Beef Feeding Practices Subject Of Short Course

Supplementary feeding practices will be emphasized during the 11th annual Beef Cattle Short Course July 31-Aug. 2 in the Texas A&M College Memorial Student Center.

J. K. Riggs, professor in the A&M Animal Husbandry Department and program chairman, said efficient supplementary feeding of beef cattle is of increasing importance, and the subject will be thoroughly explored during the course.

Supplementary feeding topics to be covered include feeding the cow and calf, nutritive composition of forages on Texas grazing lands, frequency of feeding protein supplements to range cattle, levels of energy supplementation for beef breeding females, and the effects of plane of nutrition on growth and productivity of beef females.

Speakers on these subjects will be L. A. Maddox Jr. and J. H. Jones of the A&M Animal Husbandry Department; L. S. Pope, Oklahoma State University; P. T. Marion, superintendent, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Spur; and A. A. Melton of the Trans-Pecos Experiment Station at Balmorea.

The short course has been approved by the Texas Education Agency as an in-service training program for vocational agriculture teachers, Riggs said.

Short course registration will be held from 8 to 9 a.m. the first day.

Subjects to be discussed during the first session are carcass and meats information applied to a beef cattle breeding program; demonstration of a steer carcass certification program and its relation to breeding; laws of inheritance; genetic implications of artificial insemination; breeding programs for commercial breeders; crossbreeding programs for Texas; and date processing equipment for keeping herd records.

Speakers are C. B. Godbey, Genetics Department; O. D. Butler, head of the Animal Husbandry Department; Riggs, L. D. Wythe, H. W. Franke, T. C. Cartwright, G. F. Ellis Jr., and Maddox, all of the A&M Animal Husbandry Department; and W. E. Kruse of Texas Substation 23 at McGregor.

At a 7 p.m. smorgasbord, Riggs will discuss beef production in Argentina.

The supplementary beef cattle feeding session is scheduled for the morning of the second day.

On the afternoon of the second day, discussion topics include feed additives; influence of roughage, pelleting and concentrate rations on growing and fattening cattle; feeding lightweight calves; cattle reproduction; increasing calf crop percentages; and artificial insemination.

Speakers are Marion and Pope; R. O. Berry, Wortham Foundation of Houston; Tim Mason, Sam Curl and Duane Kraemer, A&M Animal Husbandry Department.

The annual meeting of the Texas Beef Cattle Improvement Association is set for 7 p.m. the second day.

Discussion subjects on the final day are the future of the beef cattle business; environmental influences on cattle, and inspection of carcasses and explanation of data for steers in carcass certification program.

All sessions will have question and answer periods, Riggs said.

Disaster Brings Success

By The Associated Press
ASHLAND, ALA.—At first the fire seemed like a disaster to the young lawyer.

But it turned out to be the start of a journey to the U. S. Supreme Court for Hugo L. Black.

The story is told by Hillary J. Carwile, a Former Alabama Legislator.

Many years ago, Carwile rented part of the upper floor of his store to Black, a young lawyer who had come home to practice.

Black stored all his books and office furniture in the little room. Then one day the wooden frame building burned down.

"Hugo was an object of pity," says Carwile.

"He sat down and looked at the ashes which were all that remained of his office furniture and law books.

"I was older than Hugo and figured that a little advice couldn't hurt him any more than he was ready hurt.

"I told him frankly that Ashland could never offer him the opportunities that were to be found by a young man of his caliber, larger and faster growing town.

"The next day I saw Hugo carrying a suitcase and he told me that he was taking my advice—that he was on his way to Birmingham."

From there, Black went to the U. S. Senate and later to the U. S. Supreme Court.

"We've talked about it since then," Carwile recalls, "and Hugo told me that without the fire that destroyed his law books and my advice that followed, he probably would be Ashland's least-known lawyer today."
