'62 Blood Drive Donations Ended

The annual Aggie Blood Drive ended Thursday with a collection of 211 pints of blood to be put into the blood bank. This represents the largest amount of blood to be collected in recent years and compares favorably to the total of 172 pints which was collected last year, according to Johnny Anthis, chairman of the Student Senate student welfare committee.

With the conclusion of this year's drive, the student blood bank, which is being established this year for the first time, will become a reality.

Under this program all donors and their immediate families will be able to draw blood from anywhere in the United States through the auspices of the Wadley Research Center, which will replace any blood taken from another bank. Nondonors may also receive blood from the student blood bank upon approval of the student welfare committee.

Student who donated their blood in this year's drive should receive their blood type cards from the Wadley Research Center in about two weeks.

The research center will now be in charge of storing the blood and holding it for future use. All blood which is not used by the student blood bank at the end of a one-year period will be given to leukemia victims and used for research.

Research scientists from the Wadley Center study blood diseases of all types with major interest placed on blood cancer, hemophilia and various anemias. The center exists solely from gifts, research grants and services rendered.

Supervising the collection of blood in this year's drive, which was held in the lower level of the Memorial Student Center, were nurses from the Wadley Center.

Army Rocket, Equipment Due Here Sunday

An Honest John rocket and a number of other pieces of Army combat equipment from Fort Hood will be on display here Sunday, as Armed Forces Week opens.

The display is scheduled to arrive in time for viewing by persons attending the Corps Review scheduled shortly after 9 a.m., and will be left in place on the street between the Coke Building and the Main Drill Field until 2 p.m.

An Air Force flyover of planes during the review also is planned as part of the local observance of Armed Forces Week.

Serving as local project officer for Armed Forces Week observance is Col. Frank L. Elder, professor of Military Sciences and Tactics.

The display planned here will include, in addition to the 12-foot Honest John rocket, such items as an air surveillance drone, infantry weapons and radio equipment. Lt. Col. T. A. Hotchkiss, operations officer of the Department of Military Science said.

Provence To Speak At Journalism Fete

Harry Provence, a Waco newspaper executive, will be the principal speaker at the A&M Journalism Awards banquet here Saturday.

The event will be held at 7:30 p.m. at El Chapultepec Restaurant. Provence, editor-in-chief of News papers Inc. of Waco since 1954, will discuss "Profession: Journalism."

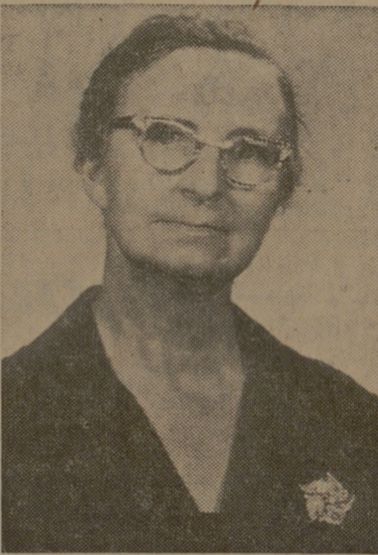

A graduate of Baylor University, Provence joined the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald staff in 1937 and assumed duties as editor in 1951.

Active in professional newspaper organizations, Provence is a member of the Century Council. At the banquet, five awards and four scholarships will be presented to outstanding journalism students in the department.

The honors include awards by the faculty for scholastic achievement, Wall Street Journal student achievement, Sigma Delta Chi's outstanding graduate, junior and sophomore students.

Scholarships will be given by the Texas Gulf Coast Press Association and Wildlife Institute. Two grants will be presented to students majoring in agricultural journalism.

Attending the banquet will be students and wives or dates, members of the faculty, administration and news media representatives.

Review To Honor Mother Of Year

By T. S. HARROVER
Battalion Staff Writer

Preparations entered the final stages this week for the upcoming Parents' Day weekend. Visitors expected to number in the thousands will converge on the campus from all parts of the United States and from various other countries to watch as the Corps' outstanding cadets and units receive honors and awards.

Included in the weekend activities are the National Intercollegiate Rodeo in the College Rodeo Arena Thursday, Friday and Saturday; the Aggie Follies production in Guion Hall Friday and Saturday, and the Mothers' Sweetheart Dance Saturday at 9 p.m. in Sbis Hall.

Schedule of events for the Parents' Day Ceremonies, Sunday, calls for the Flower Pinning Ceremony in the cadet dormitory area at 8 a.m. conducted by unit commanders and their mothers or dates, and presentation of best drilled sophomore and freshman awards.

Also at this time, the units will present their commanders with appreciation awards. Commanders will receive "Commander's Keys" from their tactical officer in this ceremony.

At 8:50, the Corps will assemble for a review honoring Mrs. Lottie Neumann, Aggie Mother of the Year, and the presentation of unit and individual awards on the main drill field.

Outstanding cadets in each class will receive awards from various groups and organizations.

The outstanding first class cadet will receive the Albert Sidney Johnston Saber, presented by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The outstanding second class cadet will receive the Caldwell Trophy, a watch, presented annually by the Caldwell Jewelry Store, Bryan.

The outstanding third classman will receive the Federated A&M Mothers' Clubs of Texas Award, a bronze cup and key.

The outstanding fourth classman will receive the Outstanding Freshman Cadet Award, a medal, presented by Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant of cadets.

Among the many other awards to be given to outstanding individuals and units of the Corps are the General George F. Moore Trophy, the President's Award and the N. S. Meyer-Raeburn Foundation Award.

The Gen. Moore Award, a flag, plaque, citation cords and gold keys for the unit officers, is given annually to the cadet organization having the highest overall general rating, based on academic and military proficiency, intramurals and extracurricular activities.

The President's Flag is presented annually by the college president to the Battle Group or Group with

Ring Dance Ticket Sale Ends May 18

Tickets for the annual Ring Dance will be available at the cashier's desk in the Memorial Student Center through next Friday from 9-4, according to John Waddell, president of the senior class. After Friday, tickets must be purchased at the door.

The Senior Banquet will be held May 19 in Duncan Dining Hall in the southwest wing. Tickets for the banquet are 1.50 each, and go off sale Wednesday at the cashier's desk in the MSC. Corps members should wear class A uniforms, and civilians may wear dark suits or tuxedos.

The Ring Dance begins at 8 p.m. in the main dining room of Sbis Dining Hall. Tickets for the dance are $4.75 per couple. Pictures will be $2.75 for two prints, and extra prints are available for 75 cents each. Students must buy tickets to get pictures taken, and the prints will be available by May 24 at the cashier's window in the MSC.

The orchestra for the dance will be Billy May's.

Liebhafsky Plans Research On Labor Required In South

Dr. E. E. Liebhafsky, professor of economics at A&M, has accepted a two-year appointment as visiting professor at North Carolina State College, beginning June 6.

He will participate in a study on "Economic Development and Manpower Requirements of the South," sponsored by the Twentieth Century Fund.

Liebhafsky will be responsible for projecting the labor force and manpower requirements in the 13 southern states to 1975.

The Twentieth Century Fund project, under the direction of James G. Maddox, associate director of the Agricultural Policy Institute at North Carolina State College, will focus attention on questions of economic development and utilization of manpower in the south because that region is still substantially below national levels in average income and output.

Aim of the study will be to evaluate basic changes taking place in the regional economy of the South and to estimate the extent to which future economic development will depend upon full utilization of all manpower, with particular reference to the Negro population of the South.

Liebhafsky has been on the A&M faculty since 1956. He has also served on the faculties of Pennsylvania State University and Western Reserve University. He served on the staff of the Region X Wage Stabilization Board during the Korean emergency. In the summer of 1961, Liebhafsky served with the Bureau of Employment Security, U. S. Department of Labor, in Washington, D. C.

Liebhafsky received his doctorate from the University of Illinois in 1950. His field of specialization is labor economics. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Gamma Mu and Omicron Delta Gamma.

WORLD NEWS

SAIGON, South Viet Nam—Communist gunfire has wounded two American fliers and hit four U. S. Army and Marine helicopters as Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara toured South Viet Nam's sprawling guerrilla war zones.

American helicopter crews ran into their toughest Communist resistance yet as they carried out support missions and airlifted Vietnamese infantrymen into battle Wednesday and Thursday.

MOSCOW — Premier Khrushchev claimed Thursday no American rockets had ever hit the moon.

The Soviet premier did not mention by name Ranger IV which the United States announced hit the far side of the moon April 26.

But he said: "The Americans have tried several times to hit the moon with their rockets. They have proclaimed for all the world to hear that they had launched rockets to the moon, but they missed every time."

U. S. NEWS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — An attempt to launch the world's first mapmaking satellite, a flashing-light sphere named ANNA, failed Thursday when the second stage of the booster rocket did not ignite.

Project officials said a second ANNA satellite is nearly ready for launching and they hope to send it aloft within a few months.

Only two satellites were approved in a modest program to test the feasibility of using orbiting vehicles as points of reference in space to help map the earth more precisely.

TEXAS NEWS

DALLAS — An airman from Fort Worth robbed a suburban Dallas bank of $9,337 Thursday and was arrested within an hour through the quick thinking of a newsman.

Police identified the man as William Luther Brown, 33, crewcut airman from Carswell Air Force Base, who was to be married Friday night.

He used the car of his fiancée's father in the clumsy holdup effort.
