An Invitation

High School Career Day has been set for March 18 this year. This marks the thirteenth year that the College has sponsored this program, and each year college officials have tried to improve the activities.

This year is no exception. The dorms will be open to high school students both Friday and Saturday nights, Mar. 17 and 18, at no expense to the students. Visiting students will also be able to eat in the dining halls for nominal costs. Discussions with college students concerning college life will be held to give visitors the students' viewpoint.

Other features of the weekend include a film about life at Aggieland, "We are the Aggies," an intrasquad football game, and a three-way track meet between LSU, Rice, and A&M. Talks are scheduled to be held in Guion Hall and conducted tours of college facilities will be arranged according to fields of interest. Agriculture, arts and sciences, engineering, veterinary medicine, and general interest tours will be held.

With such a program planned High School Day should be a success, and as far as the program itself goes, it probably will be. But to be successful, and do the job it is supposed to do, HS Day must have a substantial number of high school students taking part in the activities.

One way to assure ample participation is for the students at Texas A&M to invite high school seniors to come find out for themselves what Texas A&M has to offer. Many high school seniors are undecided about which college to attend, or what they are looking for in a college. If they could spend a weekend at Aggieland, the odds are that they would decide that Texas A&M is the place for them.

High School Career Day offers these prospective students a chance to view college life firsthand, a chance to hear and see for themselves what college is really like.

A&M students can make the event a success by merely inviting students of their high schools to visit Aggieland and take advantage of the program being held for them.

An invitation to a high school student could help both the student and the College.

Why not invite someone?

Peace Corps Response Good

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON — It sounded like a cracked record—"Write Peace Corps, Washington 25, D.C."

That was the refrain into telephones ringing constantly Thursday at the headquarters of the new Peace Corps launched by President Kennedy.

Response to the idea has been overwhelming, said Edwin Bayley, temporary public relations director at a headquarters that was set up about three weeks ago.

"That was a young married couple in Los Angeles," said Mitzi Mallina, hanging up the telephone. "A lot of the requests have come in from young married couples."

The idea of sending Americans overseas on a voluntary basis to help foreign countries meet needs for skilled manpower has brought in about 6,000 letters since Kennedy first mentioned it in his election campaign last year.

"They're enthusiastic, say it's wonderful, and they're excited about it," said Sally Bowles, who has been helping read letters, acknowledge and answer them for about three weeks.

Kennedy, who hopes to have the first 1,000 corps workers overseas by the end of the year, has said they will serve on a two- or three-year basis under conditions of physical hardship and be given a living allowance, but no salary.

Application blanks won't be ready for about 30 days.

Headquarters asks that letter writers put on the envelope whether they want information or an application blank.

Oppose Colleagues

Editor, The Battalion:
For the first time in the 60 years of my existence I feel that I must publicly oppose a group of my colleagues. I refer to the letter in The Battalion concerning the film, "Operation Abolition." I have seen the film and have read the newspaper accounts of the riots in San Francisco. I personally feel that the HUAC may be a publicity seeking committee, and may even be high handed in its procedures, but certainly it is a legal entity, duly and properly appointed by our elected representatives. If we disapprove of the committee we have legal means of abolishing it; however, we never have the right to abolish such a committee by mob action such as occurred in San Francisco.

Actually, there is little doubt that the riots in San Francisco were instigated and led by well known communists such as Harry Bridges, Brown, et al. These men and their dupes broke up the hearings of the Un-American Activities Committee and became so noisy and unruly that the city courts in the City Hall were disrupted.

When the existence of this country and all other democratic countries is seriously threatened by lies and by insidious propaganda of the communists, it seems to me that my colleagues have picked a poor time and a poor incident over which to exercise their academic freedom in attacking the showing of the film, "Operation Abolition."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation cannot and does not give an official approval of any film, but they do think enough of the report of the House Un-American Activities Committee Report that they furnish copies of the report

No Disagreement

Editor, The Battalion:
Needless to say the letter concerning the film "Operation Abolition" has aroused considerable opposition, myself included. However, after hearing Mr. T. C. Whitmore (Department of Physics) present the case for the authors at a showing of "Operation Abolition" Sunday night, I do not believe there is any basic disagreement between the two parties. Rather, I believe the original letter failed to make its primary point. Too much discussion was devoted to the film itself, which, after all, was only incidental to the case in question. The authors would do well to restate their case without reference to the film.

Although I heartily agree with the ideas of liberalism in education, certainly we can find a better starting point than questioning the film "Operation Abolition." An avowed objective of the Communist Party is the discredit of this film. No matter how much you care to question and search for the truth, I see no reason that a pro-American film ever need be presented with apologies of branded "questionable."

The TOP name in Missile Inertial Guidance—AC SPARK PLUG seeks top talent!
AC SPARK PLUG, THE ELECTRONICS DIVISION OF GENERAL MOTORS, has immediate, permanent positions in Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Boston and Flint. If you have a BS, MS or Ph.D degree in EE, Physics, Math or ME, you may qualify...
You can find a challenge and opportunity for advancement at AC. You will be working on such projects as MACE, THOR, POLARIS, the ultra-sophisticated TITAN system and complex Bombing Navigation Systems.
AC and GM will assist your career progress through graduate study at universities in nearby locations. In addition, you will have the opportunity to take exclusive on-the-job course work on the advanced state of the art.
These training programs are now available in Milwaukee:
ENGINEERING PROGRAM—For men whose career aim is design and development of inertial guidance equipment. All recent college graduates will enter this one year career acceleration training program with formalized classroom instruction. This instruction will be in conjunction with rotating job assignments. These assignments, in Manufacturing, Reliability and Engineering areas, will provide a smooth transition from academic learning to career development.
FIELD SERVICE PROGRAM—formalized two-to-four-month classroom and laboratory training on missile inertial systems and bombing navigation systems. After completion of training program, assignments are to both domestic and foreign sites.
