article in the latest issue of "The Shaw Review," publication of the Shaw Society of America.

Stokes has published a number of articles on George Bernard Shaw and his time, the articles appearing in journals both in the United States and in England.

The latest article is entitled "Sidney Carlyle Cockerell: 1867-1962" and is an assessment of Sir Sydney Cockerell's contribution to literary and artistic works of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Cockerell was private secretary to William Morris, an English poet and artist who died in 1896. From 1908 to 1937, Cockerell was director of the Fitzwilliam Museum at Cambridge University in England. He was an intimate friend of Shaw's for many years.

Cockerell died at his home in England this year.

Stokes was invited by the editor of "The Shaw Review" to contribute the article because of his familiarity with Cockerell's work, gained while Stokes was organizing and cataloging the Hanley Collection at the University of Texas in 1960-61.

Two A&M engineers will present papers at the fourth world meeting of the International Road Federation in Madrid, Spain.

Fred J. Benson, dean of the School of Engineering, and Charles J. Keese, executive officer of the Texas Transportation Institute, are among some 2,000 persons from 80 nations attending the conference that ends Oct. 20.

Also attending from College Station is Charles R. Foster, research co-ordinator for the National Bituminous Concrete Association headquartered here.

Benson will present a paper on "Durability Studies on Asphalts and Asphaltic Concrete." Co-authors are Bob M. Gallaway, R. A. Jimenez and R. N. Traxler.

"Use of Traffic Studies for Evaluation of Highway Design" is the title of the paper being presented by Keese. He is also professor of highway and traffic engineering in the Department of Civil Engineering.

The technical discussions at the world conference will cover five principal areas — traffic engineering, construction, maintenance and engineering, development, economics and research, highway planning and promotion-association activities.

An A&M faculty member, Dr. Lloyd C. Taylor, Friday will appear on the program of the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Historical Society in Allentown, Pa.

The associate professor of history will present a paper on Harriet Lane, niece of President James Buchanan, who was first lady at the White House during the presidency of her bachelor uncle. Later she was responsible for starting the first pediatrics center in the United States and in promoting the establishment of the National Art Gallery.

Fair Closes Concession After Mishap

DALLAS (AP)—The State Fair of Texas closed its pleasure boat ride concession Wednesday as police launched an investigation of the cause of an explosion and fire on one of the scale model Mississippi River paddlewheel boats.

Of the 19 persons burned in the fire, 12 remained in hospitals. Only one of them was in critical condition, however. She was Mrs. Ruth Heidrick, 70, of Corona, Calif., who suffered severe burns and shock. Some of the victims were children.

The explosion occurred about 7:20 p.m. Tuesday night a few minutes after the small boat, with 32 fair goers aboard, moved out into the Fair Park Lagoon.

W. T. Heron of Dallas said he, his wife and their 3-year-old daughter, Robbin, were sitting near the center of the boat.

"I SAW A flash of fire, grabbed my little girl and jumped overboard," he said.

"I fought to keep her head above water. I tried to stand up and went under. It was over my head.

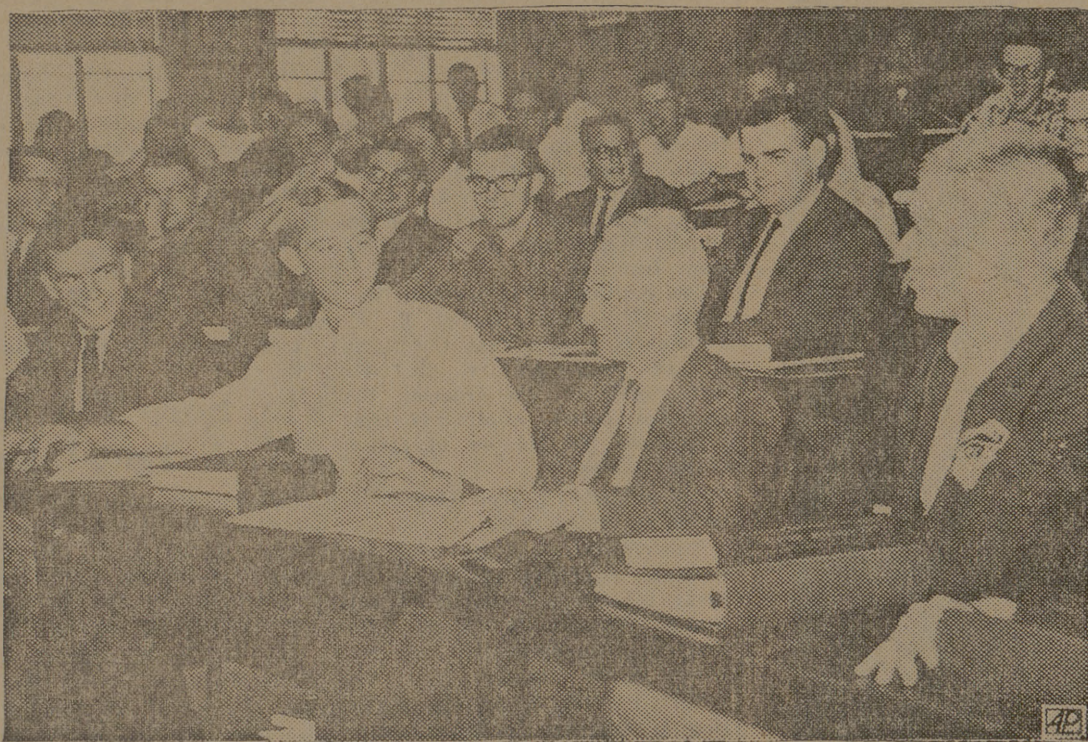

"I held on to my little girl and the edge of the boat. All I could see was fire.

"My wife jumped a few minutes later screaming that her legs were burned real bad."

Some of the other passengers jumped into the water and were helped ashore by persons who waded out into the lagoon.

Others of the passengers stayed on board until the craft floated to the shore on the north side of the lagoon.

Battalion Fire Chief R. G. Russell said the 25-foot boat had been repaired in the afternoon and investigators were going on the theory that a collection of gasoline fumes in the engine housing had been ignited by a spark.
