

INAUGURATION

Security Force Will Total 5,000

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON—Security precautions as rigid as any ever imposed in this security-conscious capital will be directed at thwarting any potential assassin in Friday's inaugural crowds. About one million persons are expected. The total security force will top 5,000. Secret Service agents will stand on every rooftop, peer down every manhole, and scan every human cluster along the inaugural route between the Capitol and the White House. Other agents will be hidden beneath the special platforms on which the incoming president will stand—at the Capitol where John F. Kennedy will take the oath and at the White House where he will watch the inaugural parade. Preparations for inaugural security began under Secret Service coordination soon after last November's election. While fewer than 200 Secret Service agents will be involved, they will get help from several thousand Washington police, hundreds of servicemen and a team of plainclothesmen from Washington and other cities. The Secret Service is also counting on spectators to help protect Kennedy. "If anyone in the crowd should make a threatening move," said Chief Inspector Michael Torina, "you can be sure someone nearby would have the courage and alertness to act."

Last Day As Citizen

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Today is John F. Kennedy's last as a private citizen, and he's making it a busy one. First on the agenda: A second White House conference with President Eisenhower. Friday their roles will be reversed; Eisenhower will become a private citizen and Kennedy will step into the White House. Kennedy has maintained cordial relations with Eisenhower in spite of the hard fought campaign. This is a marked contrast to Eisenhower's relations with his predecessor, Harry S. Truman. At their first post-election meeting Dec. 6, Kennedy and Eisenhower talked alone together for an hour and 50 minutes. Eisenhower was reported much impressed with the man he sarcastically called "this young genius" during the campaign. At his final news conference Wednesday, Eisenhower said the transition to the Kennedy administration has been going splendidly. Kennedy has a tight schedule for the rest of the day. Later in the morning he confers with Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and with Najeb Halava, deputy chief of the Federal Aviation Administration. In the afternoon are conferences with Arthur J. Goldberg, secretary of labor-designate, and with the AFL-CIO Executive Council; also a governors' reception. The evening is taken up with social events, one a party in honor of Eleanor Roosevelt. Then he attends an inaugural concert and a mammoth gala at the Armory staged by Frank Sinatra and Kennedy's brother-in-law, Peter Lawford.

INTERPRETING

Nicky Says Reds Will Wage War If Capitalism Refuses To Yield

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Premier Khrushchev's speech explaining last fall's International Communist manifesto serves primarily to confirm Western estimates of Red intentions regarding war and coexistence. Unless capitalism yields to the type of economic and ideological war now being waged, if it insists on resisting, then the Communists will resort to war, even thermonuclear war, to attain their end of world proletarian dictatorship.

That's what Khrushchev said. That's the blackmail inherent in the current position of International Communism. The non-Communist world is to be weakened as far as possible with pacifism. Peaceful coexistence Khrushchev says, is an intense economic, political and ideological struggle which makes it easier to combat what he calls imperialism.

His crusade for disarmament, as a part of that struggle, is designed to narrow the ability of the capitalist countries to make war, he says. But since the other countries will not go along, the Soviet Union will conduct an intense military buildup.

Nuclear war and "brush fires" which could spread are best avoided, the Communist leader says, but full Red support should be given national liberation efforts as in Algeria. Maybe there is a key here to his policy in Laos.

If the speech truly represents Communist intent, it is the frankest discussion yet, by a leading authority, on the role of war in the Communist blueprint for conquest. It supports the theory, long held by many Western observers, that the great danger of war will come when the Communists are threatened with loss of the cold war, or if the West allows talks of coexistence to weaken its defense posture. Or, too, if the West faces loss of the cold war.

From the excerpts so far available, it appears that Khrushchev is a key here to his policy in Laos.

Agriculture In Russia Upbraided

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW—So much that is wrong with Soviet agriculture has been disclosed in a nine-day session of the Communist party's Central Committee that stern measures taken by Premier Khrushchev seem to be the minimum necessary to whip up production. Theft of crops, bribery of manufacturers in order to get tractors, faked harvest reports designed to hide production failures—all these have been brought out under biting questions of Khrushchev at the assembly which ended Wednesday. Khrushchev told farm leaders and local party officials that production in their areas is going to be the deciding factor as to whether they stay in power. "These jobs are not hereditary," he warned. Those who produced well got kindly words. Those who slacked off got a public blistering. High officials and low have heard Khrushchev's upbraiding in meetings behind closed doors and then have seen the whole affair published in Pravda, the Communist party paper. With its many local editions, Pravda covers the Soviet Union like the winter snow.

SAC Planes In Skies 24 Hours
By The Associated Press
OMAHA—The Strategic Air Command announced today that U. S. heavy bombers now are in the air around the clock.
Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander-in-chief, said an unspecified number of B52s are in the air at all times. About two dozen bases are involved, he said.
Power said the indoctrination phase of the airborne alert training program has been completed and now all combat-ready B52 bomber crews are participating in airborne alert training missions under realistic conditions.
He said the program is in keeping with the U. S. policy of being prepared, and is designed "to reduce to an absolute minimum the time required by SAC bombers to respond to any hostile action by an aggressor."
