

UN Club Planning Journey To Austin

The A&M United Nations Club planning to send a delegate to Austin Thursday to attend the annual meeting of the Model U.N. Club.

Although Model U.N. organizations have been meeting in various parts of the U.S. for a number of years, the meeting in Austin will consist only of the general assembly since this is the largest of the regions.

This year the A&M club will be representing the Republic of China.

The Honorable Weiliang Yin, Consul General of the Republic of China from Houston, came to the campus March 16 to meet with the delegation and the newly formed "Chinese Students Association" headed by Pu Sun. After meeting with both groups during an informal luncheon at the MSC, Yin centered his attention on the student delegation, answering many questions and clarifying China's national policy.

Those on the delegation are Dan Davis, College Station; Tim Mosman, Muenster; Clyde Kerley, Dallas; Calvin Simper, Shiner; and Ed Lamb, Caldwell, Idaho. Advisors for the delegation are Dr. Martin Kyre and Dr. Ramon Arango, both of the Department of Government.

Coon To Address Scottish Society

Dr. Jesse B. Coon, professor of physics, has been invited by the Faraday Society of Dundee, Scotland, to present a research paper at the society's general discussion in Scotland Tuesday.

Coon's paper, "Evidence For A Double-Minimum Potential In An Excited State of C102," was written while he worked on two projects sponsored by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

Coon received degrees in chemistry and physics from the University of Indiana, and in 1948 got his Ph.D. in physics from the University of Chicago. He came to A&M in 1946 and is now teaching atomic and molecular structure.

Mock 'Disasters' Staged Here Friday

Simulated disaster operations, complete with live "victims," will be conducted here Friday night as part of the 18th Heavy Duty Training Class.

The disaster area will be behind the apartment buildings, H. D. Smith, chief of fireman training for the Texas Engineering Extension Service, said.

The public has been invited to watch the operations, which include rescue of victims from under rubble and debris, treatment of simulated injuries and rescue of injured persons from upper floors of damaged structures. Improvised equipment and equipment from the Texas Civil Defense truck will be used.

Smith said "disaster time" is 10:00 p.m. and will last about two hours. The week-long rescue training class runs 12 hours per day, with instruction provided in heavy duty rescue techniques and use of tools and equipment.

Attention SENIOR and GRADUATE MEN Students who need some FINANCIAL HELP in order to complete their education during this academic year and will then commence work.

Academic Bulletin Board Serves Everyone As Comic Relief To Daily Campus Rat Race

By JOHN WRIGHT
Battalion Staff Writer

Amid the daily rat-race of classes, quizzes and overdue papers, there is one place on campus where students and profs alike may find a bit of relief -- the Academic Building bulletin board.

The wide selection of articles for sale is amazing. Everything from used pipes to hot rods.

An example of a way-out item is this gem: "Used hearse for sale, only 30,000 miles, complete with velvet curtains."

NOTICING ALL the cars on the block, one comes to the conclusion that this is one of the first things to go when the cash gets low.

For instance "1963 Galaxie for sale, good shape - must sell." Or at the other extreme: "1940 Ford Coupe for sale -- needs minor work, ideal for those who love to work on their cars!"

Cars are not the only items for sale. Cameras, guns, typewriters, slide rules, uniforms and even some seldom-worn suits.

Firearms seem to be popular items on the board. According to the quantities of ammunition for sale, there ought to be enough explosive around this campus to feed a minor war.

AGGIES SEEM to have the admirable ability to see the funny side of their plight, judging by the hastily scrawled additions to the ads.

But if they don't there is always someone only too glad to supply it. Just look at these.

"Mamster cage for sale -- complete with exercise wheel. Sorry too small."

"Aquarium for sale, has 15 gallon capacity. So go jump in it."

"One pair ice skates, good condition. You a nut or something?"

On just one card there is enough parts to assemble several cars. "58 Pontiac stick shift bellhousing, '56 Pontiac pistons, spare fenders and all chrome available."

THREE SLIGHTLY punctured tires for sale -- can do for local use."

Of course some of the comments on the bulletin board are not exactly the kind of thing to impress anyone with. But then there are always the two per cent.

Just to the left of the main board there is the "Rides" board. This is not to be ignored as a source of interest since often the comments and requests are anything but dull.

Everyone must have seen the request for a traveling companion for some girls over the holidays. The joke is wearing pretty thin, but that doesn't seem to stop it appearing every recess.

NSF Chooses 31 For Work Here

Thirty-one men from 16 states have been selected for a National Science Foundation-supported program for junior high school teachers here. They will arrive late this summer and will remain on campus for the 1963-64 academic year studying toward master's degrees.

Purpose of the academic year institute program is to provide graduate study in general science subjects for junior high school teachers.

Twenty-nine junior high teachers now are attending A&M through the current program. They are expected to receive master's degrees later this year.

Those named for the 1963-64 program were selected from more than 400 applicants. They come from various western states. New England and other sections of the country.

Participants receive a basic stipend of $3,000, plus various allowances.

Dr. James G. Potter, head of the Department of Physics, is National Science Foundation programs coordinator here.

BUT OTHER THAN THAT
CUMBERLAND, Ky. (AP) — Water Works Supt. Seabert Gilliam finally persuaded the City Council to buy him a new truck.

The old one, he complained, couldn't be steered; wouldn't pull a hill; had a broken starter; and had no second gear.
