

Two Ag Fish, Two Steers Hurt In Austin 'Gang Fight'

Among those treated for injuries in Tuesday night's "gang fight" after the A&M-Texas baseball clash were two Aggie freshmen and a pair of older lads in Texas.

James Tramel, 18-year-old Aggie from Longview, was given attention for a bad gash below his left eye and released from the University Health Center in Austin. His condition was not considered serious and he required no other treatment when he returned to A&M.

Nineteen-year-old Karl Callout of Houston had suffered facial lacerations. He said they were inflicted when he was hit with a steel pipe.

The Texas students injured were Michael E. Trash and Charles Buckalew. Both are athletes.

Trash, a 21-year-old student from Denver, Colo., received a laceration on his right hand. He is starting to play on the Longhorn football team.

Buckalew, a 21-year-old member of the 1962 reserve football squad, had a cut on his chin. The former back is from Channelview.

The crucial SWC game ended in Texas winning, 89-73. Most of the players had already gotten into the dressing room when the game began.

yell, the fight was reported to have involved 350-400 fans and lasted almost 30 minutes.

Austin police, university police, athletic directors from both schools and loud stanzas of "The Star Spangled Banner" almost weren't enough to stop the surging crowd.

Texas Head Coach and Athletic Director Darrell Royal said, "They just moved in masses. There was no way in the world you could have stopped them."

Just before the tipoff, Royal had told the capacity crowd in Gregory Gym that he and Aggie Head Coach Hank Foldberg were going to sit together—and if they could get along, the fans ought to be able to peacefully coexist.

INTRAMURALS

Intramural wrestling, now in full swing, will continue through the week, to be the first event on the intramural calendar this semester. More than 68 students competed Wednesday.

Clear weather and bright sunshine Wednesday helped to launch softball practice. Softball will begin in early April.

Winning freshman in the five different weight classes: 137 division, Riggs, Sqd. 8; Bohn, D-1; Black, C-3; and Kickliter, Sqd. 3.

Pflugerville QB Signs At A&M

PFLUGERVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Quarterback Joe Weiss, the guiding hand in Pflugerville's national record 55-game winning streak, announced Wednesday he will enroll at Texas A&M.

Weiss, 6-foot-4 and 200 pounds, scored 234 of his team's 452 points last year and passed for 11 touchdowns.

He signed a pre-enrollment application with the Aggies, but cannot sign a letter of intent until he finishes his high school eligibility. He is a center of the basketball team and also runs track.

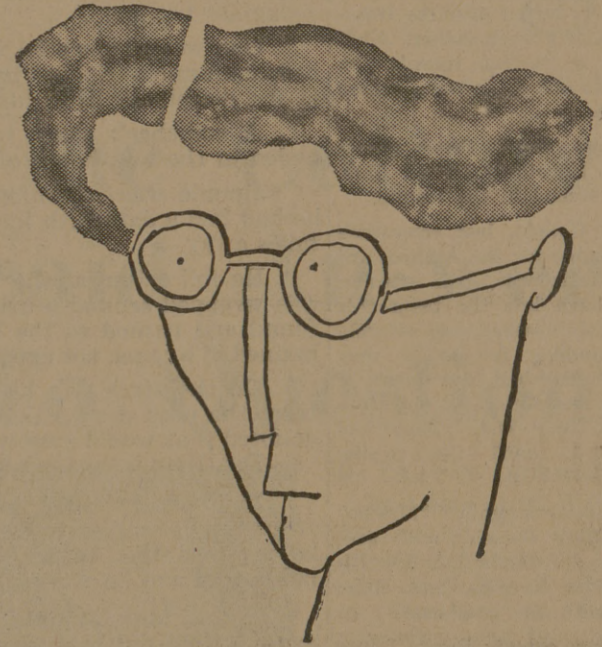

Tops In Tourney

Top Aggie shooter in the recent Region IX Association of College Unions Bowling Tournament, Jimmie Guy rolled an 1,817 nine-game total to place third in all-events and win an all-expense paid trip to Buffalo, N. Y. for the National ACU Tournament.
