

'You Tomorrow' Slate Revealed

"Ride hard, shoot straight and live so you can look anyone in the eye." These aims are the motto of You-Tomorrow, a non-profit educational corporation for the benefit of youth.

Riding will be taught by Joan Loveless in the third Horsemanship and Horsemastership School, and Sandy Pond will teach jumping.

Rifle instruction will be conducted in the twenty-first Basic Small Arms Training School under the auspices of the Twin City Junior Rifle Club and the National Rifle Assn.

The summer activities will be climaxed by the third annual Benefit Horse Show. The benefit is to the Bryan Boys Club, Inc. and the Brazos County Juvenile Court Fund. Concessions and gate will be handled by officials of the two organizations. Joan Loveless, general chairman, expects entries to near the 100 mark.

Segregationist Says South Still Has Negro Hatred

By The Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS—One of the 18 "Freedom Riders"—nine white persons and nine Negroes testing segregation practices in the South—said Tuesday hatred of the Negro "prevails as a spirit" in Birmingham, Ala.

Fourteen members of the group held a press conference in the lobby of a dormitory on the campus of the predominately Negro Xavier University. They said their violence-marked trek through the South had ended and they would leave New Orleans Wednesday night for their homes.

James Peck of New York, the chief target of attackers at Birmingham Sunday, told newsmen: "It is disheartening to see a city engulfed in such a state of hatred."

Peck had 57 stitches in his head from a melee in Birmingham. He talked to newsmen with his head wrapped in white gauze bandages.

Peck, who is white, termed the trip a success—"not completely successful"—because it proved that "one could not travel freely in this country."

One of the Birmingham attackers, Peck said, had taunted the group: "You dirty Communists! Why don't you go back to Russia? You're ashamed of the white race, and you're ashamed of the nigger race."

Peck said he hoped the trip "would have a sobering effect on our country."

"If we are going to live as a Christian nation," said B. Elton Cox, 29, a Negro from High Point, N. C., "we are going to have to clean up our own back yard."

Cox blamed Alabama Gov. John Patterson for the violence in Alabama. He said that Patterson's lack of interest toward the "Freedom Riders" and his failure to furnish them protection had the same meaning as "go to it, boys, they're all yours."

Albert Bigelow of Cos Cob, Conn., the unofficial leader of the junket, told a newsmen: "I was ashamed to be a white man in South Carolina and Alabama."

The group said it would remain in New Orleans until Wednesday night for a celebration of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision in 1954 declaring school segregation unconstitutional. The seventh anniversary celebration will be held in a Negro Baptist Church.

In Birmingham earlier Tuesday, a young Ku Klux Klansman, his father and another man were arrested on charges stemming from the beating of the "Freedom Riders" at the Birmingham Bus Terminal Sunday.

Jesse Oliver Faggard, 20, who operates a doughnut machine at a Birmingham bakery, signed a statement admitting he had taken part in mob action and was charged with assault with intent to murder and grand larceny. His father, Jesse Thomas Faggard 48, was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. The other man was identified as Howard Thurston Edwards, 22, of Irondale, Ala., held without a charge.
