Two A&M agriculture students have recently been honored with scholarships. John L. Kuykendall, sophomore agriculture student from Cherokee. has been named winner of the annual E. J. Kyle Scholarship. The Kyle scholarship is worth $150. Kyle was dean of agriculture at A&M for 35 years. Selection for the scholarship is based on scholastic achievement, leadership and need.

Frank F. Hall, junior plant and soil science major from Seymour, has been named winner of a $500 Ralston-Purina Scholarship. The award is based on scholastic achievement and need and is one of several Hall has won.

Presenting the awards to Kuykendall and Hall is Dr. G. M. Watkins, director of agricultural in-
