

Plaque Honors Dr. Humbert As Scientist, Educator

The late Dr. Eugene P. Humbert, who was professor and head of the Department of Genetics from 1922 to 1946, has been honored posthumously as a scientist and educator with the presentation of a large bronze plaque to the college.

The presentation took place April 28 in President Earl Rudder's office.

President Rudder and Mrs. E. P. Humbert of Bryan, the professor's widow, accepted the plaque in behalf of the college from the Texas Certified Seed Producers, Inc., of Waco. Making the presentation was John S. Rogers of College Station, president of the TCSP.

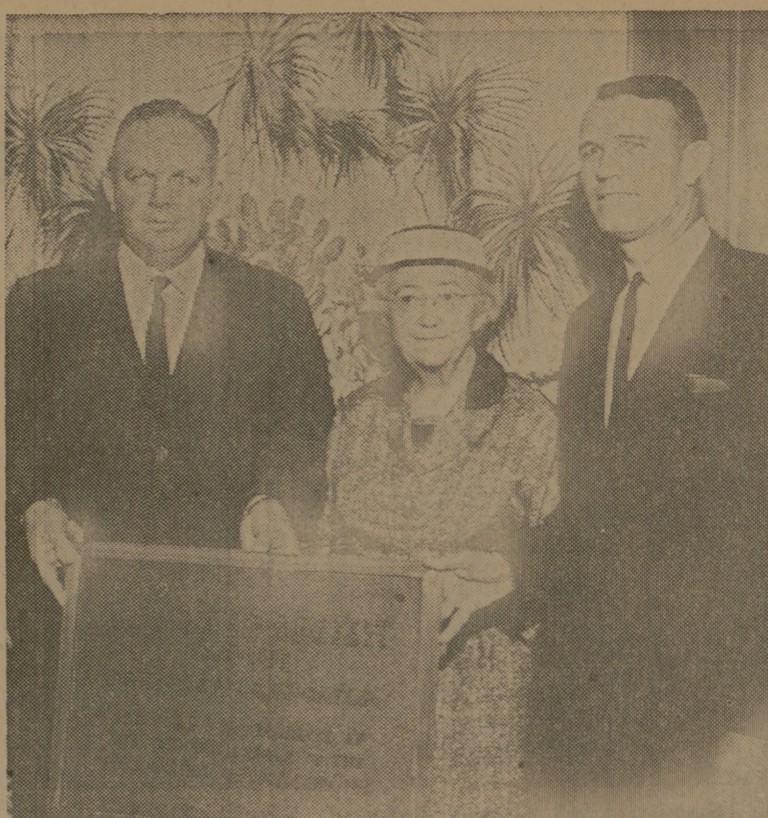

"We are here to honor a person, who in our opinion, through his devotion to his chosen profession, contributed much to the welfare of man. The benefits of his work will serve many future generations," Rogers said at the brief ceremony.

He described Humbert as an outstanding educator and a scientist.

"Perhaps ranking highest among his many activities, other than serving his family and A&M, was serving the seed industry of Texas," Rogers said. "Humbert served the seed trade for almost 40 years, first as a member of the original State Seed and Plant Board, and secondly as secretary-treasurer of the Texas Certified Seed Producers Inc."

Other persons attending the ceremony were Dr. R. E. Patterson, Dean of Agriculture; C. B. Godbey, head of the Department of Genetics; Dr. W. O. Trogdon, Head of the Department of Agronomy; Othel Neely of Waco, executive vice president of the TCSP, and Miss Frances Humbert of Bryan, Humbert's granddaughter.

Humbert was born in Iowa in 1881 and was educated at Iowa State College and Cornell University.

Congress Adds $88 Million To Kennedy Space Program

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON—Spurred by the Soviet man-in-orbit feat, the House Space Committee Wednesday added $88.7 million to the Kennedy administration's 1962 space program.

Chairman Overton Brooks, D-La., said there is more to come. At the same time, the House Armed Services committee added $337 million to an administration defense measure for continued production of B-58 medium and B-52 heavy jet bombers.

Armed Services Committee Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., said "the time has not come yet" when principal reliance can be placed on the intercontinental ballistic missile.

Vinson's committee accepted the administration decision to cut back funds for the B-70 intercontinental bomber, however, in approving a $12.37-billion defense authorization bill.

The Space Committee's tentative approval of an $88.7-million increase in funds for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration covered three major projects.

Apollo, which aims at a three-man space laboratory orbiting the earth and then the moon; Rover, a radical new nuclear rocket engine;

Solid-fuel space boosters, which many committee members think offer a hope of getting ahead of the Soviet Union in space.

Freshman Snags "Ladies' Man" Title

OK, Hollywood, hang on to your pants; there's an Aggie in the running for the title of national "Ladies' Man." Larry Muehlstein, freshman from Avoca, collected a staggering total of 800 votes, to win the right to be known as the campus "Ladies' Man," and be entered in the national phase of the contest.

The 18-year-old agriculture education major in Company C-1 won the contest being sponsored by The Battalion in conjunction with Jerry Lewis' latest effort, "Ladies' Man." The national prize is a date with one of the flick's 32 beautiful starlets and an all expense paid trip to Hollywood.

The prize for winning the campus title won't be announced in this relatively Victorian newspaper, but, Muehlstein will be able to enjoy his award the year round.

Over 1,700 votes were cast in the contest. As a side thought, this total is larger than the number of ballots cast in either of the last several campus-wide Student Senate and class officer elections. That shows where most Aggie's thoughts dwell.

Muehlstein's favorite endorsement-getting tactic was to stand in the post office in the Memorial Student Center and asking for votes as students checked their mail boxes.

"Most people were more than glad to sign my list," he said. "Only four persons refused to sign for no reason at all."
