

EXECUTIVES MEET

Annual Course To Begin Sunday

Forty managers in business and other enterprises across a seven-state area will assemble here Sunday for the three-week, annual Executive Development Course.

Object of the course is to help the men, mainly from the middle management echelons, better perform their tasks and qualify for more responsible positions.

This will be the eleventh annual Executive Development Course, and firms representing a cross-section of the American economy send representatives each year. Various governmental agencies also are represented.

Corporations and governmental agencies nominate those who will attend, and pay the expenses of employees. Different men attend each annual session.

"The course is unique in that those participating not only hear recognized authorities, but also cooperate to learn through discussions and the personal interchange of ideas with experienced executives," W. E. Eckles said. He serves as director of the course in addition to his duties as an assistant professor of business administration.

Monday will be devoted to orientation. Then the students will consider five areas of managerial skills. Group seminars will keep the men busy some nights, but there will also be opportunities to attend two Southwest Conference basketball games and other campus events.

Death Claims Joe Fogaley, Rites Tuesday

Funeral services for A. J. (Joe) Fogaley, 71, retired staff member of the Texas Firemen's Training School, were held Tuesday in the First Presbyterian Church at McAllen.

He died last weekend of a heart attack suffered after addressing the Valley Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association meeting in the Pharr-San Juan-Alamo High School auditorium.

Former fire marshal for Corpus Christi, Fogaley joined the firemen's training school staff in 1950. He served as an instructor for 10 years.

At the time of his death he was co-ordinator of Civil and Fire Defense of Hidalgo County in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. He resided in McAllen.

Charter Changes Due CS Election

The charter revision committee of the College Station City Council was presented recommendations for eight revisions and two additions to the city charter.

City manager Ran Boswell announced that the committee's recommendations will be decided by city voters in the April 2 municipal election.

The committee recommends that three sections of Article VI of the charter (62, 63 and 65), concerning city bonds and time warrants, be amended to include a statement that "all such bonds shall be issued in conformity with the laws of the State of Texas."

Section 64, dealing with the incontestability of bonds, was rewritten by the committee to be more specific, Boswell said. The recommended change says that all bonds of the city shall be incontestable, and all bonds issued to refund outstanding bonds shall be incontestable after issuance.

The "Investments" portion of Section 66 should be revised to include a statement that any surplus in the general fund may be used to buy federal, state or College Station bonds, the committee said. Also recommended was a statement that general fund surpluses might be used to buy and retire city bonds or time warrants which are not yet due.

Four other changes recommended for the charter specify items which the city manager must include in the proposed city budgets for upcoming fiscal years. The changes are in a revenue and expense statement for all types of bonds and are in a schedule of requirements for the principal and interest on each issue of bonds.
