New Three-Story Gets Underway

A new symbol of progress in architectural education is taking shape with the construction of a new home for the Division of Architecture currently underway on campus.

The new $900,000 building is designed to house the facilities to educate the very same professions which will be involved in making it a reality—research, planning, architecture, landscape architecture and construction, said Theo R. Holleman, head of the Division of Architecture.

For years architecture students have climbed to the fourth floor of the Academic Building to attend lectures and spend hundreds of hours at the drawing boards. Research by architecture graduate students and faculty has been conducted in a building several blocks away.

With completion of the new three-story structure of marble, glass, steel and brick, the Division of Architecture will have 47,000 square feet of enclosed space in which to educate building and product designers of the future.

"The new home for the Division of Architecture will provide maximum flexibility in the arrangement of its design studio areas. By the use of specially designed movable partitions, various size spaces can be arranged to accommodate variable size sections in the different classes—freshman through fifth year and graduate students," Holleman said.

Excavation has begun for the new building at the corner of Bizzell and Ross streets, across from the Highway Research Center and Civil Engineering Building. Main entrance to the building will be on Bizzell.

The front entry will feature a landscaped courtyard and opens into a large exhibition area for student work and traveling exhibits. Also on the ground floor, space is provided for the architecture library of approximately 12,000 volumes, an auditorium, administrative offices and conference room and storage area.

The auditorium, containing approximately 200 seats, will have special equipment for lighting effects, slide and movie projectors for visual aids used daily in instruction. It will also be the scene of the division's guest lecture series.

The second and third floors will have identical floor plans, housing 12 design studios and an equal number of staff offices. A classroom for lectures will be on each floor. Even lighting for the studios will be provided by a solid bank of

ANYONE ELIGIBLE

SCONA Delegates' Nominations Open

Prospective delegates to the Seventh Student Conference on National Affairs will be interviewed this week through Friday from 3 to 6 p.m., according to J. Wayne Stark, director of the Memorial Student Center.

A committee, made up of college faculty and staff members who are on the Memorial Student Center Council or SCONA VII advisors and one student from the MSC Council, will interview the prospective delegates.

Any student at A&M, either on the graduate or undergraduate level, is eligible to be nominated as a possible delegate. However Stark said students of junior and senior level were preferred, but graduate students are also eligible to be nominated.

The number of delegates has been increased from last year's 16 to 24 this year, with 16 students from the United States and eight foreign or international students participating from A&M, Stark said.

Students can be nominated by either the faculty, Department of Student Affairs or be self-nominated. Boxes are available to enter nominations in the Housing Office, Office of the Commandant and in the Memorial Student Center.

Anyone who accepts a nomination should make an appointment in the Memorial Student Center Director's Office, either in person or by phone. The number is VI 6-8722, Station 12.

Dr. K. C. Yeh Issues Talk Canceled

Dr. K. C. Yeh, Chinese ambassador to the United States, will not be able to make his scheduled appearance here tomorrow night as announced by the Great Issues Committee.

A release by the committee said it hoped Dr. Yeh would be able to make his presentation at a later date.

Filing For Freshman Offices To Begin In MSC Tomorrow

Freshman filings for elections open tomorrow, and members of the Class of '65 may begin filing for the following offices: president, vice president, secretary treasurer, and social secretary.

Also to be elected are four student senators and five men to the election commission, and filings for these positions are open to freshmen.

Requirements for class offices and election committeemen state that any applicant must have a 1.0 overall at mid-semester, and for student senators, a .5 overall grade point ratio is required.

Filings will close Nov. 2, and all grade point ratios of candidates will be checked through the Registrar's office for authenticity. The primary election will be held Nov. 30, and the runoff is set for Dec. 12.

The primary election will be conducted through use of voting machines located in the hallway between the bowling alley and the fountain room in the Memorial Student Center.

All freshmen interested in filing for election to any positions available should register in the Student Program Office in the Memorial Student Center.

TB Christmas Seal Fund Drive Begins

Annual Christmas Seal letters from the Brazos County Tuberculosis Association started being delivered Monday to over 12,500 county residents.

A&M students, who will also receive the letters and seals, are automatic donors to the TB fund drive through the Aggie Campus Chest.

Four Brazos County children, to be admitted to the state TB hospital this week, have made the campaign's slogan "Protect The Family Circle."

Mrs. Hickman Garrett Jr., chairman of the drive, said money from the Christmas Seal program will be used by the local TB association to pay for the services that help protect other Brazos County families from contracting tuberculosis.

She said that there are presently 25 families in the area disrupted by the disease. She said that a number of these 25 families have two and three members with tuberculosis.

TOWNHALL GOERS ENCHANTED

Grateful Audience Demands Encores Of Symphony Group

By TOMMY HOLBEIN
Battalion Managing Editor
Presenting a program of eight musical selections, three of which were unscheduled but demanded encores, the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Victor Alessandro, entertained Town Hall goers for over two hours last night.

Starting at 8 p. m. in G. Rollie White Coliseum, the performance of the noted orchestra, established as one of the outstanding symphonic organizations in the nation, opening with "Roman Carnival Overture, Opus 9" by Hector Berlioz.

The number filled the coliseum with an initial English horn solo through an exciting tarantella, and ending in a tornado of swirling woodwinds, brass, and percussion.

Second selection of the orchestra was Antonin Dvorak's "Symphony No. 5, 'From the New World, Opus 55.'" The symphony, written while Dvorak was in the United States, gave the composer's impression of U. S. landscape and culture.

Elements of Negro and American Indian origins were identifiable through the number, but the composed also included Slavonic phrases from his native Bohemia.

"Til Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks, Opus 28," was third number of the performance, written by Richard Strauss and musically describing the adventures of a favorite folk-hero of the middle ages.

Day Students Plan Council Election

Doug Schwenk, president of the Civilian Student Council, announced that the election of Day Student Council members, to include the day student representatives to the CSC, will be held tomorrow. Students may place their ballots at one of three places, the Veterinary School Library, the Housing Office and Parking Lot No. 1, located behind the Geology Building.

Written in memory of a great Russian composer, the fourth number was "Elegy In Memory Of Serge Koussevitsky, Opus 44." by Howard Hanson. The Russian composer came to the United States to assume leadership of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, where he conducted from 1924 to 1946.

Final listed selection was "Rhapsodie Espagnole" by Maurice Ravel, divided into four movements. The first was a nocturn, soothing and exotic; next, a Malaguena, followed by a "Habenera," employing interesting effects on the harmonics of strings. The final movement was a vigorous "Feria," describing the excitement of a Spanish public fair.

Called back for a first encore, Alessandro presented Mr. L. Williams, professor of composition at the University of Texas, who conducted the orchestra in one of his compositions, a march.

The second and third encores were selections from "The Nutcrackers Suite" by Peter Tchaikovsky.

UT STUDENTS REPRIMANDED

Ginger Dead; Apologies Flow

By The Associated Press
AUSTIN—University of Texas students and officials began a series of apologies yesterday to Baylor University for nine pranksters who killed a Baylor mascot bear cub in a kidnaping attempt. The 9-month-old bear cub, named Ginger, died last Thursday night when slugged with a wrench during the kidnap plot. Ginger was one of a set of twin cubs. The other, Pepper, was unharmed.

Dean of Student Life Arno Nowotny said the nine culprits met Monday afternoon with members of a special committee of student leaders, faculty members and athletic department officials, known as the rally committee. That group made three recommendations:

1. That the nine appear today at 10 a.m. before a university disciplinary committee of three faculty members and two students "for serious disciplinary action."
2. That student leaders go to Waco to make a public apology to Baylor students for the death of the mascot.
3. That University of Texas

President Joseph R. Smiley be asked to issue a statement to the effect that any similar actions by Texas students in the future would result in immediate suspension of those students.

Nowotny said he could not release the names of the nine students.

The Dean said no date has been set for the public apology in Waco but "at least 25 wires of apologies" went to Baylor yesterday. Nowotny said those making the apologies included coach Darrell Royal, team co-captain Mike Cotton, the director of the Longhorn band, the president of the student body and other leaders.

Nowotny said the agreement of the nine students to make complete restoration by buying Baylor a new set of twin cubs has nothing to do with the university leaders' actions and was made voluntarily by the youths involved.

Meeting on the Baylor campus at Waco, a committee headed by Dr. W. C. Perry, dean of men, drafted three demands on Texas representatives. Perry's assistant and three students joined in deciding the steps to be asked.

The Baylor group called for 1) repairs to the university's bear pits costing $25. 2) payment of $125 for handling and training new cubs and 3) two new bear cubs.

Dr. Perry's committee said the replacements must be twin black cubs born in captivity and under eight months old. The group set next March 1 as deadline for their demands to be met.

The Baylor dean said his committee does not want to press charges against the Texas students but reserved a final decision until it earn what disciplinary steps are taken against them in Austin.

The story of the Bear's kidnaping and death was told Nowotny Monday morning by an attorney representing the nine students.

Nowotny listened behind closed doors, then referred the matter to the special group that handles university discipline. The dean said he would not reveal the names of the nine involved.

Here's the dean's account: The nine decided Thursday to kidnap one of Baylor's two cub mascots—an almost annual plot by one or another of the Southwest Conference schools.

Football spirit was high on both campuses as Baylor challenged Texas' No. 1 national football ranking.

The students broke the lock to the Baylor bear pit and enticed Ginger outside and put a chain on her. They avoided her more troublesome twin, Pepper.

The kidnap plot was perfect until one of the collegians and Ginger tried to climb a fence together. Both became tangled in the chain. Ginger became angry and the boys panicky.

"They hit Ginger over the head with a wrench to calm her down. The blow killed her," Nowotny said.

Ginger's body was buried near Waco. The next day the students consulted the attorney.

Pepper appeared at Saturday's game, growling and seemingly more upset than usual. The Bay-
