

Program Planned For Job Hunters

To help the prospective A&M graduate with his job hunting is the object of a special program planned here Wednesday. The Placement and Special Services Office is planning the program at the Memorial Student Center and all graduating students are urged to attend either the morning session scheduled at 11 a.m. or the afternoon session planned at 4 p.m.

Each one, for the use of visiting employers." Current employment trends and operation of the Placement Service will be the principal topics covered at the group meetings Wednesday.

Horsley reported earlier that all available A&M graduates of the past academic year had found employment. "Our graduates enjoy an excellent reputation among employers," Horsley said.

Dinner Club Puts Deadline On Ducats

Last call for season tickets for the four 1962-63 dinner-dances of the Faculty-Staff Dinner Club is 2 p.m. Wednesday, according to Willard P. Worley, committee chairman. This is also the deadline for buying individual non-season tickets for the first event. Tickets may be purchased at the Main Desk of the Memorial Student Center.

The first dinner-dance will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in the MSC Ballroom. Dress is informal with Dick Baldauf's Aggieband Combo furnishing the music.

DR. E. L. STEELE

Steele Named New Research Chemist Here

Dr. Edgar L. Steele, formerly of Esso Research and Engineering Co., has been named associate head and chief scientist of the Activation Analysis Research Laboratory at A&M.

Dr. Richard E. Wainerdi, head of the A&M research facility, announced the appointment. Steele will also serve as an associate professor of chemistry here.

Steele has been a nuclear scientist in Esso research at Linden, N.J., since 1960. Before that he was a research chemist for Esso Standard Oil Co. at Baton Rouge, La., from 1958 to 1960. In this position, he was responsible for activation analysis activities of Esso.

His research has been mainly in the field of activation analysis as well as conventional analytical chemistry in such fields as paper chromatography, Wainerdi said.

Steele earned his B.S. degree in chemistry at Clemson College in 1952 and his M.S. degree in chemistry from Clemson in 1954. The University of Virginia awarded him the Ph.D. degree in chemistry in 1957.

Atomic Energy Grant Received

A grant of $17,800 has been made to the A&M chemistry department by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The grant will be used to equip a radiochemistry laboratory for teaching and research by Dr. Fred Scilio, associate professor of chemistry.

Texas A&M Graduate Returns From Hong Kong School

An A&M graduate has returned to the campus after four years of teaching in the Crown Colony of Hong Kong.

Charles K. Locke found teaching and life in the Far East a rewarding experience. He may return after completing a master's degree in education and is serving as a graduate assistant in the Department of Education and Psychology.

Locke received a Bachelor of Arts degree in education from A&M in 1955 and a commission as a second lieutenant in the Army. About a year later he met the young lady who was to become his wife. He had to go on to Korea, while she went to Hong Kong as a missionary.

He managed a trip to Hong Kong while on leave from his unit in Korea, and the couple became engaged. Later in 1957 he returned to the United States and was released from active duty.

Locke, who calls Del Rio his home, managed to get a job in Eagle Pass. Meanwhile, by his estimate, he wrote to the principals of "half the schools in Hong Kong."

In the summer of 1958 he went out to Hong Kong. A few days after his wedding, Locke assumed the post of a teaching master in St. Mark's School, an Anglo-Chinese grant-in-aid school in the colony. A "middle" school such as St. Mark's corresponds to the American high school. Locke taught courses in English, history and civics to ninth, tenth and eleventh graders.

The locale is a pocket of land—smaller than some Texas ranches—surrounded by the Chinese Communists. Despite this nearness to the Red Chinese, Locke found life in Hong Kong much like that of any large, cosmopolitan city. Perhaps the major difference is that a variety of languages are heard on the city streets. The Lockes enjoyed the varied cultural aspects of the city and attended performances by top musical artists from Great Britain.

The small Crown Colony is one of the most densely populated areas in the world, and the crowded conditions are the one thing Locke didn't like.

Among the inhabitants are several thousand American citizens. The Association of Former Students lists three Aggies as residents of Hong Kong.

The school where Locke taught housed approximately 700 students, Chinese residents of the colony, and a faculty of 35. The physical plant was similar to that of a school in the West.

The students no longer bowed to the teacher, as in elementary schools, but they rose when the teacher entered the room. The behavior of the students was one of the two things most impressive to Locke. The other was the motivation or drive of the students.

"The students are under terrific pressures resulting from the crowded conditions in Hong Kong are reflected in the attitudes of the pupils.

"The students are under terrific pressures to succeed," Locke said. "There is a very close relationship between passing the examinations and getting the job." Students completing elementary school must pass an examination to qualify for "middle" school. Those completing advanced classes must pass an examination given by the government to receive a diploma. Failure blocks further education and limits the young person's job opportunities.
