

BATT PICKS

By VAN CONNER
Battalion Sports Editor

Here we go again with our sports desk's predictions for the week, not in the least discouraged by last week's 40 per cent accuracy.

Baylor 21, Texas 20: That's just a hunch.

Arkansas 14, Rice 0: Billy Moore and Danny Brabham are the best offensive combo in the SWC for our money.

TCU 14, LSU 10: Sonny Gibbs will have to get might lucky but he can at times.

IOWA 22, Minnesota 14: This is a game the Hawkeyes point to all season. Even though they play in Minneapolis, they showed they had the stuff against Ohio State. Florida 17, Georgia 10: The 'Gators should keep rolling after what they did to Auburn.

Northwestern 21, Wisconsin 17: We think Tom Myers will win the pitching duel.

Oklahoma 12, Iowa State 3: It may be closer than that but the Sooners should handle them.

Utah State 20, Wyoming 18: Playing in Logan will make the difference.

Boston College 21, Texas Tech 9: The poor Raiders won't do much better outside the SWC than in.

Houston 12, Tulsa 3: The Cougars will ride the momentum gained in their upset last week.

Wisconsin, Longhorns, Kansas Picked By Associated Press

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Big Ten is the "upsetting" conference in the country this year, the No. 1 position is never a comfortable one and there is traditionally an advantage to the home field.

This is the set of circumstances which should knock off the nation's football leader, Northwestern, in the headline game this week. Last week's score, which hit on the upset victories for Mississippi, Notre Dame and Pitt, was 41-12-773.

Another fling: WISCONSIN 33, Northwestern 28: Ron Vanderkellen outpitches Tom Myers in a wild game.

Southern California 18, Stanford 14: Coach John McKay insists his Trojans will not have a letdown.

Alabama 14, Miami, Fla. 0: Lee Roy Jordan and the Tide defense stops Miami's dangerous George Mira.

Texas 19, Baylor 8: Both teams have heavy casualty lists, but Texas should win the shin-splints and arnica game.

Michigan 24, Illinois 14: This is the battle of the coaching Elliott brothers Bump and Pete. Is this called fratricide?

Arkansas 17, Rice 6: The Razorbacks have the best offensive record in the Southwest.

Notre Dame 21, Pittsburgh 11: The Fighting Irish have found an inspiration in Daryle Lamonica.

Kansas 14, Nebraska 7: The Cornhuskers haven't enough defense for sophomore Gale Sayers.

Washington 14, California 8: Good chance for an upset, with the Golden Bears looking better every game.

NAVY 25, Syracuse 14: If it's a dry field, Roger Staubach should hit enough targets to do the job.

Dartmouth 17, Columbia 7: The Indians have the nation's best defense against scoring, but Archie Roberts hits for one TD.

Duke 20, Maryland 17: The Blue Devils wrap up the Atlantic Coast Conference crown.

Ag Keglers Shoot For Top, Bowl In Cowtown Saturday

The Aggie match bowling team will bowl in Ft. Worth Saturday. Making the trip for the Aggies in an attempt to regain first place will be John Tinney, Tony Servello, Jimmie Guy, Button Webb, Ray Snow and Skipper Robinson.

San Antonio College is currently leading the Texas Intercollegiate Bowling Conference with nine wins and three defeats. A&M and Texas are tied for second with 8-4 records. This is the first time in the four-year history of the league that A&M has not been in first place.

Other schools in the T.I.B.C. are Sam Houston State, TCU and Arlington State. The Cadet keglers are shooting for their fourth straight conference crown.

In the Aggie All-Star League, the Untouchables zoomed into first place by shooting the team high series of 2208. Robert Korose led the team and the league with a 597 series.

Ray Snow had high game for the night with a 221. Larry Glisan shot a 208 and Nolan Mathews had a 202. Roy Laird shot 591 for the second high series.

Tony Servello carries high average in the league with 189 followed by Korose with a 185.

The Monday Late League did not bowl due to Silver Taps. First place in the league belongs to team No. 2 with Malcolm Basham, Lloyd Piper and Nolan Miska.

SMU Defense In Action

The SMU defense that A&M will face Saturday brings Texas halfback Tommy Ford (24) to a halt in last Saturday's SMU-Texas game in Austin. At left a Mustang end Ronald Prichard (87). Texas squeaked to a narrow 6-0 win to take over undisputed first place in the Southwest Conference. (AP Wirephoto)

Sidelines

By Jim Butler

Some time ago an unidentified sage said, "It matters not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game." This wise guy might have known what he was talking about in connection with pro football, but when it comes to college ball it "just ain't so."

Many inches of copy have appeared on sports editors' desks recently concerning the pros and cons of college versus pro football. The general consensus places the difference on the fans.

The majority of pro fans could care less whether their team won or lost. They want to see the play-for-pay boys gain long yardage, pass a lot and generally score as many touchdowns in as many ways as possible.

College fans are a different breed. Their "Give me victory or give me death" attitude places the emphasis on the score.

The Saturday crowds enjoy a wide-open game as much as the Sunday crowd, but if their team comes out on top they are happy. Texas Coach Darrell Royal summed it up in his comment on the Longhorns' 6-0 win over SMU, "It wasn't a spectacular win, but it doesn't have to be spectacular."

Attendance at college games has increased for several years and is increasing this year. Granted that the advent of pro-type offenses has helped this trend, but what the fans want to see is the underdog sidetrack a confident front-runner, the old alma mater beat the traditional rival and the home team all-American wade through the opposition.

Each school has a built-in rooting section of students and alumni through feast and famine. Can this be replaced by a pro team's business office?

Fish Seek 1st Win, Try Owlets Tonight

A&M's freshman football team hosts the Rice Owlets in a battle of winless teams on Kyle Field at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night.

The Fish have a 14-14 tie to their credit while losing to TCU 28-13 and Baylor 10-7. The tie was with the Houston Kittens.

Rice 0-3, having lost to SMU, Texas and Texas Tech frosh.

The Fish will have to watch out for Rice's single wing formation and especially Owlet tailback Gene Walker. Walker was injured in the opening minutes of the Tech game but is expected to be ready for the Aggie frosh. He gained 247 yards in his first two games.

Though the Fish have failed to crack the win column, they have made a good showing in their three contests. The running game, featuring halfbacks Jim Stabler and Jerry Kaufman and fullback Jerry Kachtik, has been strong.

THE PASSING game has left a lot to be desired but promises to pick up with quarterback Bob Doshier back in the lineup. Doshier threw for 141 yards against TCU but missed the Baylor and Houston games with an ankle injury.

A&M has several fine receivers with ends Harold Fletcher and Bill Connell and halfback Ray Brown. Fletcher has caught five passes for 106 yards, while Connell has two for 57 and Brown two for 21 yards.

Linemen to watch for the freshmen include center Jim Singleton, guards Tom Murrell and Joe Wellborn and tackles Jeff Harden and Tom Overstreet.

The Fish have the oddity of having a center, Jerry Crow, and a guard, Wellborn, leading the team in punt returns.

This situation stems from a blocked punt in the Houston game. Wellborn blocked a punt which Crow picked up 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage and ran for a touchdown. Wellborn got credit for the 15 yards the ball went and Crow received credit for the 23 yards he carried the ball into the end zone.

Intramurals

Corps champion in freshman football this season is Sqd. 2, which sneaked by B-3 Wednesday to win the game on penetrations.

Throughout the first half, the game was controlled by Sqd. 2. Late in the fourth quarter with just three plays left, it looked as if B-3, fourth down and goal to go, might change the whole game.

Sqd. 2, however, had no idea of letting B-3 win so easily and stopped them on their fourth down. In control of the ball, Sqd. 2's victory was certain, so it seemed.

Everything looked fine for Sqd. 2 until B-3 broke through the line and scored a safety. The safety, however, was called back because of off-sides against B-3, and when penetrations were totaled at the end of the game, Sqd. 2 was once again ahead, this time for keeps.

The new Corps champions are Ed Simmons, George Johnson, Joe Fant, Sydney Hall, Ken Maltby, Chuck Sowell, Ronnie Ford, Jim Crumbliss, Jim Tramel, John Stropp, Larry Hunter, Dick Stults and James Hooton.

Those playing for B-3 were Raymond Woodard, James White, Harry Vogt, Tom Powers, Robert Jennings, James Jones, Clifford Skiles, James Covey and Tom Behneken.
