thing that most delegates are commenting about are the round-table discussions. They have really

COLLECTIONS START MONDAY

$3,000 Chest Drive To Begin

The Campus Chest Monday will begin its drive for a goal of $3,000. This is the fourth year the drive has been held. The campaign is designed so students will not be asked to contribute to many different charity drives.

The Campus Chest offers Aggies a chance to make one donation to be distributed among the various charitable organizations on the campus.

According to Ben Johnson, drive chairman, 60 per cent of last year's contributions went directly back to the student body as the need arose. Johnson is a member of the Student Senate's Welfare Committee.

Receptacles will be placed in the Memorial Student Center for donations. Collections will also be made in the various housing units Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Dormitory collections will be handled by cadet commanders and dorm presidents.

CSC Seeks Opinion On Name-Change

The Civilian Student Council, as a body, was appointed a special committee to poll the opinion of the civilian student body on the name-change question at a meeting of the Council Thursday night.

CSC President Mike Carlo, a member of the recommending committee asked the Council to talk with civilian students in the dormitories to see how they feel about the proposed change in the name of the college.

"Make sure the people you talk to are informed on the matter," said Carlo. "We don't want the opinion of a person who doesn't know the facts."

The Council will meet Tuesday, Dec. 13, at 5 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center to report their findings.

In other Council action:

The addition of a Recording Secretary to the Executive Council of the CSC was proposed.

A letter from Student Affairs Director Bennie A. Zinn was read, appealing to students to use sidewalks and refrain from making paths on the grass and through shrubbery.

Veterans May Sign For Checks In January

Veterans' Adviser Bennie A. Zinn has announced that students attending school under the GI Bill may sign payforms for December checks in the Veterans' Adviser's Office Jan. 3-5.

The Battalion reported Thursday that the payforms must be signed before Dec. 12.

Campus Preps For Holidays Dormitory Schedule Disclosed

All campus dormitories, except Milner Hall and Ramps A, C and D of Hart Hall, will be closed for the Christmas holidays Saturday noon, Dec. 17, it was announced yesterday by Harry L. Boyer, Housing Manager.

Boyer said the housing facilities left open will be used by students who plan to be on campus at any time during the holiday period. Students wishing to stay in these rooms must secure a permit from the permanent occupant of the desired room and present it at the Housing Office by 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 16.

The College Dining Halls will close after the evening meal Dec. 17 and open again for the evening meal Jan. 2.

Special hours for the holiday schedule of the Memorial Student Center will be posted on the doors of the Center and in The Battalion as soon as they are released.
