

Pros Top Draft Choices Battle In United States Bowl Sunday

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR. WASHINGTON (AP) — "We don't have the big names, but we've got the boys the pros want—the ones they drafted."

Jim Castiglia, former Georgetown and Washington Redskin fullback, was talking about his bowl game—the U. S. Bowl.

The U. S. Bowl will match draft choices of the East division of the National Football League against those chosen by teams in the West division in D. C. Stadium Sunday. The game will be televised nationally.

"For the average person," said Castiglia, U. S. Bowl president, "there are only four or five big names each year. After that he gets lost. To a large extent our teams were picked by the professional talent scouts—the men whose business it is to know good football players."

Workouts began Wednesday in freezing weather.

Quarterbacking the East team will be Galen Hall, star of Penn State's Gator Bowl winners, and Bobby Hunt of Auburn.

Directing the attack of the West squad will be George McKinney, who played for Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl, and Bobby Ply of Baylor.

Other stars expected to play Sunday are Arizona's Joe Herranz and Bobby Lee, Clyde Brock of Utah State and Benny McKea of Michigan.

The game is sanctioned by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and players taking part

Aggies Drop First SWC Game, 64-59

Arkansas' Razorbacks proved too much for a fighting A&M quintet last night in Fayetteville as the Aggies held the SWC's top scorer, Jerry Carlton, to only 12 points but his teammates took up the slack to win, 64-59.

All of Carlton's points came in the first half, but it was the top-notch shooting of the Porker's Tommy Boyer and Jim Wilson that proved fatal to the ill-fated Aggies.

The Aggies' All-America, Carroll Broussard, appears completely recovered from a back injury that bothered him earlier in the season my Smith and Bennie Lenox each had eight points to their credit.

Once again it was the free throws that killed A&M's chances for their seventh victory of the season. The Cadets could manage only 17 of 34 charity tosses for a cold 50 per cent while the Hogs were hitting on 24 of 29 free throws for a hot 80 per cent.

In the field goal department, the Aggies had 21 and Arkansas was one behind with 20.

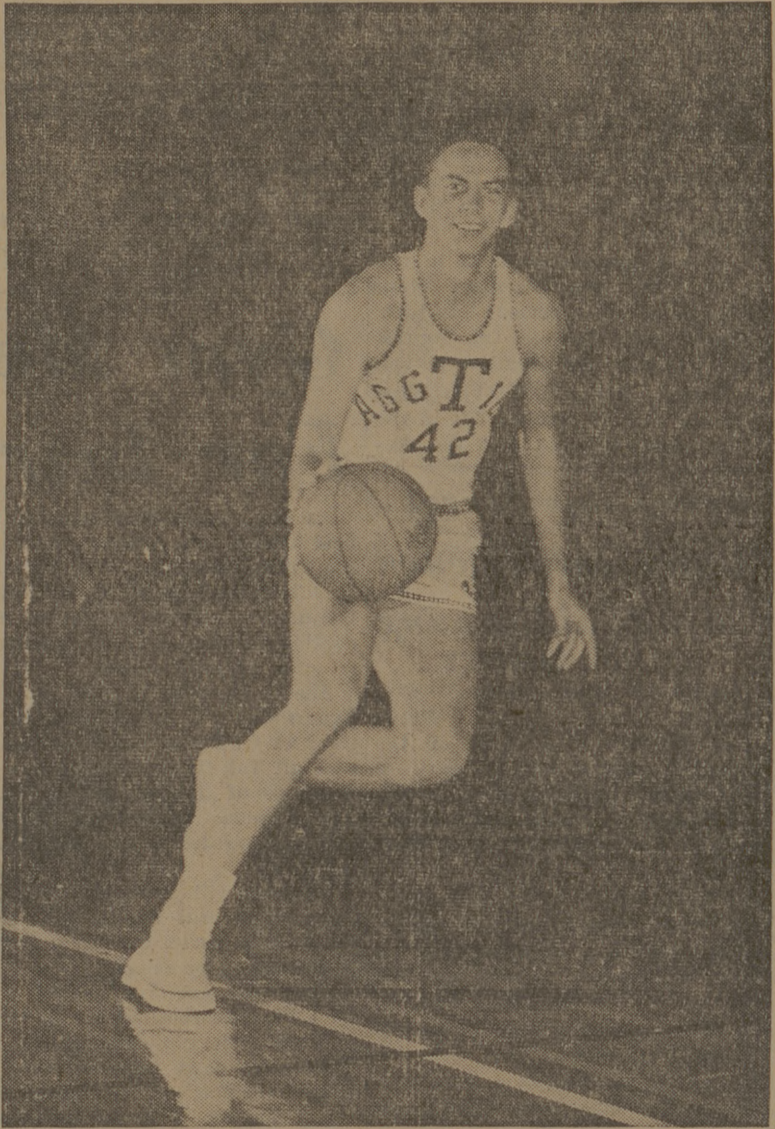

A crowd of over 5,000, the largest of the year at Fayetteville, witnessed the game that sea-sawed back and forth until seven minutes remaining in the first half when Carlton hit on two free throws to put the Hogs ahead 18-16—a lead that the Aggies never regained even though they tied the game three more times.

At the half, the Porkers led 26-24 and the Aggies were very much in the game, but during the second half, Arkansas pulled away in the clutches on fine, alert plays by Larry Wofford and Wilson.

With only eight minutes left in the second half, A&M's Ron Durbon sank a driving layup and the Aggies were behind only one point—47-48. The Razorbacks quickly made nine points before the Cadets could manage another point.

It was the ninth straight victory for Arkansas and their first in Southwest Conference play. The Aggies have a 6-4 record for the season and are 0-1 in SWC competition.

The next game for the Aggies is Saturday night at G. Rollie White Coliseum when they play host to the defending SWC champions—the Texas Tech Red Raiders.
