

Schoolboy Grid Season Fires Up

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas schoolboy football campaign, which makes no claims that it is the best but does insist that it is the largest, moves out for the forty-second time this week.

There never has been and probably never will be anything just like it elsewhere in the world — a massive gridiron race in which almost 50,000 boys from more than 900 schools play 4,700 games before 8,000,000 fans.

The 1961 race should be no exception in thrills, interest and excitement. It will find Wichita Falls making a bid for its fifth state championship and its eighth trip to the finals. The only school ever to surpass the latter was Waco, which went to the finals nine times.

Wichita Falls is the favorite in Class AAAA because it has vast experience and is expecting to have probably the finest team in history.

Brownwood is an easy favorite in Class AAA.

Albany is the strongest favorite of all in Class A.

Class AA has some new names with Sweeny and Jacksboro sticking out like a couple of Jimmy Durante noses.

It's a long trail filled with brambles, thorns and rocks that stretches from September 1 to the championship days of December but here's how they rank in the four divisions that go to state titles:

Class AAAA — 1 - Wichita Falls, 2 - Corpus Christi Ray, 3 - San Antonio Jefferson, 4 - Austin,

5 - Fort Worth Paschal, 6 - Garland, 7 - Houston Bellaire, 8 - Galena Park, 9 - Ysleta, 10 - Odessa Permian.

Class AAA — 1 - Brownwood, 2 - Kingsville, 3 - Carthage, 4 - Lamar Consolidated, 5 - Andrews, 6 - Nederland, 7 - Corsicana, 8 - San Benito, 9 - Gainesville, 10 - San Antonio Lee.

Class AA — 1 - Sweeny, 2 - Jacksboro, 3 - Brady, 4 - Anson, 5 - Denver City, 6 - Dayton, 7 - Terrell, 8 - Hebbroville, 9 - Fort Stockton, 10 - Lancaster.

Class A — 1 - Albany, 2 - Anahuac, 3 - New London, 4 - Rio Hondo, 5 - Farwell, 6 - Wink, 7 - Mt. Vernon, 8 - Stinnett, 9 - Forney, 10 - Sealey.

There have been five great eras of Texas schoolboy football — Waco, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Lubbock and Abilene. These schools won multiple championships, were absolutely dominating for a period.

Waco was the pioneer. Under the late Paul Tyson, Waco entered the Texas Interscholastic League in 1922 and was in the finals for six straight years, winning four state championships.

In 1927 Waco set the all-time scoring record — 784 points in 14 games. That team still is rated among the best of them all. Corpus Christi Ray of 1959, Abilene of 1955, Odessa of 1946 and Wichita Falls of 1958 are others that crowd into the picture when the best is considered.

The 1961 season just might put another team up there to make it a half-dozen in the top echelons of memory.

Old Ft. Davis Falls Away—Day By Day

FORT DAVIS, (AP)—Last year the hospital building at the old cavalry post here fell down. Part of the quartermaster building caved in recently.

One by one the buildings of old Ft. Davis, called by the Interior Department one of the "most typical" of the still-standing frontier forts, are crumbling away.

Most Ft. Davis residents feel a sense of urgency in pushing a drive to preserve the post. Legislation has been introduced seeking to make the fort a national historic site.

"I've seen the fort destroyed since I've been here," said Barry Scoobe, a resident of more than 40 years.

Scoobe, peace justice, historian, short story writer and former newspaperman, came here in 1917. The fort had been intact at the start of this century but was losing ground to vandalism and decay when Scoobe arrived.

"Half the houses in Fort Davis (the town) were built with lumber from the fort... at least the older ones," he said.

Some businessmen already have noted an increase in tourist traffic here, which they attribute to introduction of legislation to preserve the fort.

The area has other tourist attractions. It is about halfway between Carlsbad Caverns and Big Bend National Park, and is near Davis Mountains State Park, McDonald Observatory, Monahans Sandhills State Park and the caverns of Sonora.

Ft. Davis, established in 1854 for protection of frontier dwellers against the Indians and rebuilt after the Civil War, was vacated in July 1891.

General Store Still Lives In Roxton

PARIS (AP)—New-fangled shopping centers that advertise everything you want under one roof raise little stir in Roxton community, population 620, west of Paris.

Miss Nettie Whipple's General Store has been doing that kind of business for years. Since 1919, as a matter of fact. Same location.

Miss Nettie reckons she has one of the oldest general merchandise stores in these parts, if not the oldest. It can be dated back to 1889, when her father helped G. J. Hackleman operate a similar business.

When she opened her Roxton venture Jan. 1, 1919, general stores weren't anything out of the ordinary. Through the years, though, most of the others have closed or began specializing. Now Miss Nettie is something of a rarity among Red River Valley businesswomen.

She'll tell you right off that she isn't operating some kind of a historical marker. Like other businessmen, her intent is to show a profit.

And if you have a mental picture of an old country store with a half-inch of dust on everything, forget it. Miss Nettie's store keeps pace with the new merchandising methods, new shelves, displays and the like.

The air of nostalgia is there, nevertheless.

Underneath the front counter is the old tobacco cutter she once used to lop off chewing tobacco by the nickel's worth. She still handles chewing tobacco, but it comes already cut and packaged by the plug now.

Then there's the old vinegar pump on the back wall. She bought vinegar by the barrel and sold it by the jug.

Either the tobacco cutter or the vinegar pump would be worth considerably more than their original cost now as collector's items.

Miss Nettie does all her own buying and bookkeeping. She keeps a close watch on the stock, and never throws anything away. Her mistakes in stock buying somehow have a way of becoming valuable as antiques a few years later.

She wondered if she'd ever turn that batch of cedar buckets—until one lady spotted them and bought three for flower pots, and a farmer picked up two for use on his own well. Didn't like to drink out of metal buckets.

Over in the corner there are churns and churn dashers, milk strainers and milk buckets, curry combs and water kegs, and old fashioned coffee pots. Well buckets and pulleys. Coffee mills, kerosene lamps and globes.

Times have changed, though.

"Where we used to sell churns, milk buckets and chicken feed to the farmers," Miss Nettie offered, "we now sell them their milk and eggs and fryers. Not many folks keep their own cows and chickens. It's easier to get it at the store."

The general merchandise business has changed, too. She still keeps piece goods and bolts of gingham, but the best market is for ready-made things Her shelves are lined with hats, shoes, overalls and jeans.

"We used to buy our flour by the barrel. Molasses, vinegar, baking powder, too," she recalls. "Lot cheaper. Harder to handle. All this fancy packaging now adds to the cost but folks seem to want it."

One of the antiques in the store is a big clock she got for buying a barrel of baking powder. It's the winding kind, and an electric clock now keeps time above it.

Her chat was interrupted while she hunted up a rubber heel for T. McGrew of Roxton. She found it.

Miss Nettie has seen the good days and the slow days of Roxton. She saw the town shift to meet the railroad, and watched its cultural economy change with years. The depression days her, too.

"Credit business has lost thousands of dollars," she says. "People mean well, but some they just don't ever get up to paying up."

Maj. Gen. Yancey Visits A&M Camp

Maj. Gen. Thomas R. Yancey, commanding general of the 2nd Army Corps, with headquarters at Austin, was the guest of the 90th Infantry Division at Camp A&M, where he met with Brig. Gen. Clifford J. Simmang and other commanders of the Army units in Bryan Tuesday. Yancey had lunch with Rudder, who also is a major general, commander of the 90th Infantry Division. Simmang and was escorted to A&M.
