Holiday Death Toll Includes One Aggie

The delicate strains of "Silver Taps" echoed from the buildings of AggieLand Tuesday night as the men of A&M honored a dead buddy.

John W. Sauer, a 21 year-old electrical engineering student, was found dead in his Bellaire apartment Sunday morning. His wife is in serious condition in a Houston hospital with two bullet wounds in her head.

A Harris County medical examiner said that Sauer apparently shot his wife and then turned his rifle on himself.

Sauer's two children, John Jr., 4, and Michael Wayne, 2, were staying with a baby-sitter when the tragedy occurred.

The Sauer family had been married five years.

Sauer met his wife while they attended Bellaire High School in Houston.

Mrs. Sauer lived in Bellaire with the children while her husband attended A&M.

The Sauer family had been described as an "ideal couple" by Mrs. Royce Hienen, their baby-sitter.

John J. Sauer, the husband's father, told investigating officers, however, the pair had frequent marital difficulties.

Senate Planning Discussion Tonite

Numerous items of business will be discussed at a meeting of the Student Senate tonight at 7:30 in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center, according to Roland Dommert, president.

New business will include committee reports, chiefly a report from the sportsmanship committee. Also to be discussed are plans for the annual Mother's Day program to be held May 14.

Another item of business will be discussion on whether or not the Student Senate will handle the blood drive again this year. In past years, the Senate has sponsored this drive with great success.

Under old business, Dommert said the Senate would talk about possible speakers for the Muster program April 21; this program will be handled under the direction of the student life committee of the Senate. The student welfare committee will have a report on the campus chest conducted Dec. 13 and 14. Also to be discussed will be plans and possibilities for the 12th Man Bowl.

During the last meeting of the Senate, held Thursday night before the holidays, members went on record as opposing a college name change by a vote of 12-8, with two abstentions.

The group also chose to draw up majority and minority reports on the issue, the majority report being written by Bob Bower, Frank McFarland and Mike Schneider, and the minority report prepared by John Abbot, Brantley Laycock and Clayton LaGrone.

These reports will be submitted to the Name-Change Committee, which has a meeting scheduled sometime next week, along with other reports from Cadet Col. of the Corps Syd Heaton and Civilian Student Council President Mike Carlo.

At the last meeting of the Senate there was some discussion of holding a forum between College President Earl Rudder and the student body, but Dommert said nothing had actually been done further on that, since the issues had been covered through reports and work of the Name Change Committee.

Ceremonies Honor Former Professor

George Barton Wilcox has been awarded a life membership in the Texas Association of School Administrators.

The award was made at a ceremony this morning in Austin at the annual conference of the 1961 School Administration Advisory Conference on Education.

Respectfully called "the grand old man of Texas education," Wilcox retired in 1959 after serving 40 years at A&M as professor and later head of the Department of Education and Psychology. Many honors have come to Wilcox, one of which was the statewide recognition he received for his part in the organization of the state teachers retirement system.

Wilcox served for 10 years in the public schools of the state. In 1920 he helped organize the A&M Consolidated public school of College Station and served as its first principal.

At the ceremony he was lauded as "a successful public school teacher, principal, superintendent and in his peak years made valuable contributions to education in Texas as professor of administrative education and as a consultant on many productive studies and workshops in public school systems. Many successful school administrators of the state today attribute their success, especially their philosophy of education, to the influence of George B. Wilcox."

Wilcox is presently serving as Grand High Scribe of the Ancient and Beneficent Order of the Red Rose, an active organization of school administrators in Texas. He is past president of the Texas State Teachers Assn.

Attending the three-day meeting in Austin from A&M are Dr. Grady P. Parker, head, and member, Dr. Paul Hensarling, Department of Education and Psychology. The meeting was attended by superintendents of public schools and college officials involved in the training of school administrators.

Pinnell Presented Fellowship Grant

Charles Pinnell, an assistant professor in the Department of Civil Engineering, has been awarded a National Science Foundation Fellowship.

The fellowship is for study toward a PhD degree in civil engineering. It is in the form of a "salary grant" which will permit nine months of study at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

The major field of work will be in transportation and urban traffic engineering. He plans to begin work at Northwestern in September of 1961.

Pinnell is also assistant research engineer of the Texas Transportation Institute and holds a BS degree in civil engineering from Texas Tech, 1952, and an MS degree in civil engineering, with a major in highway and traffic engineering, Purdue University, 1958. He came to A&M in 1958.

His honors include Highway Research Board award, January, 1960; and Past President's award, Institute of Traffic Engineers, September, 1960.

New Course In Engineering Announced

A new course will be offered in the spring semester by the Department of Engineering Graphics, Dr. W. E. Street, Head of the Department, has announced. The course is designated E. G. 403, Graphical Computation Devices, (1-3, credit 2) and is offered as an elective for juniors and seniors.

"The new course will cover the theory and construction of nomographs for use in the solutions of recurring scientific and engineering problems," Street says. Prerequisites are E. G. 105 and E. G. 106 or the equivalent.

Street says E. G. 403 will offer more advanced work in nomographs than E. G. 209, nomographs (2-0, credit 2) offered for the first time last spring and to be continued this spring. E. G. 209 is an elective course for sophomores and includes charts and graphs, graphical mathematics and introduction to nomographs.

"E. G. 403 will not appear in the printed schedule of classes for the spring semester because of its very recent approval," Street points out. "Registration in this course will be on an 'hours to be arranged' basis."

Riots Erupt In U.N. Over Cuban Situation

By The Associated Press
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Demonstrators for and against Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro clashed outside U. N. headquarters Wednesday as the United States and Cuba traded bitter charges in the Security Council.

At least one man was hurt and several others were spattered with eggs and tomatoes before police restored order between two groups fighting outside the public entrance. Inside the Security Council chamber, the debate was twice disrupted by hecklers.

The United States told the eleven-nation council Castro was turning Cuba into a springboard for Communist subversion of the Western Hemisphere. Cuba said the United States was about to attack her.

Seven men and a woman were expelled from U. N. headquarters for yelling, "Viva Castro," from the public gallery of the council chamber.

As they reached the street, about as many anti-Castro pickets threw eggs and tomatoes at them from the other side.

The anti-Castro group charged across the street, police swung clubs to keep them back and one man was knocked down, bleeding from the forehead. The man said he was Felix Garcia, a leader of the anti-Castro pickets. Police took him away. They separated the two groups and herded the pro-Castro demonstrators toward a bus stop.

The Castro sympathizers began shouting, "Viva Castro," in the afternoon after U. S. Delegate Jas. J. Wadsworth charged that Castro was leading Cuba into the Soviet bloc and turning it into a Communist subversion center.

Six men and women cried "Murdered, liar, Communist," in the morning as Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa told the council the United States was planning to attack Cuba.

U. N. guards ousted both groups from U. N. headquarters.

Wadsworth spoke twice. At the morning session, he said Castro's government drove the United States to break off diplomatic relations with Cuba Tuesday night through a "strategy of harassment."

In his afternoon speech, he accused Cuba's leaders of "the official creation of a Yankee devil, whom the unfortunate people including the smallest school children are taught to despise." He called Roa's charges false.
