Aggie Fans To Sing 'Texas, Our Texas'

In observance of Texas Independence Day Saturday, the Aggie Band will play "Texas, Our Texas" prior to Friday's basketball game with Texas Tech in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

"We would like for everyone to learn the words so they can participate in the singing of our state song," band commander Bill Barnhart said Thursday.

The band will play the first verse of the song just before playing "The Spirit of Aggieland," Lt. Col. E. V. Adams, Band Director, said.

"We feel it would be most appropriate to play the state song on this occasion," he added.

Forum Topic: How To Tell If It's Love

Dr. Sidney Hamilton of North Texas State University will speak on "How Can You Tell It's Love" Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the YMCA Building in the first of four weekly sessions of the Marriage Forums.

The series is being sponsored by the YMCA for the second year.

In addition to Hamilton, three other speakers will be featured in this year's forum: Dr. Robert Ledbetter, Dr. Glenn V. Ramsey and Dr. Charles F. Kemp.

THE ONLY RETURNING speaker from last year's forum, Hamilton is one of five Texans who holds full membership in the American Association of Marriage Counselors. He is the author of three psychology workbooks and has appeared on campus several times.

Hamilton received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from North Texas State University, where he now teaches psychology. He received his doctorate from New York University.

On March 12 Ledbetter will speak on "Making Marriage Meaningful." Former director of the Methodist Student Center in Austin, Ledbetter is a counselor at the University of Texas Health Center and a visiting lecturer in the Department of Sociology at the university.

HE HOLDS HIS B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Texas, and his B.D. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He also did graduate work at Southern Methodist University.

"The Sexual Aspects of Married Life" will be Ramsey's topic for "March 19's meeting. Ramsey, a consulting psychologist in Austin, received his Ph.D. from Indiana University and has done post-doctoral work at Columbia University.

Formerly a Princeton University professor, Ramsey has been awarded the Diplomate in Clinical Psychology by the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology and is a Fellow in the American Psychological Association.

Kemp of Texas Christian University will close the forum on March 26 when he speaks on "Marrying Outside Your Faith." He has pastored churches in New York, Iowa and Nebraska and has authored seven books.

IN ADDITION TO writing a regular column in The Christian, Kemp also makes frequent contributions to other religious journals and often speaks at various religious emphases in colleges and universities.

He received his B.A. and M.A. from Drake University, his B.D. from Colgate-Rochester Divinity School and his Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska. He is a member of the American Psychological Association.

Richard Moore, Frank Kiolbassa Named To Court

Two members of the Student Senate have been appointed to serve on the traffic appeals court, Student Body President Sheldon Best announced Thursday.

The students, Richard Moore, representing civilian students, and Frank Kiolbassa, representing military students, will be allowed to review only student appeals, Best said.

Best said that the traffic committee of the Student Senate has been working for several weeks with the administration and Campus Security officials to get the student representatives approved. He said that final arrangements for the representatives to sit on the court will be completed sometime next week.

The students will serve on the court with one civilian staff representative, one military staff representative and Campus Security supervisor Glen E. Bolton.

The decision to have students review only student cases was made to prohibit the representatives from having to render decisions against faculty and staff members.

Moore Says Bill To Pass, Calls It 'Serious Mistake'

SEN. W. T. MOORE

Name-Change Faces House Next Week

By DAN LOUIS JR.
Battalion News Editor

The bill to change A&M's name to Texas A&M University will pass the state Senate with little difficulty Sen. Bill Moore, '40, of Bryan said Thursday. But Moore criticized the proposed name as "a serious mistake."

"I don't doubt that I can get it passed," Moore told The Battalion in a telephone interview.

The bill is slated to be introduced to the House of Representatives Monday or Tuesday by Rep. David G. Haines, '51, of College Station.

MOORE SAID that he will not introduce a bill for the name-change in the Senate.

"I feel that it would only be wasted motion to introduce two bills," he said.

The veteran Senator continued: "I think the name selected by the Board members is a serious mistake. I prefer another name, but I'll go along with the Board members because I feel sure that they have good reasons for selecting the name they did."

HE SAID he prefers the name Texas State University. He said that he favors this name because it is the form most land-grant colleges have adopted and he doesn't want some other school in the State to get the name.

Open Bar Bill Draws Cheers From Students

AUSTIN (AP) — A House committee heard more than 30 witnesses Thursday at an emotion-packed hearing on a proposal to allow mixed drinks to be sold in Texas at other than private clubs.

The bill went to a three-man subcommittee composed of Reps. Paul Floyd, Houston, Joe Cannon, Mexia, and Roger Thurmond, Del Rio.

At one point the chairman threatened to close the public hearing after several hundred persons, mostly university students, cheered and applauded the bill.

Rep. Jake Johnson, San Antonio, sponsored the measure under consideration by the Liquor Regulation Committee.

Virtually the entire packed gallery in the House of Representatives stood when Johnson asked those supporting the bill to rise.

"GENTLEMEN," Johnson told the committee, "you can see it—liquor by the drink—is coming—maybe not now, but it's certainly coming."

Rod E. Gorman, a University of Texas law student from Houston, said, "Just look into the galleries and you will see the number of young people here interested in this bill."

He told the committee that parties attended by young people last longer and include more drinking "because you have to buy a fifth instead of just one or two drinks." Gorman was interrupted twice by applause, including one time when he estimated "at least 90 per cent of the university students drink hard liquor."

Rep. V. E. Red Berry of San Antonio, who also spoke for the measure.

Gene Sutphen Becomes Second To File For Ward Two City Councilman Post

Gene Sutphen, owner of Aggie-land Studio, filed Thursday for the position of councilman of ward two, becoming the second candidate to enter the race. Opposing him will be Robert R. Rhodes, associate professor of Range and Forestry at A&M.

The two men will run for the ward two position currently held by councilman D. A. Anderson, who does not plan to seek re-election to the post.

Ward two includes all territory east of Highway Six and south of Lincoln Avenue.

Running for re-election are J. A. Orr, councilman for ward one, and A. L. Rosprum, councilman for ward three.

A BILL To be entitled

An act changing the name of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas to Texas A&M University; changing the name of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College System to The Texas A&M University System; changing the name of the Board of Directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas to Board of Directors of The Texas A&M University System; and declaring an emergency.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. The Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, as it is now known, shall be known hereafter as and shall operate under the name of "Texas A&M University."

Sec. 2. The Agricultural and Mechanical College System, as it now functions, shall be known hereafter as and shall operate under the name of "The Texas A&M University System."

Sec. 3. Wherever the name "Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas" and "Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College System" appear in other statutes, the names "Texas A&M University" and "The A&M University System" shall not effect any previous authorization and obligation thereunder and such new names shall be substituted whenever the sense requires such substitution.

Sec. 4. The Board of Directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas shall be known hereafter as the Board of Directors of The Texas A&M University System. The change in name shall not effect any previous authorization and obligation of such board and such new name shall be substituted whenever the sense requires such substitution.

Sec. 5. The fact that it would be to the immediate administrative and other advantages of the present Board of Directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, as renamed herein, in its government of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College System, as renamed herein, and the further fact that the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, as renamed herein, has attained to university status, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and this rule is hereby suspended, and that this Act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Evaluation Team Visit Slated Here In April

A visit by an evaluation of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is scheduled here April 21-24.

Dean of Instruction William J. Graff said administrators, faculty and staff have been preparing for almost two years for the visit. The Faculty-Staff-Student Aspirations Study and the Century Study were the first phases of the college's preparations for the self-study program.

A REPORT about A&M has been completed and the first copies should be available in limited number Friday, Graff said.

"Accreditation is advantageous to the student, the college and the state," the dean said. "By the means of institutional accreditation the student can be assured of getting what he needs during his college years."

The association is the regional accrediting agency whose representatives visit campuses in the 14 southern states.

The evaluation committee named to visit A&M includes 13 specialists in various major fields. These specialists, with one exception, come from other colleges and universities which also hold membership in the association.

DEAN M. C. HUNTLEY of Auburn University has been named chairman of the evaluation committee to visit A&M.

Committee members include Dr.

W. L. Giles, vice president, School of Forestry and Agriculture, Mississippi State University; Dean K. L. Knickerbocker, College of Liberal Arts, University of Tennessee; Dean G. Burke Johnston, arts and sciences, Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Dr. W. T. Oglesby, Department of Veterinary Sciences, Louisiana State University.

DEAN OF STUDENTS D. W. Halladay of the University of Arkansas; T. N. McMullen, director of the library, Louisiana State University; Oliver S. Willham, president of Oklahoma State University; Dr. Donald Bemford, dean of the Graduate School, University of Maryland; Dr. Don Childress, associate dean of the College of Business Administration, University of Oklahoma.

Dean Fred H. Pumphrey, engineering, Auburn University; and Dean Albert A. Lawrence, State University of New York, Maritime College.

Lawrence is the only committee member coming from other than a member institution of the association. Graff said this is because the Texas Maritime Academy at A&M is the only facility of its type in the region.

New York Paper To Publish Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Publisher Dorothy Schiff announced Thursday that the New York Post will resume publication on Monday. It has been closed throughout the 83-day New York newspaper black-out.

Mrs. Schiff, sole owner of the afternoon tabloid, said: "I think the strike has gone on long enough."

Test Ban Demands Reduced By U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is drawing up a new treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests which contains lowered demands being offered to the Soviet Union for inspections on her territory.

This announcement was coupled Thursday with an administration spokesman's statement that the chances of a sneak Soviet atomic test series without detection "are vanishingly small."

Jacob D. Beam, an assistant director of the U. S. Disarmament Agency, spelled out the Kennedy administration's defense of its test ban effort in a speech in Rochester, N. Y.

Beam described reduced inspection demands as "a concession to scientific progress, not to the Soviet Union."

Announcing the drafting of the new proposed treaty, State Department press officer Lincoln White said U. S. negotiators at the Geneva disarmament conference would offer it there to supersede the U. S. draft treaty proposed last August. He said just when the treaty will be presented, or if it will be offered, had not yet been determined for certain.

Officials said the new version would incorporate revisions attributed to scientific advances in detection techniques and other changes in the U. S. position which have developed since last summer.

WORLD NEWS

TOKYO — Red China charged solemnly Friday that Soviet Premier Khrushchev's followers are "forwardly as mice." The Chinese stated the Russians to be men enough to lay the Moscow-Peking quarrel before the court of world Communist opinion.

In a heavy new propaganda barrage at the Kremlin, Peking accused Moscow of cracking the whip over world Communist leaders. It said the anti-Chinese Communist countries used powerful stations to jam Peking broadcasts to prevent people from hearing Chairman Tze-tung's side of the argument.

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle prepared Thursday night to battle two major unions planning to defy him and strike Friday in France's nationalized coal mines.

The unions charged in a statement that a government order to draft striking coal miners was "an attack against the right to strike."

The unions are demanding higher pay and shorter working hours.

But De Gaulle is reported determined to avoid any serious breach in the wage-price line that could start an inflationary spiral.

U. S. NEWS

NEW YORK — Telstar, the communications satellite that beamed live television programs across the Atlantic, has lost its voice again.

Bell Telephone Laboratories said that for the past week the remarkable satellite has failed to respond to commands from the earth.

The ailment resembled an earlier one and it was hoped Telstar eventually would resume sending signals.
