No Secrecy

When the State Department and the Pentagon come to blows, State usually wins the battle and the American people usually the losers. The latest example: The administration has acknowledged that it is being forced to reconsider the strict secrecy it has imposed on the launching of satellites.

On orders from the White House, the Air Force has been guarding its launching with great care. This policy—designed to protect U. S. advances in space technology against Soviet theft and exploitation—is now going to be tossed out the window by President Kennedy to conform with a United Nations resolution calling upon all countries to furnish information on new objects launched into orbit.

And who sponsored the U.N. resolution? You guessed it: The United States, through the State Department.

Just before the resolution was placed before the U.N. on Nov. 27, the Air Force was wisely ordered by the White House to take even stricter security precautions in its satellite launchings. But nobody told the men in Foggy Bottom about this new tightening of security.

Now that the U.N. has passed the resolution, the administration has decided to "revise" Air Force policy to bring it in line with the resolution.

The New York Times reports that officials in Washington regard the resolution as binding and intend to abide by it, "even if other governments did not do so."

It is dangerous to toy with the country's security this way. To permit the State Department to call the shots on matters properly belonging to the military, and to disclose to the world—through the U.N.—such vital information are disastrous policies.

The President has asked the people for patience and confidence. Who can have either with policies like these?

by Jim Earle Connally Plans Vigorous Campaign For Governor

Somebody tore my class schedule off th' door! How will I ever remember what courses I'm signed up for?"

HOUSTON (AP)—John Connally, former secretary of the Navy, said Thursday he will begin an extremely vigorous campaign for governor within a few days.

The Fort Worth attorney also told a press conference he will run the governor's office himself if he is elected.

Connally had been asked for comment on reports Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will have great influence in the governor's office if Connally is elected.

"I will be the governor," Connally replied. "I myself made the decision to seek the position."

Connally formerly was Johnson's campaign manager when

Johnson sought the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960. "I'm a friend of the vice president and I hope he is a friend of mine," Connally said. "I'm a friend of many people in this state, but this does not mean he (Johnson) or anyone else is go-

LUCKY STRIKE presents:
LUCKY STUFFERS
"THE INTELLECTUALS"

"It's Yoga—I willed myself up here!"

"... but think of it this way, Gwen, I'm here, and Lord Byron isn't."

"I tried to be a beatnik, but I couldn't grow a beard."

"To lose one's individuality is to lose the meaning of life itself!"

IF YOU'RE AN INTELLECTUAL, be thankful you're living at the right time. The climate of our contemporary culture is sympathetic to new voices, new ideas. The new age of enlightenment explains, among other things, the popularity of Luckies on college campuses. Deduce this yourself: Enlighten up a Lucky. As its heady aroma swirls about you, reflect on this profundity: College students smoke more Luckies than any other regular.

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!
