Yank Gives Thanks For Second Chance

By JOE REICHLER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"Thank God for the second opportunity. Seldom does a man get a second chance. I'll be eternally grateful."

Ralph Terry's hazel eyes welled up and his voice choked as he spoke with deep feeling of his brilliant four-hit 1-0 World Series triumph over the San Francisco Giants Tuesday which brought another World Series championship to the New York Yankees.

"I'm the luckiest man in the country," said the 26-year-old right-hander. "This has to be the greatest game I have ever pitched. More than that, this is a personal triumph for me. It wipes away two years of worry."

The reference was obvious to most of the reporters crowding around the good-looking, slender Oklahoman. Terry has never forgotten his "goat" role in the 1960 World Series. It was he who threw a home run ball to Bill Mazeroski in the ninth inning of the final game that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the world championship.

'Perfect Ending' As Yankees Take World's Championship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"Oooh, I'm glad it's over. What an ending. What a perfect ending . . . 1-0."

Ralph Terry, who set down the San Francisco Giants on only four hits Tuesday in pitching the New York Yankees to their 20th World Series championship with a 1-0 victory, just sat back in his locker cubicle with a dazed smile on his face.

"It was the biggest thrill of my life," he said. "But 1-0—that's how close the teams were in every respect in this Series. The Giants are a great ball club."

"I'm sure glad he hit that ball right at somebody," said Manager Ralph Houk. "He couldn't have hit it much better. But I don't care how hard they hit them if they hit them at somebody," Houk said in the jubilation of the Yanks' dressing room.

Houk was talking about the rifle shot line drive that Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants hit at Bobby Richardson to end the game.

"Phew, what a ball game," Houk exclaimed. "That was really a squeaker."

"We made some good plays. Tom Tresh's catch on Willie Mays in the seventh inning saved the game. So did fast fielding by Roger Maris on Mays' double in the ninth."

"And the Giants didn't do anything to disgrace themselves either. They fought us right down to the last out of the seventh game."

Elston Howard, the catcher, said the victory was "the greatest game Terry ever pitched."

"Were we nervous?" Howard said, "were we nervous? We were all tight. It was the last game of the World Series."

As the shock of the hairbreadth victory wore off, the Yankees seemed to come to life.

"Terry gave them their 'bye, bye, baby,'" shouted third baseman Cleve Boyer, over and over.

"Bye, bye, baby," is the theme song of the Giants.

Terry called for champagne, and a glass was handed to him.

With the glass in hand, Terry leaned back again, banged his head against the back of the locker a few times as if to make sure that he was awake and not dreaming, and said, again:

"What an ending."

Many of the Yankees wandered around the locker room in various stages of dress. All had sweet smiles on their faces.

Houk abandoned his tobacco cud, unwrapped a cigar, and asked:

"Anybody got a match?"

Giants Fall

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"No, I don't think Matty could have made it home on Willie Mays' double in the ninth. He would have been out."

Manager Alvin Dark thus echoed the sentiments of the Giants that Matty Alou couldn't have scored from first on Mays' hit in the ninth inning as San Francisco lost 1-0 to the New York Yankees in Tuesday's finale of the World Series.

"That's the hardest line drive a guy can hit," Dark added of Willie McCovey's shot to second baseman Bobby Richardson that ended the game.

Asked how he felt, the Giants manager declared:

"I feel like this club had a great year. I'm as proud of them as I can be. They played just great."

The Giants dressed quietly and answered questions calmly.

Losing pitcher Jack Sanford sat glumly. Asked if he were missing with fast balls when he walked pitcher Ralph Terry in the fifth, leading to the Yankees' run, he snapped, "Certainly I was, why do you think I walked him?"

Sanford had struck out Terry six of seven times he had faced him previously. But the walked filled the bases and the run scored as the Giants executed a double play.

Third base coach Whitey Lockman said he held up Matty Alou in the ninth, "Because in my opinion, he couldn't have made it."

Alou was on first base when Mays rifled a double to the right-field corner. Roger Maris, the Yankee right fielder, made a quick recovery and fired the ball to the infield—and Alou stopped at third. McCovey lined out to end the game two pitches later.

Dark complimented all his players and said, "Ralph Terry was tremendous for them. He pitched great."

... 'Hardnosed' Aggie

Sophomore halfback Tommy Meeks was another Cadet singled out by Coach Hank Foldberg for his aggressive play against the Florida Gators last Saturday. The fleet 6-0, 170 lb. scatback hails from Bryan and entered as a freshman. Meeks carried the team to a 29-0 victory against the Gators, gaining 29 yards.
