

Bryan Set For Armed Forces Day

New Weapons For Infantry
... rifles to helicopters

President Kennedy has proclaimed May 13th through May 21st as Armed Forces Week, with Armed Forces Day May 20th. Most of the open houses, parades, exhibits and ceremonies will take place on this day.

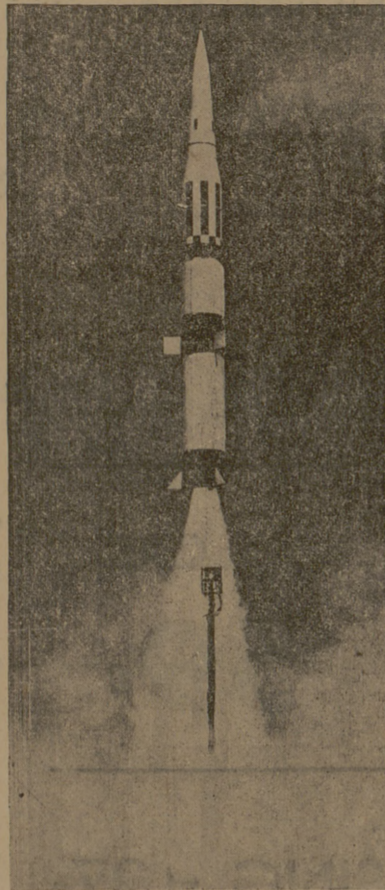

The Bryan-College Station area is no exception, and the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the activities again this year. Lt. Col. Ward H. McDonald has been appointed to assist the Chamber in planning the ceremonies.

Saturday morning, the ceremonies will get under way with a parade through downtown Bryan starting at 10:30 a.m. The Parade Marshal is Brig. Gen. Clifford M. Simmang, Commander of the 420th Engineer Brigade of Bryan. Units to march in the parade are the Texas A&M "fish" Drill Team, local dignitaries, 386th Engineer Battalion of the Texas National Guard, the 420th Engineer Brigade and the 4th Howitzer Battalion, 1st Battle Group, 385th Infantry.

In the afternoon, the Armed Forces will man exhibits in Sue Haswell Park with Maj. Perry of the National Guard in Bryan in charge.

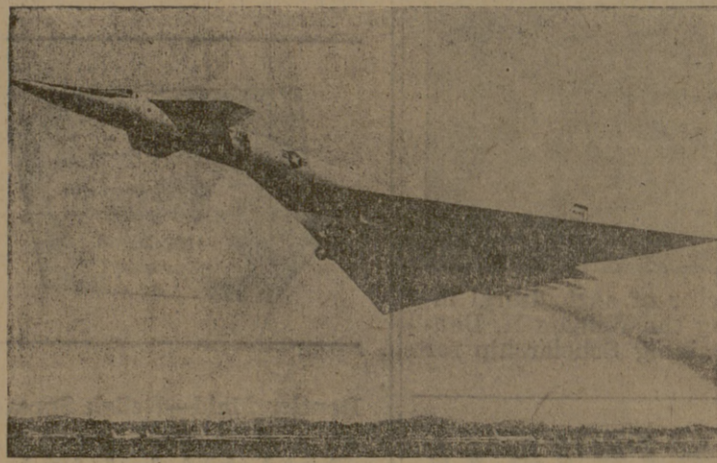

Some of the new items of equipment the Armed Forces have developed during the past year are the Army's airborne SS-11 guided missile, that speeds after its target with unerring accuracy; the Pershing Missile, a two-stage solid fuel intermediate range weapon, and the Air Force's B-70 Valkyrie bomber, which will fly at three times the speed of sound. The Marines have also been busy making changes—Marine infantrymen carry the new M-14 rifle, ride the deadly-looking Ontos anti-tank vehicle and fly the tiny one-man YR0N-1 helicopter.
