

'Beau' Anticipating All-Star Reunion

"Beau" Bell Aggie, AL All-Star

Roy C. "Beau" Bell, former American League All Star baseball player, and Aggie baseball coach, who now works for the B&U department recently received an invitation to the 25th annual reunion of the 1937 American League All Star Team.

Bell, an A&M graduate, class of '31, was captain of the baseball team his senior year.

"That was the first year the Aggies had ever won a baseball conference championship," said Bell.

After graduating, he joined the Texas League, playing outfield and occasionally first base.

From the Texas League, "Beau" joined the St. Louis Browns in 1935. He also played for the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians.

Leading the entire league in base hits in 1937, Bell was named to the American League All Star Team to play in the annual League All Stars Game. The outstanding players in the American League were pitted against the outstanding players of the National League in this traditional game, which was played in New York's Yankee Stadium.

Fellow players in the memorable game were such immortal baseball names as Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, and Dizzy Dean.

received the injury which was to affect his playing so badly," said Bell. "He was struck by a fast ball and has claimed that his pitching has never been the same," he said.

"Beau" Bell was coach of the Aggie baseball team from 1951 to 1958. In 1951, the Aggies tied TU for the SWC championship, and in 1955, won it outright with a 20-7-0 season record.

During this period at A&M, he also found time to attend classes and complete requirements for the degree of Master of Administrative Education.

At the reunion, July 28, Bell will witness and participate in several activities, including the induction of 4 baseball greats, Bill McKechnie, Edd Roush, Bob Feller, and Jackie Robinson, into the Baseball Hall of Fame.

A short two or three inning game will be played in Yankee Stadium between the 1937 All Star teams and will be nationally televised as a part of CBS' "Game of the Week" series.

"I'm looking forward to that game up there," he said, "I've been out practicing some for it."

After the game, the veteran players will be feted at Toots Shor's.

"I'm looking forward too," said Bell.
