"SCONA," said one of the 160 delegates to the four-day meet, "certainly got off with a bang."
Yes, and with a stab and a slash and a cut, too.
We attended both plenary sessions the opening day and heard Liberal Sen. Humphrey, the Democrat from Minnesota, and Conservative Sen. Hruska, the Republican from Nebraska tell a capacity packed Memorial Student Center Ballroom "Why I Am A Liberal (Conservative) and Damn Glad I'm Not A Conservative (Liberal)."
The senators probably didn't sway many in the audience to their side (we went in a Conservative and came out a Conservative), but they did (1) clarify their meanings of Liberalism and/or Conservatism, (2) point out what Liberals and Conservatives are doing now to help solve the Nation's and World's problems, thus providing SCONA delegates with a heap of fuel for today's round table meetings, and (3) told enough funny stories to make sure everybody left the sessions friendly.

Sen. Humphrey used to teach a course in political science at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. He told the audience this.

"Politics," he said, "is a very unstable business; you never know when you might be looking for a job. So I like to keep reminding people I can do something else—especially people like President Rudder who hire college profs."

One thing's for sure—if Sen. Humphrey were lecturing (even on political science) you would have a hard time going to sleep in his class.

Sen. Hruska on free hospitalization for the aged: "I sincerely hope the (medical care) bill doesn't pass in its present form. If it does, even Joseph Kennedy with all his millions left over from last year's election, will be eligible for free hospitalization.

"... the present medical bill won't work, for it is wicked, it is bad—besides not being good."

Just a guess, but the man who makes out the menus in the dining halls must be a Conservative. The senators ate noon chow Wednesday at Duncan. "Bullneck" was that good "bohunk" sausage.

Hruska, (whose name in Czechoslovakian means "pear," is national vice president of the Western Bohemian Fraternal Association.)

CADET SLOUCH

by Jim Earle

"There's no doubt about it... SCONA certainly has stimulated interest in politics!"

— Sound Off —

Mr. David Spencer, Chairman, SCONA VII:

It is with great pleasure that I send greetings to the students, faculty and guests gathered for the seventh Student Conference on National Affairs at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

I think these conferences have great value to the students who participate. It is of even wider value that our college students express intelligent concern about the important political, domestic and international issues which face us, and that they have created a forum for an informed interchange of ideas and philosophy.

I said in Seattle last month, "We shall need all the calm and thoughtful citizens our great universities can produce, all the light they can shed, all the wisdom they can bring to bear."

My best wishes for a fruitful conference.
