

Data Processing Director To Attend Austin Meeting

Prof. Robert L. Smith, director and meat processing plants in Panama.

Uvacek's assignment is to develop information on livestock availability, seasonal changes in production, physical plant requirements and the economics of consumption and distribution of meat.

He will participate in a panel discussion on future development of university computer centers and speak on "The Master's Degree Program in Computer Science" at the meeting.

The project is under the direction of the Agency for International Development and is for an eight-week period. Uvacek will leave for Panama on April 14.

Dedication of the University of Texas' new $497,000 Computation Center, which houses latest model electronic computers, will be held at noon, April 27.

Byung Don Lee, a graduate student from Pusan, Korea, has been awarded a summer fellowship for graduate study at the Friday Harbor Laboratories of the University of Washington.

Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M College, has been chosen to represent the U. S. State Department as economic livestock consultant to the Republic of Panama.

Lee, who is a graduate student in oceanography, will attend the summer course under a $605 National Science Foundation grant.

The specialist will work with livestock producers and the Ministry of Agriculture to determine the economic aspects of slaughtering

He will study zooplankton ecology and phytoplankton ecology at the oceanography laboratory of the University of Washington during the summer term.

Two Students To Serve As Missionaries

Two A&M students have been chosen by the State Baptist Student Union Summer Missions Committee to serve as summer missionaries from June 16-Aug. 20. They are Andy Olivares, who will go to Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, and Don Davidson, who will go to Hawaii.

Andy Olivares is a junior agricultural engineering major from Reynosa, Mexico. He is an active Baptist student serving on the newly elected Baptist Student Union Executive Council as chairman of the International Student Committee. This summer his work will mainly be Vacation Bible Schools, preaching, and youth camps.

Don Davidson is a junior history major from Corpus Christi. During his three years at A&M he has been active in the Baptist Student Union, serving in several positions of leadership. He is the new president of the Baptist Student Union Executive Council. This summer he will work in youth camps and in youth-led revivals in Hawaii.

These two students will be part of about 30 students going to mission fields. Their work will be financed by funds raised by Texas Baptist students.

Workshops Enroll 45 Professors

Forty-five professors from 22 departments are enrolled in teaching aid workshops now underway here.

Conducted by the Department of Education and Psychology, the workshops demonstrate the use of the overhead projector and other equipment and materials.

The sessions began Tuesday and will be continued through Saturday.

Dr. Paul Hensarling, head of the Department of Education and Psychology, said 15 persons from the Police Instructors School, also underway on the campus, are attending the workshops.

He said that in addition to overhead projector instruction, the sessions include discussions on the use of diazo-master preparation, projectal preparation, lettering-fototype-headliner, polarized projectals, reversal techniques, photocopying and non-projectuals.

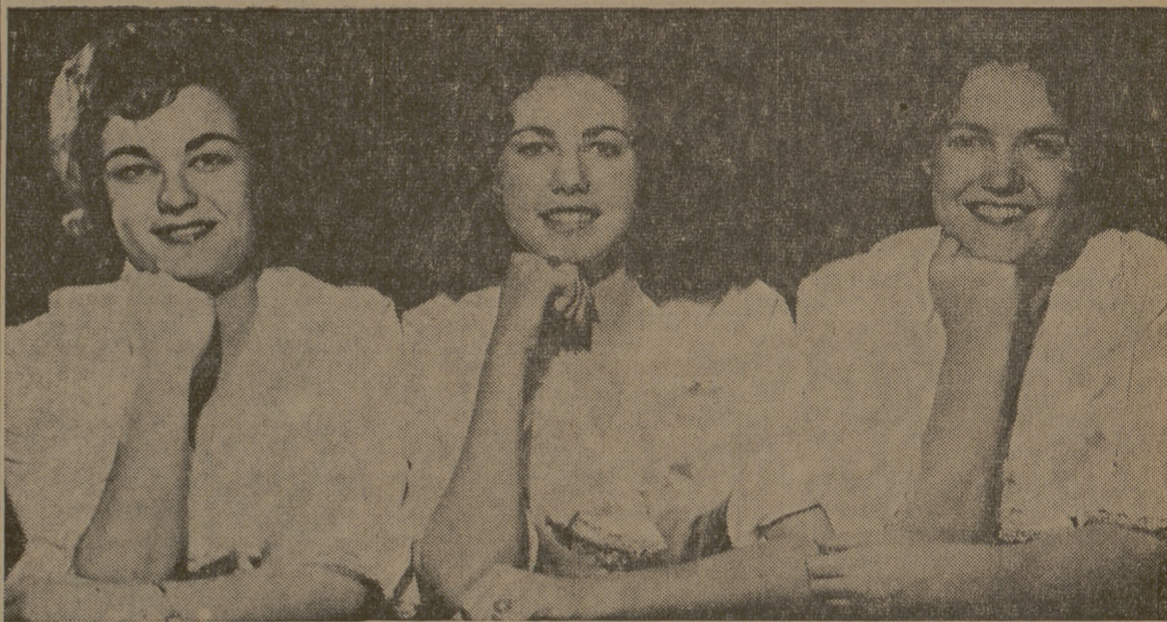

Clifton W. Darby, educational consultant for the Tecnifax Corporation, is providing equipment for the workshop.

YMCA Officers To Be Installed

YMCA officers for the 1962-63 school year will be installed at a steak fry to be held in Hensel Park at 6 p.m. Apr. 30.

Officers elected at the cabinet meeting last Monday night are president, Don Willis, '63; vice-president, Joe Chapman, '64; secretary, Lanny Jackson, '64; treasurer, Curtis Morton, '64; program chairman, Wally Echols, '63; and advisory board representative, Garry Rudder, '64.

Bob Kennedy Orders Probe Of New Steel Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Thursday night he has ordered a grand jury investigation into the new round of steel price increases.

Kennedy made the disclosure in response to questions about a statement by U. S. Steel Corp. Board Chairman Roger Blough that his firm had been subpoenaed before a grand jury.

A spokesman for the Justice Department issued Kennedy's statement to newsmen several hours after Blough defended U. S. Steel's action in a televised New York news conference.

The attorney general's statement said the grand jury probing the price rise will be convened in New York. He did not say when.

The attorney general had watched the first few minutes of Blough's television rebuttal to administration criticism and refused to comment at that time.

His confirmation that the Justice Department would seek grand jury action in the steel price boosts came after day-long reports and speculation that Justice Department lawyers were studying possible court action.

An antitrust action against "Big Steel" was described as one of several possible moves under review as a result of the sudden wave of price increases in the steel industry.

President Kennedy's top aides gathered at the White House to survey the possibilities of action in the courts and in Congress.

Kennedy, who denounced the price rise initiated by U. S. Steel as "wholly unjustifiable and irresponsible," sat in during the last quarter-hour of the 45-minute meeting.

The emphasis afterward was on orderly deliberation. Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, replied in the negative when asked if any direct action can be expected shortly.

"These things take time," Hatcher said.

Hatcher left unanswered a question as to whether there are any solid reasons for the White House to believe there might yet be a cancellation or rollback of the $6-a-ton rise in steel prices.

But in a low-key statement of Kennedy's views, Hatcher told newsmen he thought it safe to say the President would like steel prices to remain as they were when the recent new labor contract was signed.

Shortly after Hatcher spoke, the National Steel Corp. announced in Pittsburgh it was joining the parade to higher prices. The firm announced a $6-a-ton increase starting Friday.

With Senate and House committee investigations already shaping up, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic majority leader, told reporters, "The time for talking about the price increase has passed—the time for action has come."

Economist Charges Public Education Needs New Ideas

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A leading economist charged Thursday that public education is a backward industry, urgently in need of new ideas, techniques and approaches.

Theodore O. Yntema, former professor and a vice president of the Ford Motor Co. since 1949, said the vast new demands on the schools cannot be met merely by spending more money to expand what we are now doing.

He told the National School Boards Association, convening here, that the solution lies in greater efficiency, in providing more educational value per hour of time and dollar of cost.

Yntema said the times call for a committee for educational development, along the lines of the Committee for Economic Development which was established early in World War II by a group of American business leaders.

Such a committee on education, he said, should be small enough and select enough to work effectively.

"It should serve primarily to take a grand view, to gather and appraise the results of specialized research, to distill the essence, and to put the weight of its prestige behind its selection of the best and wisest and most urgently needed policies."

School board members, he said, "are the very people to assert the leadership that is needed."

Two approaches to the "man's deodorant" problem

If a man doesn't mind shaving under his arms, he will probably find a woman's roll-on satisfactory. Most men, however, find it simpler and surer to use Mennen Spray Deodorant. Mennen Spray was made to get through to the skin, where perspiration starts. And made to work all day. More men use Mennen Spray than any other deodorant. How about you? 64¢ and $1.00 plus tax
