A new $1.5 million women's dormitory has been opened at Baylor for use this semester.

The 90,000-square foot structure will house 475 women, 75 per cent of them freshmen. It can also be converted to accommodate men, which the university plans when a new women's dorm is completed.

No name has been chosen for the new dormitory.

Enrollment at Baylor has already passed last year's total with a preliminary figure of 4,469. This figure was released before the registration of law students.

Last fall's total at the same time was 4,353.

'Howdy Week' opened Monday on the Baylor campus, but primarily for fraternity and sorority rush plans.

Along with the friendly atmosphere, social clubs planned parties, sweetheart selections and other festivities to welcome beginning students.

A reporter for The Baylor Lariat has recorded proceedings in an executive meeting of the school's Student Congress.

The unique arrangement was possible after the committee discussed the matter and then voted to allow the reporter to stay at the meeting.

Similar to A&M's Student Senate executive committee, Baylor's group hears arguments, discusses and, perhaps, re-writes all legislation to be presented to the congress.

Col. John P. Stapp, often called the "fastest man on earth," slowed down to deliver the main address at welcoming ceremonies for Baylor new students.

In 1954 Stapp rode a rocket-powered sled down a rail at a speed of 632 miles per hour. He then wrenched the vehicle to a stand-still in 1.4 seconds.

His sled rides were a forerunner of the U. S. man-in-space program.

LETTER TO DRIVERS

Careful Driving Urged Near Opened Schools

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is an open letter to Texas drivers distributed by the state Department of Public Safety to emphasize safe driving in school areas now crowded once again with school youngsters. The state agency also issued warnings for safe driving near school busses loading and unloading children.)

OPEN LETTER TO DRIVERS

Dear Mr. Driver:
Today my daughter, who is six years old, started to school. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar, black shoes and blue socks. Her cocker spaniel, Scott, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved goodbye.

Tonight, we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her... the little girl with the yellow curls and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces.

She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head... about the trees in the school yard and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things... tremendously vital, important things.

We studied spelling, reading and writing, and then to bed. She is there now, up in her room, sound asleep. And "Princess Elizabeth" (her doll) is cuddled in her arm.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, when her doll's finger is cut, or when a leg is broken, I can fix it. But when my little girl starts to school, when she walks across the street... well, then she is in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer, and darts about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride her tricycle and go for a walk with me on Sunday afternoon.

But I can't be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her clothes and education. So, won't you please look out for her and the other children.

In foreign policy, it permits the Kremlin to maneuver more easily on the issue of West Berlin's future. The Khrushchev regime uses outside threats for purposes of domestic policy, but Berlin may be too potentially explosive and too close to home to permit magnifying the crisis to the point of serious risk.

Cuba, on the other hand, is far away from the Soviet Union.

The Kremlin apparently feels it has the Kennedy administration in a painfully embarrassing situation, and the propagandists are making the most of it. Evidently the Communist high command hopes to profit by exploiting elsewhere in Latin America the notion that the United States is planning to attack Cuba.

On the home front also, the propaganda has important uses. It has the look of a carefully controlled scare campaign to persuade the Soviet public that nuclear war over the Cuban situation is possible.

Meeting Rooms Now Available

Student organizations and clubs may make applications for meeting rooms in the Memorial Student Center beginning at 8 a.m. Thursday, according to Mrs. Ann Keel, social director for the MSC.

Applications will be accepted in the social and education department of the MSC.

Medic Reasserts Belief To Continue Polio Drives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Luther L. Terry, surgeon general of the Public Health Service, said Tuesday "I don't believe there is any reason in the world for complete abandonment of plans for mass community immunizations

Reds Mount Propoganda To Aid Cuba

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
The Soviet Union has mounted a furious propaganda campaign keyed to the theme of Moscow support for Cuba.

This campaign suggests that Cuba has become a useful instrument of Soviet policy, both internal and external.

A week ago the Soviet government said U.S. activities with regard to Cuba "might plunge the world into the disaster of a universal thermonuclear war."

Ever since that statement the Soviet press has been full of the subject. Front pages carry pictures of Soviet goods being hoisted aboard ships bound for Cuba. There are pictures of worried-looking workers discussing the Kremlin views. There are many stories on the theme that the United States is preparing to pounce upon Cuba and a welter of items stressing Moscow's concern and gratitude being expressed by the Castro regime.

The drive has many facets.

It permits the Kremlin to maneuver more easily on the issue of West Berlin's future. The Khrushchev regime uses outside threats for purposes of domestic policy, but Berlin may be too potentially explosive and too close to home to permit magnifying the crisis to the point of serious risk.

Cuba, on the other hand, is far away from the Soviet Union.

The Kremlin apparently feels it has the Kennedy administration in a painfully embarrassing situation, and the propagandists are making the most of it. Evidently the Communist high command hopes to profit by exploiting elsewhere in Latin America the notion that the United States is planning to attack Cuba.

On the home front also, the propaganda has important uses. It has the look of a carefully controlled scare campaign to persuade the Soviet public that nuclear war over the Cuban situation is possible.

of children with Sabin oral polio vaccine."

Dr. Terry added in an interview that he feels it is "encouraging that many communities are talking in terms of postponement rather than abandonment, but there is no reason for postponement of campaigns covering children."

There is no objection to use of all three types of oral vaccine in numerical sequence at six-week intervals for children, he said. Types I and II should be used similarly for adults, he went on, with a decision later to be made locally on whether the adults also should be offered Type III.

Originally the service recommended that Type I be given first followed six weeks later by Type III and after another six weeks by Type II.

Terry explained this sequence was decided upon originally because Types I and III now cause most paralytic polio cases in this country, and there has been some evidence that Type II tends to become a dominant strain and might interfere with the effectiveness of the Type III vaccine if taken ahead of it.

"I have been disappointed at the reaction in some areas to the recommendation for a temporary halt in use of Type III oral vaccine for adults," Terry said, referring to the recess called after some cases of polio were associated with Type III vaccination of adults.

"In certain respects these programs mean that we are getting a better sight of the principal basic purpose of the polio immunization programs — the protection of pre-school and school children, our most susceptible group," he said.

"Adults have been included in the mass programs largely because it seemed this would get more children brought to vaccination."

Terry expressed belief a deal more can be learned concerning Type III and limiting the next few weeks, if no terminal date has been possibly ending the recommendation against use of that type of vaccine.

He said the service will continue the surveillance of the vaccine situation and intensity in some areas.
