

Two Graduates, One Fish Capture Scholarships

Three A&M students won scholarships this past week amounting to $2,000. They were William W. Waggoner, Plainview; Benny B. Woolery, Fort Worth; both graduate students in business administration; and Donald A. Sweeney, '66, from the Hill Country community of Welfare.

Waggoner and Woolery are studying for their Master of Business Administration degrees and should complete all requirements in 1963.

Waggoner is an A&M graduate and Woolery is a Texas Wesleyan College graduate. They were recipients of $500 cash awards from H. B. Zachry of the H. B. Zachry Construction Co., San Antonio.

WOOLERY ATTENDED Arlington State College for two years and then transferred to Texas Wesleyan in September, 1959. He plans to continue his graduate studies through the doctoral level in preparation for a teaching career.

Waggoner completed two years of active duty as an army artillery officer before returning to A&M. Graduated in 1960, he was with Toby's Advertising Co. in Plainview for several months before going on active duty.

"We of the Division of Business Administration greatly appreciate the interest and support of Mr. Zachry," Dr. R. M. Stevenson, acting head of the division, said. He described such interest by citizens and business firms as vital to continued development of a graduate program attracting outstanding students.

Sweeney is one of 30 people awarded the $1,000 Stanley scholarship. The scholarships, as announced by Foster F. Goodrich, president and director of sales of Stanley Home Products, Inc., were awarded to eligible students who have a parent in the Stanley organization.

THE FRESHMAN is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sweeney of Welfare. His mother is a unit sales leader in the Austin Branch of the Stanley organization. Sweeney operates the Sweeney Radio and Clock Co., San Antonio.

Sweeney and other winners of the scholarship were chosen in competition governed by the rules of the College Entrance Examination Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test. He is majoring in pre-med.

He graduated from Comfort High School and compiled a high school record showing abilities in diversified fields. He was class president for three years, was graduated as the top student and received letters in football, basketball and track.

Veterans Will See A&M, TCU Game

More than 30 patients and resident members of the Veterans Administration Center of Temple will be guests of A&M and the Athletic Department for the football game Saturday between TCU and A&M.

The patients, accompanied by nurses and Mrs. Margaret Wade, trip supervisor, will arrive shortly before noon and have lunch in Duncan Dining hall. They will be met by P. L. (Pinkie) Downs Jr., official greeter for the college who is in charge of local arrangements.

The guests will be seated along the cinder path in box seats on the west side of Kyle Field. They will have their evening meal at Duncan Dining hall.

AMONG THE PROFS

Professor Named Editor Of Journal

Dr. Herbert H. Lang, an associate professor of history, is among 13 manuscript editors of the new "Journal of the West." A scholar of western history, Lang's special interest is in western mining operations.

The recently established journal has its headquarters in Los Angeles. It is a comprehensive, illustrated quarterly magazine devoted to western history and geography.

Dr. J. M. Nance, head of the Department of History and Government, said that Dr. E. Ramon Arango, instructor in government, and Dr. A. Ray Stephens, instructor in history, represented the department in two meetings last week.

Arango and Dr. Vance W. Edmondson, associate professor of agricultural economics, attended the San Antonio conference of ambassadors from the Organization of American States at Trinity University Friday.

Stephens attended the History of Western American conference at the University of Denver last week.

Three short, educational television films have been made by Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist at A&M. The films are "Texas Livestock Auctions," which discusses the growth of auction markets in rural areas; "Texas Cattle Feeding," which examines growth of the feeding industry in Texas; and "The Texas Packing Industry," which discusses the slaughtering industry in the state.

Dr. Nevin Weaver, associate professor of entomology, has been named to the editing committee for the National Science Foundation's forthcoming "Living Biology" film series.

Weaver is one of five scientists named to the committee to review and edit nature films photographed by Dr. Roman Vishniac of Yeshiva University, New York City. Vishniac is one of the nation's foremost nature photographers.
