

HELD IN CHAPEL

Faculty Fellowship Slated Wednesday

The first of seven programs of the Faculty Christian Fellowship is scheduled for 7 a.m. Wednesday in the All Faiths Chapel. The series, led by faculty and staff members, will be held each Wednesday morning through Dec. 19.

The schedule lists music for meditation to be played from 6:50-7 a.m., followed by the discussion period of about 25 minutes. Coffee and doughnuts will be served at the YMCA following the program.

Dr. Harold B. Sorenson of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology serves as chairman of the Faculty Christian Fellowship Committee.

Dr. Ruble Langston of plant sciences will speak Wednesday morning on the topic, "The Christian in Science and Religion."

Other speakers, their topic and dates are: Dr. Bardin Nelson, "Values: Academic and Human," Nov. 14; Charles A. Rodenberger, "The Christian as an Intellectual," Nov. 21; Martin Kyre, "Scholars and Machines," Nov. 28; W. A. (Bill) Smith, "The Layman's Role in Theology," Dec. 5; Dr. Carl Shafer, "Nihilism," Dec. 12; and President Earl Rudder, "The Idea of a University — in a Christian Surrounding," Dec. 19.

A discussion of the future of the Faculty Christian Fellowship is scheduled during the Dec. 19 program.

Members of the Faculty Christian Fellowship Committee include W. L. Penberthy, professor of health and physical education; the Rev. John Combs, director of the Wesley Foundation; the Rev. Carlton Ruch, pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church; J. Gordon Gay, general secretary of the YMCA; and Sorenson, chairman.

Catholic First Series Speaker

The Rev. Maurice Johnston, Dominican Father who is a professor of philosophy and theology at St. Edward's University in Austin, will be the first of a series of speakers to address joint meetings of various religious organizations on campus. The first meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Presbyterian Student Center.

The series of open meetings is sponsored by the Newman Club, Hillel Foundation, Methodist Wesley Foundation, Presbyterian Student Association and the Canterbury Club.

Mr. Johnston will speak on "The Church—The People of God."

The public is invited to attend the meeting according to A. L. Fowler, Presbyterian chaplain. He said refreshments will be served after the meeting.

A&M FFA Chapter Will Conduct Leadership School

The A&M Collegiate Future Farmers of America Chapter will conduct a leadership training school Tuesday for high school FFA officers.

More than 100 officers representing 20 chapters are expected to attend. The session will begin at 4 p.m. in the Department of Agricultural Education.

Hernand Brown, instructor in the Department of Agricultural Education and chapter advisor, said the purpose of the school is to improve leadership, study chapter record keeping, write news articles, plan chapter scrapbooks and other activities.

Brown said FFA officers are expected to attend from A&M Consolidated, Anderson, Bremond, Bryan, Buckholts, Caldwell, Calvert, Franklin, Giddings, Hearne, Iola, Lexington, Milano, Navasota, Richards, Rockdale, Snook, Somerville, Thorndale and Cameron.

Orbiting Monkey Dies Of Dysentery

HOUSTON (AP)—Enos, the astronaut-chimp, is dead.

The chimpanzee, 6, died Sunday of dysentery at Holloman AFB, N.M., the Manned Spacecraft Center said Monday.

The little monkey's one-orbit mission Nov. 29, 1961, preceded by two months astronaut John Glenn's three-orbit flight around the earth.

Officials reported Enos' death was not related to his orbiting flight.

UT Professor To Speak Here On 'Excellence'

Two faculty organizations will co-sponsor a lecture Wednesday night on "Problems of Attaining Excellence at a University."

The speaker will be Dr. Reece J. McGee, co-author of "The Academic Marketplace," and an associate professor of sociology at the University of Texas. The lecture is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Memorial Student Center.

The A&M chapters of the Texas Association of College Teachers and of the American Association of University Professors are co-sponsoring McGee's appearance.

The book which he and T. Caplow wrote, "The Academic Marketplace," is a study of the process of replacing and adding faculty members at universities.

The first part of McGee's talk is planned as a general statement of the problems of change in a university. Then he will give his views of particular problems facing A&M.

Metermen Hold Short Course Here

A public utility short course for electrical metermen began Monday under the direction of H. C. Dillingham.

Sponsored by the Department of Electrical Engineering, the four-day course will have 175 enrolled from throughout the state.

The short course will end Friday noon with presentation of certificates by Dr. G. D. Hallmark, head of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

And They Danced!
An Aggie and his date, dancing in her sock feet, swing to the stereo-music sponsored by the Memorial Student Center dance committee Friday night after the Town Hall presentation.

'Male Animal' Opens In Guion

"The Male Animal," first fall production of the Aggie Players, opened Monday night on the stage of Guion Hall.

Directed by Harry Gooding, the three-act play revolves around a Midwestern college whose campus is shaken up by a purge of faculty members accused of communist leanings.

Scholarly professor Thomas Turner, played by Bob Stark, is innocently put on the chopping block by an overzealous and idealistic student editor, played by Jack Barnes. On the scene appears ex-football hero Joe Ferguson, played by Bob Hipp, whose rough and ready antics treaten the happy state of matrimony in the Turner family in addition to provoking laughter from the audience.

Everyone loses his temper, liquor and corn flows freely, and a mouse becomes a man, but in the end principle triumphs over all.

Others in the cast include Cleota, Sandra Kennerly; Ellen Turner, played by Selma Clack; Patricia Stanley, Lynn Imle; Wally Myers, Eugene Byrd; Dean Frederick Damon, Richard Heinrich; Mrs. Blanche Damon, Marrienne Mallett; Ed Keller, Ronald Hunter; Myrtle Keller, Adrienne Stout; and Pat Richardson playing the newspaper reporter.

The play will run through Friday with tickets being sold at the door.—GERRY BROWN

Newspaper Fund Gives $750 Grant

The Newspaper Fund, a foundation established to further journalism education in high schools by the Wall Street Journal has awarded a $750 grant to the Department of Journalism for its 1963 High School Journalism Workshop.

Action by the fund's directors has been announced by Paul Swenson, executive director.

The grant will be used for expense scholarships for high school journalism teachers and publication sponsors who assist in conducting the workshop, Delbert McGuire, head of the department and director of the five-day program, said.

The 1963 workshop will open with registration Sunday, July 14, and will end Friday, July 19. The event is attended by an average of 300 high school students and faculty members with headquarters in the Memorial Student Center and Nagle Hall.

"Registration and meals will cost each delegate $25," McGuire explained, "and each delegate arranges for his room and transportation costs. In the past, the cost of attending the workshop has averaged $45 to $50 for the five days."

Classes are conducted in the operation of the student newspaper, the yearbook and in photography.

Each class has two sections — one for advanced students and one for beginners.

Students attending the workshop also produce, during the five-day session, a mimeographed newspaper, a printed newspaper and a 64-page yearbook with one color other than black.

High schools in the state who wish to be represented at the workshop in July can contact the Department of Journalism as soon as possible, McGuire noted. Registration will be limited to maintain personal contact between instructors and delegates.

Six hours of graduate work in journalism will be available to high school journalism teachers and publication sponsors during the first summer session at A&M, McGuire said.
