

Food Technologists Meet This Weekend

The Texas Section of the Institute of Food Technologists will hold its third annual technical session Friday and Saturday in the Memorial Student Center.

Dr. E. E. Burns, professor of horticulture and general program chairman, said the purpose of the meeting is to discuss problems and progress in the commercial production, handling and distribution of foods.

The first day's session starts at 1:30 p.m. with an address of welcome by Dr. G. M. Watkins, director of agricultural instruction.

Other subjects and speakers are "Relationship of Color to the Palatability of Pork," by Z. L. Carpenter, R. G. Kauffman and R. W. Bray of the Department of Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois and the University of Wisconsin; "Why Isn't More Lamb Consumed?" Randall Stelly, A&M Department of Agricultural Economics; "Evaluation of Consumer Preferences Among White-Pan Breads by Means of Consumer Panel Tests," Robert Branson and Bob Davis, Department of Agricultural Economics.

Others are "Factors Affecting Quality of Southwest Spanish Peanuts and Peanut Products," Davis Sharon and Raymond Reiser, A&M Department of Biochemistry and Nutrition; "Quality Factors of Shelled Pecans," Fred Brisson, A&M professor of horticulture, "Bioassay and Microbiological Methods for Determination of Vitamin B-6," Stella Wilkes and L. R. Richardson, A&M Department of Biochemistry and Nutrition.

Also, "Density Measurements on Milk and Milk Products," R. R. Wilson and Carl Vanderzant, A&M Department of Dairy Science; "New Rice Dinners," Wathena Shine, Blue Ribbon Rice Mills, Houston; "Changes in Processing Quality of Freeze Damaged Oranges," Bruce Lime, U. S. Fruit and Vegetable Product Laboratory, Weslaco; "A New Principle of Physical Separation," Cottonseed Products Research Laboratory, Texas Engineering Experiment Station.

A banquet is set for that evening at 6:30. Dr. G. W. Adriance, re-

May Be Released

Candy Barr, celebrated queen of strip tease, who is serving a 15-year prison term at Huntsville on a possession of marijuana charge, may be released this year. Friends of the curvy blonde say they hope to see her freed this summer.

Retired A&M professor of horticulture, will talk on "A Look at Present Day Yugoslavia."

Discussions get underway the second day with "Construction of an Artificial Flavor," by C. T. Dreschel, C&D Flavor Company, Houston; "Long-Term Dietary Management of the Post-Gastroctomy 'Dumping Syndrome,'" Adelle Pittman, Nutrition Clinic, VA Regional Office, Houston; "Methods of Checking Spoiled Food Samples," Jeannette White, American Can Company, Houston; "Effects of Nutrients on the Degradation of Cholesterol by Certain Soil Microorganisms," Harold Lewis, James Davis and G. E. Peterson, University of Houston.

12 MILLION VISITORS DUE

Seattle Readies For Big Fair

(Editor's Note—Staging a world's fair is one thing. Finding accommodations for the inrush of visitors is another. In Seattle, as the great day approaches, few people are busier than the official room hunters.)

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—You can, if you think you must, bring your horse to the Seattle World's Fair. Expo Lodging Service will find it a place to stay, with hay.

Locating a stable for a mount—the Burley, Idaho, sheriff's posse which will appear on the fair program, for instance, is bringing 35 horses—or a boarding kennel for a pooch—are among the simpler problems for Expo Lodging. It's the fair's housing agency, charged with finding you a spot to lay your head while you're here.

Expecting up to 12 million heads, Expo is pressing a day and night search for pillows to match. In a city of 600,000, that's a lot of extra pillows. More than 360,000 room-nights have been reserved so far—about a tenth of the total available.

The staff of 60, due to be doubled, sorts its mail into three stacks and calls them rush, urgent and frantic.

As the April 21 opening of the fair nears, the urgent rush becomes more frantic. Some of the major hotels are booked solid to the Oct. 21 closing of the exposition.

Some apartment buildings will switch to hotel-type operation. A British cruise ship, the Dominion Monarch, has been leased locally and will be a hotel, accommodating about 1,500 people. Negotiations are under way for other vessels which can be docked a short distance from the fair grounds.

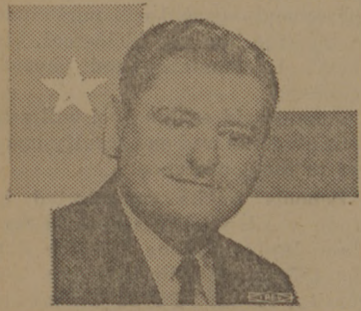

Some University of Washington fraternity and sorority houses will double this summer as hosts to fair visitors. Rooms in some private homes will be available.

Ralph Lee, director of Expo, says housing prices have increased to some extent but rarely more than 10 to 12 per cent—about the same as during the 1961 tourist season. Many hotels are maintaining their regular price scales.

Expo charges no fee for its services. Almost all housing facilities are under Expo control.

Expo has covered the matter with printed application forms to be distributed by auto clubs, hotels, motels, gas stations, airlines, travel agencies and other outlets. But you need is a postcard, say, when you're coming, how many your party, and what kind of accommodations you'd like in what price range, and Expo will get to work.
