to be your vice president. If elected, my objective will be to stand for the interests of our class. So come out and vote tomorrow, as I will need your vote. Remember B.T. for V.P.

My name is Al Clay and I'm running for Junior yell leader. I realize by now you've most probably promised four or five different people that you will vote for them. However, I would appreciate your giving consideration to my qualifications. I was yell leader in an all male high school and yell leader my freshman year. I have a 2.0 GPR and an earnest desire to beat the ever-living hell out of T. U. So, when you vote, remember Al.

What the Class of '65 will accomplish next year depends largely upon its choice of representatives in the elections tomorrow. For this reason it is important that you give your careful consideration to each office and select a person who can and will devote the necessary time to insure that your interests are represented in all phases of campus activity. I, Rob Rowland, am a candidate for MSC Council representative. I feel that I can fulfill the responsibilities for this position. I hope that you will consider me at the polls tomorrow.

My name is Charles Wallace. I am a civil engineering major from San Antonio and I am running for the office of secretary-treasurer of the Class of '65. I realize this job involves a lot of devotion and hard work and I am more than willing to do both and serve our class. Besides my regular duties as secretary-treasurer I will do everything within my power to assure that our class is better represented on matters that pertain to us and that you are better informed on these matters. Everyone, utilize your privilege and vote, and when you do I would appreciate your consideration.

What are our class officers doing? Do they attend the Student Senate meetings? What do they vote on and do they ask my opinion? These are, I am sure, only a few of the questions you might have concerning the official capacity of our class officers. My name is Frank Muller and I am running for president of our class, '65. During the past two years I have heard very few reports by our class officers concerning any policies or decisions that might be or are being made. I feel this is wrong. We, as a class, should be more informed of the policies that have to be made or voted on and our opinion should be heard. Our next two years at Texas A&M are going to be very trying ones and during this time we will need a unified and informed class. Communication among all members of our class is a necessity! If elected I plan to follow a clear, equally voiced opinion on any matter concerning our class. I would greatly appreciate your vote tomorrow. I thank you for your time and consideration.

The next school year will mark a turning point in the history of A&M. We can go either up or down. If the student body and its leaders are willing to work against all obstacles we will not only maintain our worldwide reputation but will make it even greater.

The senior class must lead the way in doing this. The Senior Class President will have much more responsibility than usual. If you will give me this responsibility I will use all means and resources available to see that the Class of '64 is remembered as the class that kept A&M the great school it has always been (with or without co-eds). If there is any way to return A&M to its all male tradition I will do all I can to bring it back. However, no matter what happens, we won't get anywhere by saying we're finished and quitting.

There is a great need to improve the understanding and communications between the student body and the administration. We should build closer ties with the former students since within a year we will be part of them.

There is also an urgent need to see to it that people of Texas get a more realistic view of Aggieland than they have in the past because they are the ones that ultimately control what happens to our school. There are many other things that must be done next year but due to limits of space I cannot list more at this time.

I feel that I have the ability, knowledge, and most important the interest and desire to handle this job well. So when you vote Wednesday, I am asking you to make me your class president.

As an outgoing officer, I would like to ask all sophomores to vote intelligently in the coming election of class officers. Junior class activities are many, and responsible officers will be necessary for properly carrying out class business.

I would also like to endorse a candidate for junior class president, David Slaughter. David is an aeronautical engineering major.

Perhaps Slaughter's greatest qualification is his willingness to do something for his class. David was a key figure in obtaining a choice of names on our rings. He wrote many letters, called on countless state leaders, and co-ordinated the resolution calling for the choice. Slaughter has experience in "campus politics" which could prove to be invaluable nowadays at Texas A&M. I ask the Class of '65 to insure class representation on our campus next year by voting for David Slaughter as junior class president.

I am a junior in B-2 and I am running for chairman of the student entertainment committee. I was active on the Town Hall Staff this year, and I came to realize that there is much student dissatisfaction about the programming of entertainment on campus. I plan to do something about this.

If I am elected I plan to try to do the following things:

1. Lower date ticket prices.
2. Provide semi-reserved seats for those students with dates.
3. Schedule as much entertainment as possible for Fridays and non-quiz nights.
4. Provide the selection committee with a poll of campus opinion about entertainment.

My name is Larry Franklin and I would appreciate any consideration you might give me when you go to the polls.

The Battalion:

Without doubt the year 1965 will represent a milestone in the history of Texas A&M College. And if the changes which have occurred during the last few months are indicative of things to come, it will be imperative that the senior class, the student group from whom the administration and faculty seek advice, will have a spokesman who will voice the opinion of the class. Traditionally, the senior class has many privileges; yet, more so today than ever before, we need to realize that the class also has its obligations. While all progress necessitates changes, it does not necessarily follow that all changes result in progress. The class has the obligation to voice its opinion to the faculty, administration, and even to the underclassmen to make them aware of the issues and there possible consequences. The person who you elect to fulfill this obligation will have to be in a strategic position whereby he can sense the "pulse" of the entire class while at the same time is aware of the issues which are being considered by the administration.

While the office of president of the Class of '64 will have its prestige and honor, you should not overlook the obligation which the office entails. This "duty" should be primarily in your mind as you go to the polls tomorrow.

The class of '64 stands at the threshold of its finest year at Aggieland. Never before has one class been faced with so great a responsibility and challenge as that which the future which threatens our unity as Aggies. More than ever before we need to get together and meet this challenge with strong, positive leadership.

As your senior class president, I would give you that leadership. I am Larry Porter, candidate for president of the Class of '64. Presently I am a junior in Company I-3 and a member of the Platoon Leaders Corps, U.S.M.C., and I WANT YOUR VOTE.

Right now it appears to me that there are several things that need to be taken care of before co-education is a reality on this campus. I believe we need to assure that our great traditions are preserved and honored in the proper manner. I know I don't want a "skirt" wearing an Aggie Ring. And what about Silver Taps and Muster? These are just a few questions — there are many! According to the board, co-education is with us to stay. Maybe so, but let's not let our proud traditions fall to women. I believe we owe this much to those who have gone before us.

As Seniors, I would like to see our class united. It's a sure thing that we won't accomplish much if we don't pull together. I think it is up to every Senior to take the lead in the various rolls of leadership and make 1963-64 the best year ever.
