

Berlin Explosion Shatters Soviet Tourist Bureau

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin branch of Soviet Intourist, long a source of irritation to city officials, was wrecked by a mysterious blast Tuesday night five hours after closing time. The explosion smashed windows and shattered office furniture and resulted from a time bomb, police surmised. A woman in an apartment above suffered shock. Sharp Soviet reaction over it is expected shortly to add further complications to the Berlin problems.

A bystander after the blast suggested it had been done in retaliation for the Communist wall dividing East and West Berlin.

West Berlin city officials have failed in vain to remove the local office of Intourist—the widely operating Soviet tourist setup that provides guides and other services within the Soviet Union and drums up tourist trade elsewhere.

AMONG THE PROFS

New Accountant Named For Extension Service

Bill Boehm has been employed as accounting assistant for the Engineering Extension Service, where he will undergo training to assume accounting responsibilities for the E.E.S. He replaces Charles O. Hardy, who took a position with the college's Agricultural Experiment Station.

A native of Anderson, Boehm is a graduate of Anderson High School and last year received a bachelor of science degree in business from Sam Houston State College.

Exchange Store Manager Carl Birdwell and 31 other past presidents of the National Association of College Stores will be honored April 23 at the opening dinner session of the group's 40th annual meeting. Details of the plan to honor the past presidents are contained in the newly-published issue of "The College Store Journal," publication of the trade organization.

Brief articles by Birdwell and other past presidents concerning their year in office and comments upon present operations of the National Association of College Stores also are contained in the February-March issue of the Journal.

Two college faculty members will speak Friday at Beaumont during section meetings conducted as part of the District I convention of the Texas State Teachers Association. The district includes 25 counties in Southeast Texas.

Dr. Paul R. Hensarling, who heads the Department of Education and Psychology, will speak to the adult education section.

Dr. P. M. Romane of the School of Veterinary Medicine will speak to the vocational agriculture section.

Dr. Willis Pequegnat of the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology is in Aspen, Col., this week as an invited participant in a program of the Institute of Humanistic Studies.

"Public Understanding of the Role of Science in Society" is the topic.

Dr. A. L. Bennett, associate professor of English, will present a paper at the 12th annual South-Central Renaissance Conference March 16 on the University of Houston campus.

The paper is titled "Prince Henry of Monmouth." In it Bennett compares the historical Prince Henry, later King Henry V of England, with the "Prince Hal" of Shakespeare's plays.

The head of the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology, Dr. Dale F. Leipper, is in Washington, D. C., this week attending a conference and visiting various agencies.

He also will attend a Dallas meeting before returning to campus Friday.

Primary purpose of Leipper's trip is to attend an Armed Services Technical Information Agency conference on oceanography. He also expects to visit the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Office of Naval Research and other offices in Washington.

The Dallas meeting is of the Texas United Fund.

Three Officials From Tunisia Set Tour Here

Three Tunisian officials will be here Friday to observe A&M educational and agricultural facilities to help them plan the Chott Maria Agricultural College in Tunisia.

Dr. Randall Stelly, formerly associate professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, will accompany the officials on their tour of the state.

The officials are Abdelmajid Gara, chief of Agricultural Education and Extension Services in the Ministry of Agriculture; Salem Skhiri, delegate of the Sousse government; and Hassine Zayati, administrator attache of the cabinet at the Secretariat of State for Agriculture.

Gara's main purpose while here will be to visit the 10 Tunisian students enrolled here. These students will join the Chott Maria Agricultural College when they graduate.

Zayati is interested in observing all phases of agricultural development. He will assist the Tunisian government in utilizing the services of A&M personnel who will be assigned to the agricultural college project.

Skhiri is working under the direction of the governor of the state of Sousse.

AEC Official Here For Food Study

An Atomic Energy Commission official is visiting here today and Thursday to discuss irradiation preservation of food with horticulturists.

He is Dr. Kevin G. Shea, chief of the radiation processed foods section of the AEC's Division of Isotope Development.

Dr. E. E. Burns, A&M horticulturist, said Shea also will discuss "Food Preservation Programs of the AEC" in a seminar at 1 p. m. Thursday in Room 303 of the Plant Sciences Building. The public has been invited.

Two A&M Students To Attend Baptist Meeting This Weekend

At least two A&M students, Don Whitehall and Larry Braidfoot, will attend the 14th annual Student Missions Conference this weekend at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Whitehall and Braidfoot served as student summer missionaries of the AEC in a seminar at 1 p. m. Thursday in Room 303 of the Plant Sciences Building. The public has been invited.

gram will be Chester Swor, youth counselor and lecturer from Jackson, Miss.; Glendon McCullough of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board in Atlanta; Ancil B. Scull, Southern Baptist foreign missionary to Indonesia; and about 40 other Baptist foreign and home missionaries.

Miss Joe Ann Shelton, professor in the Southwestern school of church music, will direct the congregational singing.

The conference is being planned by eight faculty-student co-chairmen and nearly 100 other seminary students.
