Sabin Anti-Polio Program Cancelled

College Hospital officials joined Bryan-College Station medical advisors Tuesday night and decided to cancel Sunday's planned mass anti-polio drive with Type III Sabin oral vaccine. Definite action on the remainder of the three-stage program was tabled until other Texas cities make similar decisions. The action came after Canadian officials cancelled use of the vaccine because they feared it might be harmful to adults. This was then followed Thursday by a recommendation from the state advisory polio committee that use of all three types of vaccine be continued.

Traffic Death Mar New Year

Students were saddened to return for the fall semester and find that three and now four Aggies were killed in auto accidents during the summer. Wesley Paul Hudson, '64 from Houston, died Sept. 9 when his car went out of control and overturned on a highway in Arkansas. Walter C. Sanders, '64 from Fort Worth, was killed Aug. 13 in a one-car accident in his hometown. Robert J. Strange, '63 from Lubbock, died Sept. 12 in a Nevada collision that also killed three others. And a fourth report of a student death can be found on page one of today's Battalion.

Fall Enrollment Near 8,000 Mark

Preliminary reports issued Thursday indicate fall enrollment may be over the 8,000 mark for the first time since 1948. No definite figure is now available, but will be released early next week. The school's all-time high is 8,651 in 1946-47. Last fall's final registration total was 7,694.

A&M Consolidated To Admit Negroes

Federal Judge Joe Ingraham of Houston Monday ordered classes at A&M Consolidated integrated for the first time next September. The judge ruled that desegregating is to start in the first grade next year and advance one grade each year through 1974. All grades must be desegregated by 1975.

Consolidated Superintendent W. T. Riedel indicated no appeal would be filed and added that he expected little strife in the transition.

A ruling had been anticipated on a civil suit filed last year in the Houston court.

System Accepts Numerous Funds

Over $200,000 in grants-in-aid, gifts, scholarships, fellowships and awards was accepted Thursday in a meeting here of the A&M System Board of Directors. The board awarded $64,965 to A&M for scholarships, fellowships and awards and approved four new degree programs here. They were B.A. and M.A. degrees in government, the M.S. in laboratory animal medicine and the Ph.D. in education. Contracts worth more than $227,000 were also approved for A&M and Arlington State College.

Quarterback Club Now Organized

At least 120 persons have already joined the newly formed A&M Quarterback Club in the local area. The club held its first meeting Tuesday night, after which President Marion Pugh called the affair a "pleasing success."

Membership in the group will be limited to 150 and is expected to be filled in the near future.

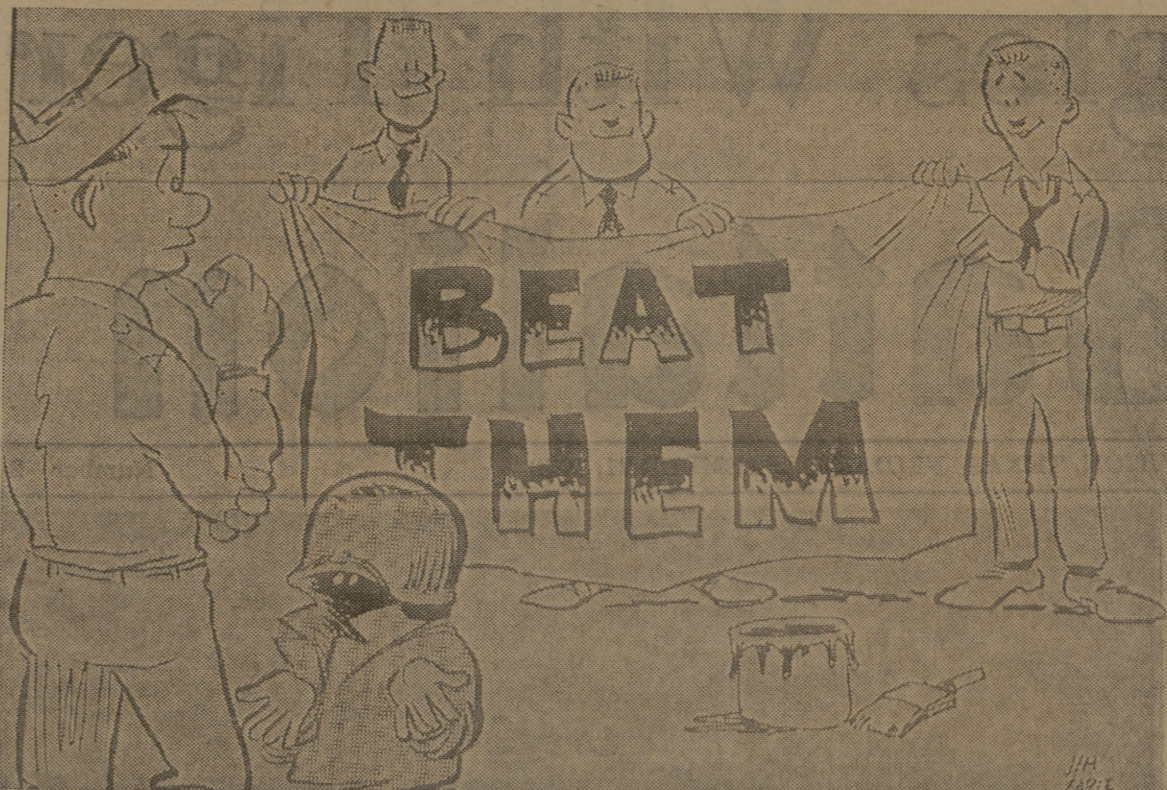

Columnist Morris Frank of Houston and Head Coach Hank Foldberg shared the spotlight in the first program Tuesday.

Hardesty Takes Leave Of Absence

W. D. (Pete) Hardesty, director of Entertainment and Recreation, has been granted a leave of absence to do graduate work at the University of Houston.

During his stay in Houston, Hardesty also will serve as a part-time staff member for Dean of Students Alan Johnson, at the University of Houston. His graduate work will be in education.

Hardesty, a member of the college staff since 1951, will return in the fall of 1963. His leave begins effective Sept. 1.

Possible Red Revolution Stopped Wall's Destruction

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst

It is not generally known, but the United States seriously considered knocking down the Communists' Berlin wall more than a year ago.

One reason it didn't was fear of a revolution in Red-ruled East Germany.

This presented the United States with the possibility of a terrifying choice: The West could intervene in an East German revolution to help it, and thus risk triggering World War III; or it could keep hands off and thus risk losing all of Berlin, all of Germany and a good deal more.

The U.S. dilemma at that moment brought home forcefully the need for advance planning to anticipate Soviet moves in the dangerous Berlin and German situations.

What should be done now to counter the next Kremlin move, which many believe will come before the end of the year?

The feeling among many informed Americans is that Soviet Premier Khrushchev cannot much longer defer action on his threat to sign a separate peace treaty with the Communist East Germans, which he says will automatically nullify Western occupation rights in West Berlin.

When Khrushchev in November 1958 issued his first ultimatum to the Allies to get out of West Berlin within six months—an ultimatum later withdrawn—some highly placed persons in the United States proposed that the Allies quickly declare West Berlin finally and irrevocably part of the West Berlin finally and irrevocably West German Federal Republic. It would be incorporated in the Federal Republic, and the Bonn government would be responsible for it.

Apparently Chancellor Adenauer was against such a move at the time, supposedly because he feared it would signal the withdrawal of the Western Allied occupation forces from the beleaguered city.
