among engineering educators.

Dr. Street, a native of Dickens, Tex., holds both the bachelor's and master's degrees from Texas Technological College, and his doctorate in engineering education in 1947 from Hardin College. He has also attended the University of Texas, Texas A&M, North Texas State College, and Baylor University.

Dr. Street came to A&M as head of the Engineering Graphics Department in 1941. Prior to that he served 13 years on the Texas Tech faculty, and four years as a teacher, principal, and superintendent in West Texas public schools.

As a licensed professional engineer, Dr. Street has a wealth of experience outside of the teaching profession. He has worked for Sinclair Oil and Refining Co., Lockheed Vega Aircraft Co., and Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. In addition to private practice, he has also done Patent Office work, and has been associated with a Waco construction company and with the Austin Bridge Company.

His contributions to the area of knowledge embraced by engineering graphics are numerous. He has authored and co-authored 13 texts dealing with graphic techniques, problems, and descriptive geometry. He is the author of several articles appearing in national journals.

Host Beef Meeting Here

The International Beef Performance Congress and sixth annual convention of the Performance Registry International will be held June 21-23 in the Texas A&M Memorial Student Center.

Host organizations are the Texas Beef Cattle Improvement Association, the Animal Husbandry Department of A&M, and the Performance Registry International.

The first day will be taken up with registration activities and a barbecue at 7 p.m.

Talks and business meetings get under way June 22 with an address of welcome by L. A. Wright of Laredo, president of the TBCIA.

Other featured speakers are Dr. O. D. Butler, head of the A&M Animal Husbandry Department, "Proposed PRI Beef Carcass Standards"; and Dr. J. C. Miller, head of the Animal Husbandry Department at Oregon State University, "PRI Progress."

Activities start on June 23 with a talk on beef production in the United States by T. C. Byerly of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., and beef production in Canada by J. D. Baird of the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

Performance education needs within the state will be discussed by Clyde M. Reed, livestock specialist with the Oklahoma Agricultural Extension Service and L. A. Maddox, Jr., animal husbandman with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

One of the features of the conference will be evaluation of live slaughter steers. The animal will then be slaughtered and carcass characteristics noted. Frank Orts of the A&M Animal Husbandry Department will conduct the project.
