

The New York Yankees pitching combination of Whitey Ford and Luis Arroyo just about cost the Detroit Tigers the American League pennant in 1961. They had a 7-0 record against the Tigers, who missed the pennant by eight games.

MSC Display Will Honor Class Of '12

A display honoring the Class of '12 will soon be placed in the archives case located near the bowling alley in the Memorial Student Center, according to Ernest Langford, archivist of A&M Archives on the third floor of Cushing Memorial Library.

The Class will hold its 50th anniversary reunion here May 3-5. A special feature for that class will be a ledger containing merit notations recorder when members attended A&M.

Langford, professor emeritus of architecture, formally headed the Division of Architecture. A member of the Class of '13, he has continually been associated with A&M for over 40 years.

The college and the Former Students Association, joint sponsors of the A&M Archives, appointed him archivist in 1957.

Poultry Judges Enter Southern Regional Contest

The A&M Poultry Judging Team will leave for the Southern Regional Poultry Judging Contest at Knoxville, Tenn., on April 23. Dr. C. B. Ryan, team coach, told the Poultry Science Club last week.

Only once have A&M Poultry Judging Teams placed below fourth. The 1961 Senior Poultry Judging Team placed seventh out of 14. Eight teams are expected to compete in Knoxville.

Ray Stanford, Stanley Glaser, James Glaser and Melvin Young will represent A&M. Stanford served as alternate on the 1961 Senior Team, and Young as alternate on the 1960 Junior Team.

Showmanship Entries Completed

Entry books for the Little Southwestern Showmanship Contest were closed last week.

The contest, set for May, will be an evaluation of the showman, who will be judged on the way he has prepared his animal for the show and his ability to show the animal in the ring.

The animals will be drawn for this week and the contestants will start trimming and training them to show immediately. Many of the country's best showmen will be competing in the contest.
