At This Week

Spring Enrollment Shows Increase

A new semester began this week, with the rush and frustration of another registration session still far from completed. And incomplete reports by mid-week indicated that total enrollment would show an increase over enrollment at the same time last year.

By Wednesday, Registrar H. L. Heaton reported 7,191 students registered. Last year spring enrollment totaled 6,782. And registration proceedings are still underway — students may register through Saturday and have until next Wednesday to drop courses.

Dean of Student James P. Hanigan also disclosed that the drop-out total was not as high as many persons had first anticipated. Complete figures in this category are also incomplete.

Housing problems were reportedly held to a minimum, with students living three-to-a-room only on personal request.

UT Wins Big Cage Highlighter

The new semester started on a sour note for Coach Bob Rogers' basketballers when league-leading Texas riddled the Aggie defense from long range in taking a vital 70-59 SWC cage contest in G. Rollie White Coliseum. The loss dropped the Cadets into a tie for third place, three big games behind the galloping Longhorns. The defeat was also A&M's first in G. Rollie White in the last 31 games.

Guards Jimmy Gilbert and Jimmy Puryear led the Steer long-range attack with 3 and 19 points, respectively. The league leaders hit a resounding 55.1 per cent of their floor shots.

High-scoring Aggie guard Bennie Lenox led all scorers with 26 points. Lee Walker, with 15 points, was the only other Cadet to tally in double figures.

Space Fiesta In Full Swing

Probably the most eye-catching event of the week was the gigantic Space Fiesta, which opened a two and a half week-long stand in the Memorial Student Center.

Displays, ranging from a model of the Telstar satellite to another model of an astronaut's capsule, are scattered throughout the MSC. The exhibits, with a few exceptions, will remain on display through Feb. 22.

In addition three prominent speakers have addressed the public in Space Fiesta appearances, with a fourth speech on tap tonight.

An added attraction is the current appearance of six Congressmen — Olin E. Teague, R. Walter Riehlman, James Fulton, Joseph Karth, Emilio Q. Daddario and Thomas G. Morris — all of whom are members of a House subcommittee on manned space flight.

BRITAIN FIGHTS BACK

French Veto Involves U. S.

By J. M. ROBERTS

In less than 10 days since the disruption of her negotiations with the European Common Market at Brussels' Britain has begun to fight back.

Because the tactics she intends to use closely parallel United States trade policy, including operation through the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at Geneva and worldwide reduction of tariff barriers, the United States inevitably will be involved.

Britain does not foreclose eventual membership in the Common Market. She expects the five members who supported her application to see to it that France shall not use the market as a weapon against her. The United States expects the same for herself.

But in the meantime Britain intends to go about shoring up her international trade in ways to meet any eventuality. In this she will have the support of the British Commonwealth, most of the non-member countries of Europe and some Common Market members. Italy, Holland and Belgium are giving her strong encouragement.

Britain also is likely to be aided by Europe's reaction against Gaullist domination policy, which may well forestall France's effort to tie into the market her former colonies in Africa which have now become associates. The relation of these countries to the market has never been finally settled, and Common Market aid for them may not develop as originally envisaged.

French aid to these countries, which she would like others to help carry, amounted to $100 million in 1960, and there was more

Bishop Defends Literature In Moral Censorship Fight

GALVESTON (AP) — The bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas said Thursday night there is a curious and potentially dangerous resurgence of book censorship throughout the nation.

The Rt. Rev. John E. Hines of Houston said there is some indication church educational and pastoral agencies have "dropped the ball" in developing youth's conscience.

Bishop Hines spoke at the opening session of the three-day 114th annual council meeting of the diocese. The Southeast Texas Council extends inland from the Gulf Coast to the Austin, Waco, and Longview areas.

The bishop said the resurgence of censorship coincides with fears raised by alien ideologies.

"And it also coincides with increasing pre-marital sexual experience, especially in the college age group," he said.

"... The church would do well to encourage and provide for young people in cooperation with parents a program of education in the Christian meanings of sex, together with its divinely ordained and profoundly beautiful responsibilities . . .

"The ruthless 'rooting out of libraries' of literary works just because they contain 'four-letter words' or can be interpreted as salacious is a way of getting at the problem as devoid of imagination as it is fraught with stupidity."
