

Aggies Face Gibbs, Rest Of Frogs Too

By VAN CONNER
Battalion Sports Editor
Coach Hank Foldberg's Aggie footballers face Sonny Gibbs on Kyle Field Saturday—oh yes, and the rest of the TCU Horned Frogs, too.

The intersectional ramblings of the A&M grid squad ended last week when they returned from a rather unhappy encounter with the Florida Gators in the Sunshine State. Beginning with Gibbs—I mean TCU—the Ags start a six-game series against SWC opponents.

They enter earnest conference competition with a 1-0-0 slate in the SWC, by virtue of their closing-seconds 7-3 win over Texas Tech two weeks ago. TCU left Fort Worth with a 1-1-0 conference record, having lost to the formidable Arkansas Razorbacks, 42-14, and having beaten the hapless Tech club, 35-13.

IN ADDITION to fighting to keep alive in the SWC chase, the Ags will be out for revenge against Gibbs and the Frogs. Last year, playing in protective pads for a dislocated shoulder and broken ribs, the 6-7, 230-pound field general completed seven of nine passes, including a scoring 44-yarder, to figure in TCU's 15-14 upset over the Cadets in Fort Worth.

Foldberg, although he certainly is not ignoring Abe Martin's prized quarterback, has pointed toward the Horned Frog squad as a whole.

"This is a little different type ball club than we have met, with good passing and running. You can not devote too much time to stopping Sonny Gibbs' passing because of their strong running game."

"We hope to have a balance on defense to take care of both situations," he adds. "We have high respect for the entire TCU team."

With four tough games and a number of experience-yielding mistakes under their belts, the Aggies will go into this game better prepared than they have been so far.

The overall physical condition of the squad is prime.

JERRY ROGERS, the tough little fullback who started against LSU and Houston and received a leg injury at Houston that has benched him since, will be ready Saturday. Quarterback Jim Keller, who missed the Tech clash because of an injury and wasn't up to par last week, should be back in good shape.

Fans will get some change Saturday in that the Frogs do not formally use the popular three-unit system. The Ags will go with their Old Sarge, Gig em and Lightning units, trying to wear down Gibbs and what Martin thinks is his best eleven. It can't be considered a real test of either system, since the Horned Frogs will probably be substituting almost as much as the Ags, and with units.

Keller and Gibbs are the two tallest quarterbacks in the SWC, with the Aggie field general measuring 6-4. Both teams will bring an assortment of men who figure in conference stats into the contest.

A&M and TCU are ranked third and fourth, respectively, in the per game defense. The Frogs are third in per game offense and the Ags rank eighth.

All-America candidates will grace Kyle Field Saturday as A&M's Jerry Hopkins and Gibbs of TCU work against each other. GIBBS IS SECOND in conference passing with 32 of 66 for 403 and two interceptions. He is third in total offense. Keller ranks fifth in the passing column with 18 for 31 for 182 yards. He is seventh in total offense.

Frog fullback Tommy Crutcher, who has 178 yards on 40 tries, is fifth in SWC ball-carrying. TCU ends Ben Nix and Tom Magoffin are fourth and fifth, respectively, in league pass receiving.

The ball game will be broadcast over the Humble network by Ves Box and Dave Smith at 1:45 p.m. Saturday.

Leads Frog Attack

Giant quarterback Sonny Gibbs will lead the TCU Horned Frogs' offensive efforts against the Aggies on Kyle Field Saturday. Gibbs hit 10 of 19 passes for 145 yards and two touchdowns last week in TCU's 35-13 rout of the Tech Red Raiders. He also scored two six-pointers afoot. A pre-season All-America pick, he looks as if he is making a run for the same honors on November ballots.

Royal Tells Critics 'Layoff Longhorns'

AUSTIN (AP)—Coach Darrell Royal lashed out at critics of this year's Texas team as well as himself Wednesday.

Royal said he was sick and tired of people asking "What's wrong with the Longhorns?"

"Our players are undefeated and yet they're going around with their chins on their chests because they're not accepted," Royal said. He said his 1957 team with a 2-2 record felt more accepted than this year.

"Some people think there's only one team in the conference and that is the University of Arkansas," he said. "I can tell you we're not going out there to lose," speaking of Saturday night's battle between the two conference powers at Austin.

Baylor Cubs, Penalties Top Aggie Fish 10-7 In Waco

Overwhelmed by red flags and green and white jerseys, the A&M Fish dropped a frustrating 10-7 decision to the Baylor Cubs Thursday night in Baylor Stadium.

A "Merchant's Night" crowd of 5,000 watched the Cubs overcome a fourth-quarter 7-3 deficit to score the deciding touchdown with 1:31 left on the scoreboard clock. Baylor's final drive started on its own 24 and 12 plays—and two Aggie 15-yard penalties—later, fullback Mike Marshall skirted right end for one yard and the score.

Tommy Shaffner converted to make the three-point margin. Baylor opened a first half that saw the ball change hands 16 times by kicking off to Jerry Kaschik of the Fish who returned to the Ag 34.

The Fish got nowhere in four quick plays and quarterback Ira Hillyer punted 30 yards to the Cub 30.

BAYLOR TOOK over and with Mike Marshalls coming out of the woodwork as well as going through the line, moved the ball to the Fish 37.

(The Cubs had two Mike Marshalls—the quarterback from Irving and the fullback from Mount Pleasant. Both played most of the game, confusing the announcer, this reporter and the Aggies.)

A&M held on a 4th-and-one and tried three more useless plays before QB Glynn Lindsey kicked to the Cub 25.

The two teams engaged in a punting match for the remainder of the first quarter, allowing the crowd to chat with their friends in the stands.

A&M controlled the second quarter, reaching the Baylor 24 and 39 while limiting the Cubs to no first downs and a minus eight yards rushing.

The first half ended with the goal lines untouched and barely in binocular range.

THE FANS WERE awakened early in the second half when Fish Lenward Caraway kicked off to the Baylor seven and Cub halfback Max Emfinger returned 42 yards to the Baptist 49.

With the Marshalls again doing most of the work, and with no help from the officials, the Cubs used a dozen plays moving to the Aggie eight-yard line. Unable to breach the Cadet defense for a six-pointer, the Cubs chose to go over the line and Shaffner booted a 15-yard field goal with 9:25 remaining to give Baylor a 3-0 lead.

Following the kickoff, the A&M Frosh put the ball in play on their own 33. The Fish moved the ball down to the Baylor 39 where the wary eye of a man in stripes caught the Farmers clipping and forced them to retreat to the A&M 48.

AFTER TWO incomplete passes, the order of the day as the Ags completed only three out of 13, Hillyer punted out of bounds on the Baylor 12.

Seven plays later the Fish got their first break of the game. Fish guard Joe Wellborn recovered a Cub fumble on the Baylor 34.

With Lindsey at quarterback and Tommy Byer threading the "good ol' Baylor line," the Ags covered the 34 yards in 10 plays with Lindsey going over from the one to the go-ahead score. Bob Lee converted and with 12 minutes left in the game the Ags led 7-3.

The Cubs, unapproving of the development, came back after an exchange of punts and moved 27 yards in 12 plays for the game ending tally.
