Civilians Set Bonfire Chores

Making definite plans for civilian participation in this year's bonfire, the Civilian Bonfire Committee met Wednesday night in the lounge of Puryear Hall with the persons present.

Gene Anderson, civilian coordinator to the Bonfire Committee, said an all-out effort will be made to get full participation by civilian students this year.

The committee is set up in the following manner: Homero Candelas will be in charge of the stacking area; Bob Richardson will direct civilian activities in the cutting area; and other members of the committee, including Bryan McCool and Chris Galendo, will also conduct activity in the building effort.

"This will be carried out in normal bonfire procedure, and we want to stress that it is essential that the civilians come out to work the Saturday of Bonfire—all students not attending the game are requested to come out and work. Since the Corps Boys are going to be gone, it will be our job," said Anderson.

Cadets will be on a Corps trip to Houston, where the Aggies play the Rice Owls on Nov. 18, and no members of the Corps will be able to begin work until Sunday.

Civilians will be asked to guard the center pole Friday and Saturday nights; any civilian interested in working should contact his dorm president. Also, he should tell his dorm president what experience he has had on the bonfire. By Friday, Nov. 3, the list should be complete, and meetings will be called on the dorm level for all interested students.

The men will then elect their own crew leader from each dorm. This will give two weeks to organize.

TRENDS IN GOVERNMENT

SCONA Slate Shaping; Dec. 6 Opening Nears

Work on the Seventh Student Conference on National Affairs at Dec. 6-9 in the Memorial Student Center is progressing right on schedule in most areas, according to David Spencer, Conference chairman.

Senator Hubert Humphries, liberal democrat, has been confirmed as one of two keynote speakers selected in accordance with the conference program topic, "Trends in Government: Liberals and Conservatives." William Miller, chairman of the Republican National Party, has been extended an invitation to be conservative keynote speaker, but no answer has yet been received, according to Spencer.

Other prominent figures in liberal and conservative government are Gus Tyler and Laurie Battle, who will form a two-man panel to be presented during the three-day meet.

Tyler, a liberal, is director of education for the Ladies' Garment Union, and a representative of the AFL-CIO. Battle is former congressman from Alabama, and will take the conservative side of government.

On Dec. 8, third day of the conference, a five-man panel moderated by Congressman Olin E. Teague, democrat from Bryan, will present a discussion of governmental issues.

Other members of the panel will be Congressman B. F. Sisk, liberal democrat; Congressman William Jennings Bryan Dorn, conservative democrat; Congressman T. B. Curtis, conservative republican, and a fourth liberal republican as yet undetermined.

The conference is conducted on a seminar basis, with delegates from 80 colleges and universities in Canada, United States and Mexico participating. In special sessions, the delegates form into roundtable groups to discuss the five divisions of the program topic.

These sections are: The role of the federal government in labor-management relations; providing general welfare and social security; international affairs; protection of civil rights, and in education.

Outstanding men selected as roundtable chairmen include Dr. Rocco Paone of the United States Naval Academy; Capt. Jack E. Freeman of the Air Force Academy; Maj. George Tilson of the United States Military Academy, and Dean Alvin Price of the School of Veterinary Medicine at A&M.

Mario Romero Lopetegui, former mayor of Acapulco and former Mexican congressman, presently of Mexico City, will also be a roundtable chairman, with Fred Pool, manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, has been invited to be roundup speaker for SCONA VII. The outstanding editor and publisher was recently on the A&M campus to address the first meeting of the Century Council.

Weekend Highlighted By Ag-Baylor Feud

STARTS TOMORROW

Campus Chest Plans Revealed

The annual Campus Chest drive, sponsored by the Student Senate, will get underway tomorrow in Kyle Field with collection tubs placed throughout the stadium for contributions.

Official collections from the student body will begin Monday, Oct. 30, under the supervision of the dorm presidents and unit commanders. This year, plaques will be presented to all units and dorms with 100 per cent contributions, and a special bronze plaque will be given the group with the highest contributions per man.

In existence nine years, the Campus Fund has been handled through the Student Senate Welfare Committee, this year under the chairmanship of Johnny Anthis. This year's goal is $1 "from an Aggie, for an Aggie."

Consistent feature of the fund has been the Aggie Chest, which is used to assist fellow students who suffer a tragedy of some sort, such as an accident, fire or necessary operation.

Special effort is made to investigate each case, to assure the fact that the offer is needed and will not be offensive. During its nine years of history, the Campus Chest has brought much-needed help to many hundreds of Aggies who would not have received it otherwise.

Other agencies besides the chest benefit, also; 10 per cent goes to the Brazos County Tuberculosis Association; a second 10 per cent to the College Station Community Chest, and a third 10 per cent to the March of Dimes. The remaining 70 per cent is retained in the Aggie Chest.

V.A. Patients Guests At Baylor Game

More than 35 patients and domiciliary members of the Veterans Administration Center at Temple will be guests of the College and the Athletic Department at the A&M-Baylor football game tomorrow.

The patients, accompanied by nurses and Mrs. Margaret Wade, trip supervisor, will arrive shortly before noon and have lunch in Duncan Dining Hall. They will be met by P. L. "Pinkie" Downs Jr., official greeter for the College, in charge of local arrangements.

The guests will be seated along the cinder path in box seats on the west side of Kyle Field. Programs and refreshments will be served the guests and following the game they will have their evening meal at Duncan Dining Hall.

There are 1,200 patients at the Center at present. "This will be the sixteenth time the group has been our guests," Downs said.

Restricted Autos Pose Problem To Traffic Officers

Parking of restricted automobiles on private property by A&M students has become one of the major problems of the police department, College Station Chief of Police Lee Norwood said today.

"While cooperation of the student has been very good in many matters," Norwood said, "Some students whose cars have been restricted are not very particular where they leave them parked off the campus."

Citing a recent example, Norwood said a student parked his automobile in an area which interfered with the unloading of a truck. He added that blocking of driveways and entrances was not uncommon.

Clenn E. Bolton, patrolman supervisor for Campus Security, said that the students themselves are the determining factor in the restriction of automobiles. Each student who receives a ticket has the option of a 30-day restriction or a fine, if his car has been properly registered.

If the vehicle has not been registered or the student receives five tickets, the restriction is automatic. Students whose cars are restricted are not required to take them home but must leave them off the campus unless otherwise directed.

Ray Anthony Starts Activities

By TOMMY HOLBEIN
Battalion Managing Editor

With an event-packed schedule, the A&M-Baylor weekend will officially begin this evening in G. Rollie White Coliseum featuring "Ray Anthony and the Bookends", famous Hollywood and Las Vegas night club music and comedy act. The show will begin at 8 p. m., and individual tickets will go on sale at 7 in the ticket booth of G. Rollie White for $2.50 each.

Following Town Hall, the Memorial Student Center Dance Committee will sponsor a "stereo dance" in the MSC Lower Level from 9:30 to 11:30, preceding Midnight Yell Practice.

At 11:30, the traditional home game Midnight Yell Practice will be held in Kyle Field, according to Jim Davis, head yell leader.

Next official event on tab will be drill Saturday morning for all members of the Corps of Cadets in their assigned areas.

Saturday afternoon, the Aggies meet the Bears in the 58th encounter of rivalry between the two schools. The first game was played in 1896, with an Aggie win, 33-0.

Following the game, party-goers will have their choice of two dances, one in the Memorial Student Center from 9-12 p.m. in the Ballroom, featuring the Aggieband Orchestra under the direction of Bob Boone. The dance is free, and all are invited to attend.

A second choice is the "Tomb Room," sponsored by all Fourth Year Architect Design majors, to be held in Fellowship Hall on Tabor Road starting at nine Friday night. The annual Halloween party will feature the Joe Daniels Combo, at a cost of $3, stag or drag.

For those still seeking entertainment Sunday, the Memorial Student Center will kick off its Sunday Celebrity Series that afternoon with a program of Latin American music in the Ballroom.

The music will be provided by a group of A&M students known as the "Hot Peppers," starting at 2:30 p.m. Coffee, tea and soft drinks will be served.

Health Service Says Fallout Needs Watch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fallout levels from Soviet nuclear explosions thus far do not warrant undue public concern or drastic action, a U.S. Public Health Service statement said yesterday.

However, the statement added that present levels "do warrant continuous, intensive surveillance by federal, state and local governments and consideration of protective measures which might be taken if they should be found necessary."

The statement was issued as the health service began an extraordinary two-day meeting to consider what steps might be taken on all levels of government if fallout hazards become acute.

Attending the closed-door meeting were about 100 federal, state and local health officers representing every state. The health service said special problems that may develop in particular areas were receiving attention.

As the meeting convened, U.S. Weather Bureau officials said the cloud of initial fallout radiation thrown off by the Soviet Union's superbomb blast of Monday was rolling steadily across the North Pacific.

The main part of the cloud was (See FALLOUT On Page 4)

SCONA VII Shaping Up

David Spencer, chairman of the Seventh Student Conference on National Affairs, discusses current developments in preparing for the four-day meet with Tommy Holbein, publicity chairman. The conference will be held December 6-9.
