AMONG THE PROFS

Zingaro, Isbell Get AEC Uranium Research Grant

A $20,000 Atomic Energy Commission grant for research important to purifying uranium ores and radioactive metals has been awarded to Dr. R. A. Zingaro and Dr. A. F. Isbell.

The chemistry professors will use the grant for continuing a research program for the AEC that has been underway since June 1960.

Their work is concerned with the chemistry of phosphorus, arsenic and antimony. Compounds derived from phosphorus have played an important role in the separation and purification of uranium ores and radioactive metals produced in nuclear reactors.

Zingaro said they will be concerned with the preparation of new compounds of these elements—including phosphorus analogues of natural amino acids, metal salt and halogen complexes and studies concerning their molecular structures.

Dr. Tyrus R. Timm, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology and extension economist at A&M, has been named to head a public affairs seminar team which will go to Europe in June primarily to study the common market.
