

Vet Dean Participating In Tropical Medicine Study

Dr. Alvin A. Price, dean of the school of Veterinary Medicine, will be in Bethesda, Md., tomorrow through Friday as a participating member of the Tropical Medicine and Parasitology Study Section of a National Institute of Health.

The 17-member study section is a branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It comprises a group whose technical specialty is tropical medicine and parasitology.

Dr. Jack A. Dabbs of the Department of Modern Languages has been named president of the American Name Society. ANS is an affiliate of the Modern Language Association of America.

At a recent meeting in Chicago, Dabbs attended the annual seminar on the use of the laboratory for teaching languages.

Six A&M faculty members have collaborated on papers that were presented in Chicago at the Winter Meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

They are: E. T. Smerdon, associate professor in the Department of Agricultural Engineering; K. R. Tefertiller, assistant professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and R. E. Kilmer, data processing programmer. Their subject was "Using Electronic Computers for Least-Cost Land Forming Calculations."

W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer, subject — "Design of Farm Feed Processing Systems."

R. J. McGinty, of the Agricultural Engineering Department, subject — "Measurement and Analysis of Peak Human Stresses in and Around the Farmstead."

W. E. McCune is a professor in the Department of Agricultural Engineering. His subject is "The Use of Electric Heat in Rooting and Accelerating the Growth of Nursery Stocks."

Dr. Grady P. Parker and Dr. Paul Hensarling of the Department of Education and Psychology will attend a Texas school administrators conference tomorrow through Friday in Austin.

The session is the annual school Administrators Advisory Conference sponsored by the Texas Education Agency.

Dean of Architecture Charles Colbert of Columbia University will be featured on the American Broadcasting Co.'s "Meet the Professor" television program.

The former head of A&M's Division of Architecture will be aired Jan. 21 from 2:30-3 p. m.

Two Lectures Set Here During Week

Two lectures, one on large animal fission products and the other on soil problems in Israel, are on tap between now and next Monday in the Biological Sciences Lecture Room.

The first lecture, tonight at 8 p. m., will be on "Fission Product Studies with Large Animals." Speaking will be Dr. Marvin C. Bell, associate professor of animal husbandry at the University of Tennessee.

Bell's address will be sponsored by the Oak Ridge Traveling Lectureship Program.

Next Monday night Dr. Daniel Hillel, a research associate professor at the University of California, will speak on "Soil Problems in the Development of Agriculture in Israel."

Bell's research experience includes digestion and metabolism studies with cattle and sheep, urea and stilbesterol feeding to ruminants, fescue poisoning investigations and feeding value of wood molasses.

He is now research project leader of an investigation on "Radio-nucleides and Metabolism" at the University of Tennessee AEC Agricultural Research Laboratory at Oak Ridge.

Bell is a native of Kentucky. He received his B.S. degree in 1947 and his M.S. degree in 1949 at the University of Kentucky. His doctorate came in 1952 from Oklahoma State University.

Hillel was born in Los Angeles, Calif. His family moved to Israel, then Palestine, in 1932. His childhood was spent in Tel-Aviv. After World War II, he returned to the United States.

He attended Porter Military Academy (So. Car.) and Rutgers University, where he obtained his M.S. degree in soil chemistry. He then worked briefly in the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Kentucky.

In 1951, Hillel returned to Israel and participated in mapping soils of Israel, within the ministry of agriculture. In 1952 he joined a group of 12 and took part in the establishment of Sede Boker, a desert settlement.

Hillel lived there for three and a half years working on land reclamation, pasture development and general arid zone research. In 1954 he received a research grant from Hebrew University to study soil problems, and completed his Ph.D. thesis in 1956.

Ag Teachers Set Mid-Winter Confab

Area Three vocational agriculture teachers will hold their Mid-Winter Conference Friday and Saturday in the Memorial Student Center.

O. M. Holt, program co-ordinator and associate professor in the Department of Agricultural Education, said that about 100 high school teachers of vocational agriculture are expected to attend.

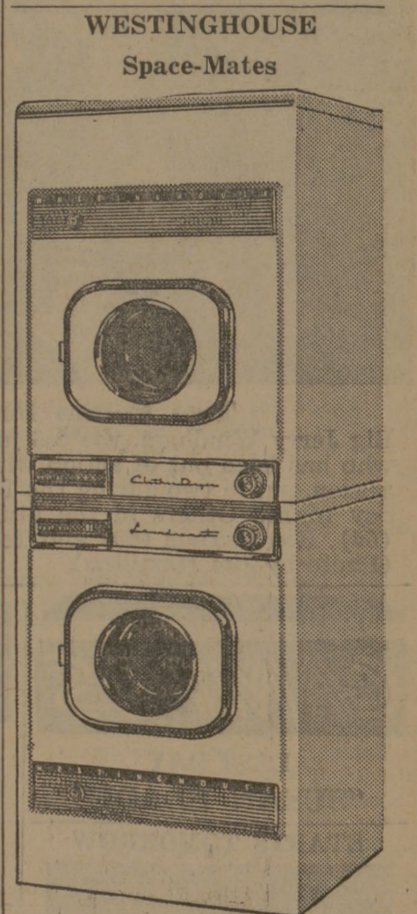

The first day's program begins at 1 p. m. with registration, followed by an address of welcome by Dr. R. E. Patterson, dean of agriculture.

Other speakers the first day are E. L. Tiner of the Vocational Agriculture Division, Texas Education Agency, Austin; Clemon Montgomery, executive secretary, Texas Association of FFA; James Morris, president, Texas Association of FFA; Gene Sollock, South Houston; James Moore, Willis; W. L. Davis, Texas City; Lester F. Buford of Houston, Area Three supervisor; and Alton Ice, executive secretary of the Texas Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association.

The second day, Dr. W. M. Romane, Department of Veterinary Medicine, will discuss new drugs and minor operations for farm animals. Dr. W. C. Ellis, A&M biochemist, and U. D. Thompson, Extension Service beef cattle specialist, will outline new developments in livestock nutrition.

Selecting and marketing beef cattle will be explained by George Garretson and Bill Oliver, adult education specialists at A&M.

CHEVY II NOVA

A top-down picture in January? Sure! We simply couldn't wait to show you the easiest-to-own Chevrolet Convertible you ever flipped a top over! Get a load of that broad-loop carpeting, the elegant instrument panel, and the leather-like vinyl on those bucket seats* up front. We call it Fisher Body finesse. What else will you find? Plenty of zip, for one thing, from a sponky 6. Plenty of room, too. And the ride's firm, but ever so gentle, thanks to new Mono-Plate rear springs. Go see how inexpensively your Chevrolet dealer can put some June in your January with Chevy II!

Chevy II was put to the test by the men who know cars best—WINNER OF THE CAR LIFE AWARD FOR ENGINEERING EXCELLENCE

*Optional at extra cost. Also available in Nova Sport Coupe.

See the new Chevy II at your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center.
