

JP's Constables To Meet In Corpus

Special to The Battalion
All justices of the peace, constables and other interested parties are invited to participate in the 13th annual meeting of the Institute of the Peace and Constables to be conducted at the White Plaza Hotel, Corpus Christi, on Friday, Feb. 25, at 8 p. m. Wallace D. Beasley, coordinator, Police Training Division, Engineering Extension Service, A&M College System.

John Roberts, justice of the peace in Corpus Christi and currently president of the Texas Justices of the Peace and Constables Association, is assisting in the arrangements and expects an outstanding Institute. Roberts points out that there will be no fee for the sessions which will be held in the White Plaza Hotel, since the Texas Law Enforcement Foundation, the sponsoring agency, will pay the expenses.

Topics for discussion include in the course are Court Room Procedure, Right of the Accused; The Summons, the Complaint, the Warrant and Bail Bond; General Aspects of Criminal Law; Elements of Specific Offenses and other related subjects.

The course will follow conference procedure, Roberts says, with those in attendance participating in the discussions, exchanging ideas and profiting from the experiences of others.

Classes will be conducted from 6:30-9:30 p. m. Monday through Friday of the first week and during the same hours Monday through Wednesday of the following week on the Plaza Deck of the White Plaza Hotel. In addition to staff members of the Engineering Extension Service Police Training Division, guest instructors from other agencies will provide information from assigned subjects.

Previous institutes conducted by Amarillo, San Angelo, Austin and Dallas drew more than 275 participating justices of the peace, constables and other interested persons.

Industrial Arts Role Aired At Meeting

"The role of industrial arts in Texas schools, never was so important as it is today," was the theme of the several speakers at the Industrial Arts Teacher Conference held here Friday and Saturday. More than 400 attended one or more of the sessions.

The importance of industrial arts was sounded at the Industrial Arts Section of the conference and at the Vocational Industrial Section. Separate sessions were held by the two divisions.

Dr. Welcome Wright, Director of the Department of Industrial Education, East Texas State College, Commerce, presided at the opening general session of the IAE Section and M. A. Stevens presided at the opening session of the VIES Section. Stevens is coordinator of industrial cooperative training, Waco Public Schools.

morning. Several performers are also scheduled to eat their meals Friday in the dining halls of the Corps of Cadets, Betts said.

Both Betts and Bill McClain, ITS chairman, said they are expecting an even larger audience than the 5,000 which viewed last spring's show. The 5,000 was the ITS attendance record.

Tickets will not go on sale until next week, McClain said, and will be available in dormitories and the MSC.

The annual show kicks off what many consider the biggest weekend after the ITS show is the Combat Ball, followed the night of Mar. 11 by the Military Ball.

The first review of the year for the Corps of Cadets is also scheduled Saturday afternoon, Mar. 11.

Billy Woods Mayes, Head of the Department of Industrial Arts, Crane High School, was chosen the new president-elect of the association. He will take office Sept. 1. The new president-elect is a native of Denton, where he attended high school. He earned his BS and MS degrees at North Texas State College, and is an Honorary Mathematics Society member of that school.

Frosh Claim 2nd At Laredo Festival

The Freshman Drill Team returned Sunday from claiming second place honors at the Laredo Drill Team Competitions.

Staged as a part of the George Washington's Birthday celebrations in Laredo, the competition attracts top-notch college and high school drill teams from over the state.

Also included in the festivities is a two and one half mile long rights of way in 1957," he said. "In '57 we were talking about $30-$50,000," said Councilman Joe Sorrells. "Right now we are talking about unknown sums."

This, primarily, was the reason the Council decided to take no definite action until a cost estimate had been determined. Orr told the meeting he believed the majority of the Council was in favor of the underpass.

"We need it," said Councilman Carl Landiss. "It would be a factor of safety for the community. The present crossing is one of the most dangerous things in the city."

The new underpass would be located where Farm to Market Road 60 crosses the Texas and New Orleans and Missouri Pacific railroad tracks—at the far west end of North Gate.

The Highway Department has agreed to build the underpass at a cost of $720,000 if the City of College Station, A&M College, Brazos County and the two railroad companies agree to furnish rights of way. All of the agencies involved have indicated they are in favor of the project.

QUICKIE SESSION

Water-Saving Bill Passes Committee

By The Associated Press
AUSTIN—A major water-saving proposal in Gov. Price Daniel's program whirled out of committee Monday in an administration rush for fast action.

It was SJR 11, allowing the state to buy water storage in federal reservoirs, approved in a special quickie session of the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Earlier, another measure designed to insure purity of underground water supplies was passed in the Senate, while the House advanced several tax collection efficiency bills.

More action on money-raising proposals was in immediate prospect. Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger said the House Revenue and Taxation Committee will have a night session, probably work on deficit-erasing proposals urged by Daniel.

The water storage purchase amendment may get quick action in the House Tuesday.

If approved by the House without change in the Senate version, the issue would be put to voters in the expected runoff of the special Senate election on June 3. If approved by voters, then the next Legislature would have the job of putting the constitutional change in effect.

"That is one of the possible dates that could be set for a runoff," explained John Gholson, an aide of Gov. Daniel. He added "the governor is very much in favor of this measure."

Special committee rules requiring all measures to go to subcommittees were suspended by a 12-4 vote to give the proposed constitutional change a clear track. If approval had not been granted Monday there would not have been time for the measure to be put into effect for a June 3 ballot.

"This is the one solution to the water problem it exists in Texas today," said Durwood Manford, chairman of the State Board of Water Engineers.

A similar measure passed both houses of the Legislature four years ago but each house approved a slightly different version. The proposal died when a last minute filibuster in the Senate kept the compromise version from being considered.
