

Grants, Papers Announced

Professor Robert O. Reid, of the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology, attended a conference in New Orleans Monday and Tuesday. The conference dealt with a current United States Corps of Engineers project on Lake Ponchartrain.

Dr. Harold E. Redmond, professor in the Department of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery, was elected regional faculty advisor for the southern region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Saturday. His election came at the regional meeting held during the Sam Houston State College Rodeo in Huntsville.

Dr. Redmond is currently faculty sponsor of the A&M Rodeo Club. The southern region has about 14 member schools.

M. G. Reko, assistant professor of electrical engineering, and D. S. Billingsly, a graduate student in chemical engineering, have just had a highly technical article published in the February issue of IRE Transactions on Automatic Control.

The article is "Evaluation of Transient Response Coefficients."

J. E. Redden, assistant professor of journalism, was awarded a $600 grant for the purpose of conducting research involving an individual's suitability for teaching in secondary schools. The announcement of the grant came from Dr. Wayne C. Hall, dean of the Graduate School.

Funds for the study came from the College's Organized Research Fund.

Dr. C. D. Holland, a professor in the Department of Chemical Engineering, and S. L. Sullivan, a graduate student in chemical engineering, authored an article appearing in the April edition of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

The title of the article is "Double Pipe Heat Exchangers." It deals with a method for heating a liquid by a condensing vapor.

Research on problems concerning competition of quail and rodent for grain was recently completed by J. M. Inglis, an instructor in the Department of Wildlife Management.

Inglis did most of his work at the Gene Howe Wildlife Management Area in the northeast corner of the Texas Panhandle. He spent four years gathering facts and studying feeding habits of various field rats and mice.

Interviews Set For Town Hall

Interviews are on tap tonight for junior posts on next year's Town Hall staff. They will be conducted in the Corps Conference Room in Dorm 2 by Gary Anderson, next year's student entertainment manager.

All present sophomores with grade point ratios of at least 1.25 are eligible for the 7:30-9:30 interviews.

There will be approximately 20 vacancies available.

Chess Club Meets Again

A second meeting of the newly-formed Campus Chess Club is scheduled tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Brooks Room of the YMCA Building.

The organization met for the first time last week and reported a good attendance and show of interest.

Gary Simms, a sophomore from Amarillo, is coordinating the present set of meetings.

Eichmann Shown In Contrasting Roles

By The Associated Press
JERUSALEM—Adolf Eichmann was portrayed in court Wednesday as a man who once helped Jews before he became a relentless Nazi executioner hunting for new ways to exterminate them.

A surprised stir swept the court where Eichmann is on trial for his life when Dr. Franz Mayer, former Zionist leader in Berlin, said he frequently sought and obtained aid from the Gestapo officer.

In 1937, Mayer said, he won help from Eichmann for certain emissaries from Palestine who came to Germany in connection with the Jewish emigration movement.

"At that time, I considered him a quiet man, behaving in a very normal way—a correct person," Mayer said.

Mayer said he was stunned at the other side of Eichmann's character when he met him only a year later in Vienna. At this meeting Mayer said Eichmann "looked like a ruler in whose hands are death and life. He would not let us come near his desk. He spoke brutally."

Descriptions of Eichmann by former Gestapo cronies introduced into evidence earlier in the day pictured Eichmann as obsessed with a desire to get rid of the Jews.

Prosecutor Gideon Hausner read from notes made by former Auschwitz death camp commander Rudolph Hoess—hanged by the Poles in 1947.

"Eichmann was always full of plans, always on the lookout for innovations and improvements. He knew no rest. He was taken up with the Jewish question and its final solution. It was part of his life."

The "final solution" was Hitler's term for the Nazi plan to exterminate all Jews in Nazi-occupied countries.

The Hoess memoirs put Eichmann on the scene of the Auschwitz mass extermination.

Hoess said Eichmann came to Auschwitz as early as 1941, shortly before it had been designed as the No. 1 Nazi extermination center.

"We discussed ways of killing the Jews," the statement said.

An M-G-M Release

'Ladies' Man' Feud Deadline Tuesday

Next Tuesday is the deadline for contestants in the "Ladies' Man" contest to turn in lists of endorsements. Winners in the vie that offers a possible date with a beautiful movie starlet will be released in next Thursday's Battalion.

Also included in the final prize is an all-expense paid trip to Hollywood, courtesy of Jerry Lewis, who is sponsoring the contest in conjunction with his latest release, "Ladies' Man."

Lewis will head a panel of judges deciding who from among colleges across the nation will be hailed as "Ladies' Man of America." All local campus winners will be submitted to the national contest, with this title hanging enticingly overhead.

Selection will be based on number of endorsements obtained by the contestants on the local level; the student bringing the longest list of signatures will have his name and application forwarded to the contest headquarters.

On the national level, the final winner will be chosen on his 25-word or less statement written on his application telling why he wants a date with the starlet in Hollywood on a date with her.

Because of this necessary statement, there is good reason for Aggie contestants to be somewhat encouraged about winning; many
