Alligator Visits Texas Union

Campus police at Texas University removed an alligator from the school's student union building one morning last week.

A freshman geology student reclaimed the captured reptile and said he had been missing two weeks. The student explained that he keeps alligators as pets.

No one knows for sure how the gator got into the union building. He was first sighted sunning himself on a concrete pillar at the edge of the union building's fountain.

tion of athletics, faculty, assistantships, the band, drama productions, dormitories, student employment and student apartments.

The University's YMCA has been removed from the school's list of agencies to participate in the annual Campus Chest drive.

The campus chest steering committee refused a petition for aid by the YMCA after a long discussion. Main reason was controversial political publicity given the 'Y' last year, especially by the Dallas Morning News.

Baylor Okays Honor Council

Baylor's student governing group has approved a replacement for the school's "quiescent" present honor council.

The new program, which is yet to be approved, would reduce the number of council members from 12 to eight, with the freshmen and sophomore classes not being represented.

All eight members would be required to be present for any hearing, with at least six affirmative votes needed for a conviction.

Also the method of selecting the council members would be changed from an election to appointment by a faculty-student selection committee.

A reporter-photographer team from the Baylor Lariat was expelled from a meeting of the school's women's student governing group last week.

The action came less than one week after the organization supposedly opened its meetings to the press. Still another reporter, a woman, was told before the meeting she would not be able to attend.

The expelled Lariat reporters were a man and a woman.

The expulsion came as retaliation for a previous Lariat story telling of campus controversy concerning "public displays of affection" and women's wearing of breeches.

Members of the group would not talk to the reporters after the closed meeting. They also announced that future meetings of the organization would be closed to the press.

U. S. Declaration Stops Reds Again

By J. M. ROBERTS
 Associated Press News Analyst

For many years now the Soviet Union has been taking advantage of a universal fear of nuclear war to advance, by measures just short of world war, the objectives of expansionist Communism.

Once before she made a mistake in Korea, The United States moved swiftly and, to the Kremlin, unexpectedly. The Soviet-sponsored and Chinese-executed aggression was stopped cold.

For three years now the Soviet Union has been sponsoring, through Cuba, a concerted attempt to penetrate the Western Hemisphere.

Again the United States has called her hand, cold. And she's crying.

The Soviet statement makes a repetitive effort, as the Communists always do and as they did with regard to North Korea, to make President Kennedy's policy appear primarily as a threat to Cuba and to establish Cuba, not the Soviet Union, as the prime mover in fear of the United States.

But what Kennedy said was that, if a Soviet missile was fired from Cuba against a country of the Americas, the retaliation would be against the Soviet Union as the prime mover. This was in keeping with the great sympathy for the Cuban people felt in the United States, a sympathy which fed the fire of the Spanish-American War.

The U.S.S.R. warns of the risk of thermonuclear war involved in the revived American policy of masive retaliation and of naval blockade.

This is a risk which President Kennedy recognized. It is a calculated risk upon which the nation's leaders already had passed judgement. And it is the willingness to take this risk which is the greatest warning and the greatest meaning of the entire position.

The Soviet statement refers to the right of all countries to lead their own lives. Apparently the Kremlin expects everyone to forget what happened in Hungary just six years ago. Then, after recognizing a government which had revolted against Communist rule, Soviet Premier Khrushchev took advantage of Allied trouble over Seuz to send his troops and tanks rolling back into the brainwashed revolutionaries who refused to remain brainwashed.

The United States policy always has been to keep the way open at all times for self-determination of peoples, without permitting one imposed tyranny or one misguided popular action to close the door against freedom forever.

Sound Off

Editor, The Battalion:

During the Texas Tech game I sat with the A&M student body just as I have for the past six years. For the first time since I have been at this fine college I became thoroughly disgusted with the 12th Man and the so-called "yell leaders."

When the time comes when Aggies must use their "spirit" to prevent the opposing team from playing the game, then the 12th Man has lost its significance.

To make matters even more appalling, the "yell leaders" encouraged this rudeness to the Tech team when they should have been preventing it. Even our own football players had to ask the 12th Man to be quiet. An incident like this is one which brings shame to a proud school.

Wake up Aggies! Yell for your team, but show the opposing team the courtesy and respect we are taught to give to our fellow-man as true Aggies.
