

Study Completed On TV Practices

"How much time do our students spend watching television—what effect, if any, does this have on home study—what television shows do children prefer—what are some of the problems of home study?"

These questions have been placed before Dr. Paul Hensarling, head of the Department of Education and Psychology, by Cecil Nabors, principal of the Crockett elementary school in Bryan.

Hensarling sent out questionnaires on the subjects and the answers were printed in the September issue of the Texas Parent-

Teacher magazine. The article by Hensarling was titled "Make Mine Local."

The returns show that television shows which the children prefer and those their parents prefer that they see and hear are completely different.

About half of the parents select or restrict the types of television shows their children see and hear; 85 per cent of the parents require a priority for homework before television, radio or other entertainment is allowed.

Some said a requirement is not necessary and the children place the priority themselves without any rules by parents; 24 per cent of the parents have "trouble" getting their children to do home study; 96 per cent of the parents help their children with their home work.

Requirements of a certain amount of "time" for home study is equally divided, Hensarling's article points out. An hour is the usual amount of time; however, 20 per cent require more than an hour—and 25 per cent require less than an hour.

Six County Agents Win Service Honor

Six Texans have been named recipients of the National County Agricultural Agents Association's highest honor—the Distinguished Service Award for 1961.

They are John D. Brazzil, Randall County; Charles R. Brown, Franklin County; W. C. Palmeyer, Motley County; Horace C. Stanley, Taylor County; William T. LaRue, Anderson County, and Doyle L. Moore, Colorado County.

The agents, nominated by the Texas association, were confirmed by the national group, according to Phillip S. Nix, chairman of the Texas Awards Committee and county agent of Houston County.

Nix said the awards are presented annually to a select group of the nation's county agricultural agents who have, over a period of years, made outstanding contributions to agriculture and rural living.

Presentation of the awards to the national honorees will be a highlight of the national association's annual meeting scheduled Sept. 10-14 in New York City.

AN UNPAID TESTIMONIAL

Richard the Lion-Hearted says:

I would never have surrendered England ...if I'd had Jockey support

C'mon, Rich! You're rationalizing. Jockey support might never have secured you against the Emperor. But it certainly would have provided snug protection against the physical stresses and strains of your active life. Your armor never tailored a coat of mail more knowingly than Jockey tailors a brief—from 13 separate, body-conforming pieces.

1. Other "imitation" briefs (copies of the original Jockey brand) have no more Jockey support than a limp loin cloth.
2. Richard the Lion-Hearted, 1187-99, surrendered England and a huge ransom to secure his release from Henry VI.

Get the real thing. Look for the name Jockey on the waist band

Bryan Air Reserve Squadron Made 9412th Recovery Unit

The Air Force reserve squadron at Bryan has been designated as the 9412th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron under the command of Lt. Col. W. O. (Bill) Davis, Information Officer Lt. H. L. Meredith has announced.

The mission of the recovery unit will be to provide recovery assistance for the Air Force in the event of attack. The primary purpose of the 9412th is to provide safe landing sites for military aircraft in the event of destruction of major military airfields in the central Texas area.

Military planners anticipate that many US Air Force bases may be damaged or destroyed in event of attack to the extent that some aircraft returning from combat missions may be unable to land at their home stations or pre-planned alternate fields.

Under the new Air Reserve Recovery program, the 9412th would provide emergency landing facilities and sites for continued operations. Recovery units at emergency sites would furnish communications, crash and rescue service, refueling, transportation, medical care, food service, emergency maintenance, billeting and a security force.

The recovery unit has manning positions in personnel, administration, operations, weather, aircraft maintenance, civil engineering, fire protection, supply, air police, medical and radio operators and repairmen.

The unit is one of 200 recovery squadrons located at various points in the US which in the event of an emergency would become operational at the site of location. The unit is authorized 24 pay periods in addition to a 15 day active duty tour each year.

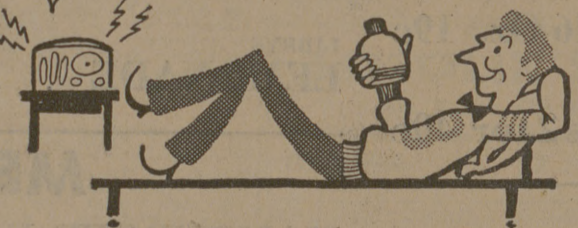

ARCHIE SAYS:

My cousin Archie—he thought the electric razor his gal gave him last Christmas was o.k. Then he tried Old Spice Pro-Electric, the before shave lotion. Now the guy won't stop talking, he thinks electric shaving is so great.

ARCHIE SAYS Pro-Electric improves electric shaving even more than lather improves blade shaving. ARCHIE SAYS Pro-Electric sets up your beard by drying perspiration and whisker oils so you shave blade-close without irritation. ARCHIE SAYS Pro-Electric gives you the closest, cleanest, fastest shave.

If Archie ever stops talking, I'll tell him I use Old Spice Pro-Electric myself.

SO DO I.

P.S. There's a .60 size but Archie gets the 1.00 bottle. (He always was a sport).
