

College Hospital Among The Finest

The A&M College Hospital, which provides all of the health services for the students, is one of the finest and best equipped college hospitals in the Southwest. Facilities available include physical therapy, state approved laboratory and an X-ray department. These facilities are only a part of the various services that are provided for the student here in college who pays his health fee at time of registration. Students desiring immunization, desensitization injections, or certain other special treatments, will not be charged for the service, but will be required to supply the medication needed. The medical staff, under the direction of Dr. C. R. Lyons, includes specialists in the fields of medicine; surgery; ear, nose and throat and mental hygiene. The hospital also has a staff of registered nurses on duty at all times while the college is in session.

Prepare Thanksgiving Meal

A dining hall staff prepares one of the famous Thanksgiving dinners which is an annual feature of the dining halls. Meals for the students are prepared in well-equipped, clean kitchens, where enormous quantities of good food are consumed each day.

Serving Thousands Is Easy At A&M's Large Dining Halls

Can you imagine seating 4,000 persons in a single building and feeding them a family-style dinner three times a day, especially when those men must be finished with their meal and back in class in less than an hour?

This job is old hat to the staff of Sbis Dining Hall at A&M. At the same time, across the campus, another staff is preparing to accommodate up to 3,000 more hungry Aggies. Duncan Dining Hall is newer, and its modern facilities are among the best.

Sbis Hall, built in 1912, also serves as the place where many of the important social events, including all the class dances, the Military Ball and the Combat Ball.

About 200 full-time employees and about 200 student waiters prepare and serve the meals. Even with this cost of labor, food and equipment, it is the cheapest cost for board of any college in the United States today.

A student is charged only $1.50 per day for three meals. This is usually paid at registration time for each semester. The money buys the food, pays the labor, and covers other expenses of the dining halls.

Aside from the student board fee, the dining halls receive no federal or state aid, and are self-supporting.

During the regular semesters, good food is never lacking. The meals are served family-style, with the tables already set and waiting when the students arrive for meals. Waiters can usually fill the food containers until the hungry Aggies at his table have had their fill. Visitors on campus will find a hot meal waiting on them at the dining halls, too, and usually for less than a dollar. During the summer, with fewer students on campus, the meals are served cafeteria-style in Sbis, and have prices set on each food item. In any case, the objective of the dining halls is never to turn anyone away hungry.

WELCOME to AGGIELAND.

You'll want to tell the folks at home about all the exciting things happening here at Aggieland. A "personal" visit to your home can be made almost as quickly as you can reach the nearest telephone.

Yes, telephone service is faster and better than ever . . . and cheaper too. By calling station-to-station, you can make three calls for the price of two person-to-person calls. So reach for the nearest telephone, and you'll be "at home" in a jiffy.

Remember . . . for faster service at lower rates, call station-to-station by number.

Guion Hall Among Top Campus Shows

New students will find Guion Hall to be not only a place where meetings are held during New Student Week, but also a main source of enjoyment and relaxation here on the campus.

It has the distinction not only of being the largest, but also one of the few theaters located on a college campus.

Located between the Memorial Student Center and the Military Science Building, the theater, with a seating capacity of 1,925, is open Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the convenience of the students. A ticket costs only 40 cents as the theater is not set up to operate for a profit.

Best Films Available

The films shown there are the newest available and of the variety desired most by the students. The only drawback is that the films may not be shown here for at least 30 days after they have been in Bryan and College Station theaters.

Built in 1917 and put into use in 1919, Guion Hall was originally used only for meetings, speeches and plays. Not until 1941 was it converted into a theater for the students.

Previous to World War II, pictures were shown on Wednesday and Saturday nights in the old Assembly Hall. This was located on the site now occupied by the All-Faiths Chapel. In 1941 all of the equipment and facilities were moved to Guion and started operation daily.

Services Include Grove

Remodeling has been done recently which included the repairing and sand-blasting of the outside of the building and the remodeling and complete addition of a new men's rest room.

Wide screen viewing, stereophonic sound and the use of new projectors make inside the show very pleasant and modern. Also included for the students' convenience are soft drinks, popcorn and confections which are sold at the concession stand.

Any profit from the operation of the theater will go into new equipment, improving the present facilities and back to the student in the form of entertainment.

Many important speeches and presentations have taken place in Guion Hall. One of the many, which may be worthy of mention, was the presentation of an Honorary Doctor of Law degree to General Eisenhower. This was in April, 1946, on the Saturday before Easter Sunday.

Clothing, Laundry Pose No Problem

Entering freshmen will be interested to know that the clothing and laundry problem at A&M is a relatively simple one.

The student in the Corps of Cadets will have most of his clothing issued to him.

During Fish week, the entering freshman must go to the college laundry, where he will be assigned a laundry mark and told when and where he will deposit his soiled laundry.

After that, civilians and Corps units have regular laundry service, with the laundry being placed at a convenient pickup point. The cleaned laundry is brought back to that point again to be reclaimed by the student.

Jobs Are Available For Those In Need As Well As Loans

Lack of adequate cash should not keep any student from going to A&M. Many an Aggie has worked or is now working his way through college here.

The Office of Student Labor and Loans has jobs to fit every need.

The executive type jobs consist of greasing cars, mowing lawns, or trimming hedges. The clerical jobs that are available consist of washing dishes in chemistry labs, waiting on tables at the MSC, or working in one of the mess halls.

The pay for most part-time jobs commensurate with your ability as long as your ability is commensurate with the pay; however, usually runs 75 cents an hour and up.

Based On Need

Assignments to part time jobs are based on the student's need and sincerity of purpose.

Students who need part-time employment should file application with the student labor office. The type of job desired and the hours that are free in your class schedule should be noted on the application. Students are expected to maintain good scholastic standing to remain eligible for employment.

The Office of Student Labor and Loans also maintains a sizeable number of short-term, small loan funds.

Former Student Loans

The Association of Former Students also administers a series of loan funds which are available to every student who has been at A&M at least three semesters, and whose record in conduct and scholarship is satisfactory.

The amount of the loan depends on the student's need. There are other loan funds which are available to all students also.

Those needing extra cash can get information about such loans from the labor and loans office on the third floor of the YMCA Building.
