Ohio State No. 1 In Basketball Poll

By The Associated Press

Powerful Ohio State is the unanimous choice as the nation's No. 1 college basketball team for the fifth straight week, but another unbeaten club, DePaul, has moved into contention.

DePaul, with an 11-0 record after knocking over fourth-ranked Louisville last week, moved into the top 10 in the Associated Press weekly poll, taking over the seventh position. The standings are determined by a vote of a national panel.

Ohio State (12-0) and DePaul now are the only unbeaten teams among the top-ranking titans.

The rest of the top 10 changed little, but St. Bonaventure (13-1), after beating Gannon and Niagara, took over the runner-up spot behind Ohio State, shoving Bradley down to third place. The Bonnies' only loss was to Ohio State.

Bradley (13-1) lost its first game of the season to Houston, by one point, 60-59, but came back to smother North Texas 110-72.

Iowa, with Big Ten triumphs over Wisconsin and Michigan State, climbed from sixth to fourth, taking over the spot from Louisville, which fell to fifth. Completing the list in order, were North Carolina (10-2), DePaul, Duke (13-1), St. John's of New York (10-2) and Kansas State (11-2).

North Carolina moved up from seventh; St. John's dropped from fifth and Kansas State tumbled a notch from ninth.

North Carolina won two games, beating Wake Forest and Virginia. St. John's lost to St. Joseph's (Pa.) 74-71, and beat St. Francis of New York. Kansas State won over Oklahoma. Duke beat Virginia 92-90, and Maryland 70-62 in overtime.

Freshmen Slip Past 'Sip Frosh, 54 - 51

The A&M Freshmen fared a little better than their big brothers of the Varsity in Austin last night as they squeezed past the Texas Yearlings, 54-51.

From the beginning the Fish established a small lead only to see it dwindle and even had to play catch-up several times during the contest.

At halftime, the Fish were ahead by the same three-point margin that existed as the game ended.

Bennie Lennox unleashed a 36-point scoring spree that accounted for the majority of A&M's scoring. Lennox hit 14-20 free throws and grabbed 10 rebounds.

Joe Fisher was the Yearlings' mainstay as he dropped in 19 points and took 17 rebounds off the boards.

Free throws definitely meant the difference for A&M's freshmen as they netted 24 points from them while Texas only got 11 from the line.

Both teams were slack in shooting percentages from the field as A&M had 30.6 and Texas had 30.3.

INTRAMURALS

There wasn't much activity in intramural sports yesterday, but there were a few "firsts" for intramural football this year.

In Class C football, Hart Hall blasted Pan American with the biggest score of the '60-61 season, 49-0; the Day Students slipped Law Hall by booting the first goal this year, 3-0; and Hall blanked College View.

In the only game scheduled, Class B handball, C2 edged C1, 2-1.
