Moore, Dewey Reelection Bids Spark Local Scene

Bids for reelection by Senator W. T. (Bill) Moore and Representative B. H. Dewey Jr. have highlighted campaigning in Brazos County for the upcoming Saturday primaries.

Moore and Dewey, both Democrats, are being challenged by Marion C. Pugh, a College Station businessman, and advertising executive David G. Haines, respectively.

The Democratic party has the local primary practically all to itself. Republican County Chairman Herbert Shaffer, running unopposed for reelection, is the only man entered in a local race by the GOP.

In the Senate race, Moore is seeking reappointment to the position he has held for the past 14 years. Pugh, a former star football player, is venturing into politics for the first time.

The incumbent, a practicing local attorney, is a former member of the House of Representatives, a position he received just prior to graduation from the University of Texas Law School.

Pugh is a director of the General Security Life Insurance Company and a member of the Board of Directors of the Texas Retail Lumbermen's Association.

In both races coeducation at A&M has been a primary question, with all four candidates officially stating that they favor admitting women to the college.

Pugh has been the only to qualify his beliefs, saying that he personally favors the change but would not pressure the college's Board of Directors into a decision.

Both Moore and Dewey are putting considerable campaign emphasis on their past interests and accomplishments, while their challengers have been advocating a change in Brazos County's representation.

The only other contested race on the local scene is for district clerk, where four have filed for the position left vacant by F. J. Cole.

On Saturday's ballot will be Mrs. Cecyle Howard, the only woman listed on a primary ballot; W. D. Burley, chief deputy to the tax assessor-collector; S. C. Lobbello, manager of a Bryan furniture store; and Johnny Johnson, justice of the peace in precinct four.
