Prof Parking

Employee parking lots are designated on this map, furnished by the Campus Security Office before the fall term begins. Faculty and staff members may park in one of the six numbered "zones" for the $7.50 registration fee, plus a $2.50 parking charge. Or they may park in the "fringe" parking areas, indicated on the map by cross-hatching, for $1 charge.

Profs Must Register Cars

Both college employees and students must register their automobiles with the Campus Security Office before the fall term begins, the Department of Student Affairs warned today.

Students will register their cars during registration, or within 48 hours of their arrival on the campus. Faculty and staff members should register their cars with the office as soon as they begin working on the campus.

The cost of employee registration is $7.50 for the year. Faculty members can obtain duplicate registrations for additional cars for $1.

The registration of employee vehicles is now underway at the Campus Security Office, Room 17, YMCA Building.

Faculty and staff parking is to be done in six "administrative zones," each with its own "zone administrator." The "zone administrator" may designate a numbered reserved parking space to a staff member for which a $2.50 fee is charged. The administrator may assign any space he chooses and may deny or withdraw an assigned space as college needs are best served.

An employee who does not want to park in the "administrative zones" may park in areas designated "fringe area parking," and register his car for only $1. However, vehicles registered for "fringe areas" cannot park elsewhere on the campus during business hours.

The Department of Student Affairs says money collected from vehicle registration and fines "will pay for the registration procedure and for improvement in the parking facilities on the campus and for enforcement of regulations."

Senior Heads Horticulture Association

Walter G. Dahlberg, senior floriculture student, has been elected national president of collegiate branches of the American Society for Horticulture Science. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Dahlberg of 760 S. Rosemary Drive in Bryan.

Dahlberg's presidency of the horticultural organization is one of many honors and achievements during his college career. He is a Distinguished Student, recipient of the George Wolfe Scholarship in 1960 and recipient of the Sears Foundation Agricultural Tour of Mexico this year. He also is a member of the Ross Volunteers, Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Zeta honorary societies, Floriculture Club, Student Chamber of Commerce, Young Men's Christian Association, and the A&M Methodist Church.

He is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin High School in Bryan.

Directors Approve $19 - Million Budget

Gougler Gets MS Degree From U of H

Doyle Gougler, '50, of the College Information Department received his master's degree in agriculture from the University of Houston Aug. 26.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in agricultural journalism from A&M. His master's degree, which deals with policies of major farm organizations, is in the field of agricultural economics.

Gougler joined the College Information Department two years ago, coming from The Houston Post. He was on The Post editorial staff for seven years, six as agricultural editor.

Medical, Dental Schools Accept 16 A&M Graduates

Texas schools of medicine and dentistry have accepted 16 A&M students for 1961 medical and dental classes. Dr. Howard L. Gravett, professor in the Department of Biology and chairman of the Premedical-Predental Committee has announced.

The students will go to the following schools:

Baylor University Medical College at Houston—Tom L. Austin of Alice, Robert R. Blakewood of Houston and William Curtis Clary of Henderson.

University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston—Howard B. Condren of Amarillo, John S. Ford of Waterville, Maine, Ralph Gay of Longview, David F. Henges of Orange, James J. Hrachovy of Bellville, and Robert C. Potts of 306 Lee, College Station.

University of Texas Southwestern Medical School at Dallas: Roy Edward Spencer of Knox City and Van Q. Telford of DeKalb.

University of Texas Dental College at Houston; David R. Adams of Sherman, Ernest D. Butler of Livingston, Mark E. Davis of Houston, Hugo E. Ernst of Nixon and Hillary L. Ranson of Levelland.

The Premedical-Predental Committee is composed of Gravett; Dr. George E. Potter, biology; Dr. E. B. Middleton and Dr. Henry Rakoff, chemistry; Dr. C. D. Laverty, English; Dr. J. M. Nance, history, and Ralph K. Russell, physics.

Weekend Board Meeting

A&M Board of Directors Saturday approved a $19-million budget for the 1961-62 fiscal year—by far the largest budget in the school's 85-year history.

The big budget—up almost $2-million from last year—was possible through increased appropriations from the Texas Legislature, which allocated to the college over $700,000 more than last year.

President Earl Rudder had kind words for State Rep. Browning Dewey Jr., '38, who served on both the House Appropriations Committee and the Joint Conference Committee on Appropriations during the last session of the Legislature.

"Dewey has labored both long and hard in behalf of higher education in Texas. His statesmanship has been beneficial to A&M and we are grateful," Rudder said.

Also present at the Board's budget meeting was State Sen. W. T. (Bill) Moore, '40, of Bryan.

The total legislative appropriation for the new year is $5,663,270, compared with $4,932,507 for last year.

These figures represent only money appropriated to the college. They do not include revenue from services and other self-supporting activities operated by the college at no cost to the state.

The total budget for the coming years is $19,940,045. Last year's budget was $17,940,778.

The $19-million figure also does not include money which will be spent for construction. By state law no appropriated funds may be used for the construction of buildings. They must be paid for from the sale of bonds, or income from the permanent university fund or some other source.

Of the $700,000 increase in legislative appropriations more than one-half will go for teaching salary raises. These, by college policy, will be granted on a merit basis.

Moore Makes Plea For Girls

The co-education question was brought up once more at a meeting of the College Board of Directors Saturday, Aug. 26.

Sen. W. T. (Bill) Moore, present at the meeting, informally asked the directors to consider admitting coeds to A&M for the upcoming fall semester.

No action was taken of Moore's suggestion.

A Board spokesman said Wednesday Moore had asked the Board to consider letting girls enroll in September. Moore said he made the suggestion after being called on by the directors to "say a few words."

Moore said his primary purpose in attending the meeting was the gigantic $19-million budget passed by the Board. "I had a personal interest in the new budget," Moore said.

Moore commended the Board as the "finest we've had in several years," but said they should consider co-education now, "before it is forced on them."

The Texas Supreme Court ruled last October that A&M would remain all-male when it said the Waco Court of Civil Appeals was correct in turning down a motion for rehearing of the suit of three Bryan women asking admission to the college.

County A&M Club Has Birthday

Brazos County A&M Club is celebrating its 20th year of service to the college and its 1,151 former students in the county.

Although informal group meetings were held prior to that time, the Brazos County A&M Club was officially organized in 1941. In the words of P. L. "Pinkie" Downs Jr. '06, who was its first president, the club has come a long way since it was first organized.

Monthly meetings of the club are held in a building located at the west end of Ehlinger Drive in Bryan. The structure, complete with a large concrete patio, is currently estimated at a value of $12,000.

In 1948, Joe Sosolik sold a block of land amounting to about half an acre to the Brazos County club so it could have a permanent home. A number of contractors and individuals donated their time and provided materials at cost so the structure could be built.

According to R. L. Skrabanek '42, current president of the club, the building and grounds are free of indebtedness. Money for upkeep and repairs of the property is obtained through rentals of the facilities to different groups. These are all under the supervision of Joe Faulk '32.

Outside of having regular monthly dinner meetings, the Brazos County A&M Club sponsors several worthy functions.

Among the most important functions is providing three scholarships for Brazos county boys to attend A&M. By a ruling made a few years ago, no part of the club's annual dues can be used for anything else other than for scholarships. The club's scholarship operations are officially known as the Wallace Kimbrough Memorial Scholarship program.

Another program sponsored by the club is a blood bank. The blood bank system, operated by J. E. "Joeko" Roberts, '33, provides blood for paid-up members of the club and their immediate families. The blood of each member has been typed and Roberts has only to call on the members, knowing that it will be provided. This service has been in operation for a number of years, and according to Roberts it has been used on several occasions.

The club co-sponsors with the A&M Athletic Council an annual barbecue for A&M athletes. It has also done worthy things through the efforts of individual club members. For example, in recent years mainly through the efforts of one of the members who is also a member of the medical profession, an operation for one of its scholarship winners was paid for by the club. It has also sponsored troops in the Boy Scout programs.

Throughout its 20 years of service to A&M and former students of the college in the area, the Brazos County A&M Club has had a distinguished group of presidents. These have been, in order of their service: P. L. Downs Jr., '06; Martelle Dansby, '37 (deceased); Walter Coulter, '95 (deceased); J. E. Roberts '33; W. R. Carmichael, '28; Fred Hale, '22; Newt Hilscher, '33; Oscar Crain, '30; W. N. Colson, '40; Wallace Kimbrough, '40 (deceased); Joe Motheral, '39; W. W. Meinke, '36; Freddie Walters, '44; H. E. Burgess, '29; K. A. Manning, '49; D. W. Fitch, '42; J. E. Orr, '49; R. H. Harrison III, '47; R. O. Boriskie, '55; and R. L. Skrabanek, '42.

Small Arms School Opens September 9

The 22nd Basic Small Arms Training School will start Saturday, Sept. 9, Bill House, president of the Twin City Junior Rifle Club announced today.

The course is offered from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays. Firing is at the club range at Pleasant Acres on Farm Road 2513 between Bryan and College Station. Instruction is by certified NRA instructors and conforms to the safety measures required by the National Rifle Association. All equipment, targets, ammunition and rifles are furnished by the Twin City Club. Income from these schools is used to defray expenses of training and to buy shooting equipment and improve range facilities.

The rifle training, conducted under the auspices of the NRA, is the basic step in the use of firearms and is offered as a recreational and instructional benefit for the youth of Bryan, College Station, and surrounding communities.

Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 19 are accepted for the course. Complete information about the training school may be obtained from Sidney L. Loveless, chief instructor.

Rudder Signs United Fund Wire Appeal

President Earl Rudder was one of five Texas United Fund leaders to sign a telegram sent Aug. 14 to John C. Calhoun Jr., president of the local United Fund campaign, urging more funds for the year's UF goal.

The telegram read: "This is an emergency appeal to your United Campaign to reconsider Texas United Fund's request for increased funds. Increased demands being made of USO by Defense Department at this time of national concern. Under present conditions we are sure your community wants to do its part. Five other agencies participating in Texas United Fund contribute to defense effort. We urgently request you to call special meeting your board of directors to allocate full share quota to Texas United Fund. This action will give your contributors real sense of direct participation in defense effort and will greatly enhance your campaign. Won't you please use your very best efforts and advise."

The telegram was signed by Rudder; Ben H. Wooten, chairman of the board of First National Bank of Dallas and Chairman of the Southwest region USO; Max Starcke, Campaign Chairman of Texas United Fund; Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, Commander of Air Training Command, Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio, and vice chairman of the campaign committee of Texas United Fund; and Morgan Davis, president of Humble Oil and Refining Co. of Houston and vice president of Texas United Fund.

Harrison, '02, Dies Saturday

Jerome G. Harrison, '02, head of the specifications department of The Ballinger Company, architect and engineers, of Philadelphia, Pa., died Saturday, Aug. 19 following a long illness.

Funeral was held Thursday, Aug. 24, at 2 p.m. in Philadelphia. Burial was at Waco.

Born in July, 1883, in Waco, Mr. Harrison received his B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from A&M in 1902. He received his Bachelor of Architecture degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1906.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Jay Bruce Collier of Dallas and three grandchildren.

5 Governor Asks Assistance For Safe Labor Holiday

Gov. Price Daniel has requested the assistance of every sheriff and chief of police in Texas in combining their traffic forces with those of the Texas Department of Public Safety in a determined effort to make the three-day Labor Day holiday the safest in Texas history.

While Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the DPS, was announcing that 150 patrolmen from the other uniformed services of his statewide law enforcement agency would join the regular Texas Highway Patrol for holiday highway supervision, the governor sought the aid of the city and county chiefs.

Daniel told the sheriffs and chiefs that "Labor Day" is the one big holiday whose traffic problems are complicated by several factors, notably traffic violations. Since we are all fully aware that a big majority of our traffic tragedies involve excessive speed and driving while drinking, I hope you will put every available man on the streets and highways this Labor Day to help us eliminate the lawbreakers. If we do this, I believe we can reduce our traffic crashes, and if we reduce them, we will save human lives and property losses.

The governor has received pledges of citizen support and cooperation from several statewide sources, all aimed at acquainting the traveling public with the dangers of congested holiday traffic and offering various forms of assistance. Daniel has been advised by the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce and W. F. Leonard, Jr., of Dallas, vice-president for traffic safety of Texas Safety Association, that the Jaycees are trying to double their 1960 Labor Day safety record. Last year, 76 Jaycee clubs with 1,254 members devoted 10,320 man-hours to serving coffee and soft drinks to more than 41,000 motorists at 84 "rest-and-coffee" stops along main Texas highways. They also handed out 66,000 pieces of safety literature.

offering various forms of assistance.

"This is the kind of citizen support that creates public interest and commands public respect," the governor said, "and I am glad to know that the Jaycees will be active again. They are setting a fine example for other Texans, and I believe their efforts will help save lives and prevent traffic injuries over the holiday."

The Texas Association of Broadcasters, including most of the state's radio and television stations, has included the Labor Day holiday for another of its "Drive Lighted and Live!" campaigns. The effort is directed mostly toward car drivers on the highways, and the stations suggest that drivers burn their headlights during daylight hours as a signal that they are driving safely and legally. The radio campaign is being spearheaded by TAB President Jim Hargrove, Station KBRZ, Brazosport, and Marshall Formby, TAB director and safety chairman, Plainview.

"During the past two years, driver cooperation in the campaign has been excellent, according to reports reaching the governor's office. Driver participation in some areas where all radio stations cooperated has been estimated as high as 40 per cent. In some major cities, two or more major holidays have passed without a traffic fatality.

The "Drive Lighted and Live!" campaign has now been extended to operators of commercial truck fleets through the assistance of the Texas trucking industry and its Texas Council of Safety Supervisors. Hundreds of trucks on the highways during the Fourth of July holiday drove with headlights burning, along with thousands of passenger vehicles. For Labor Day, the Texas truckers will join the Governor and the nation-wide American Trucking Association "Truck Lights On For Safety" program.

President Victor B. Fain of Texas Press Association and publisher of the Nacogdoches Daily Sentinel, and President James F. Chambers of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association and president of the Dallas Times-Herald, said their member-newspapers would offer every assistance to the governor in his continuing campaign to make Texas highways safer.
