

AMONG THE PROFS

Faculty Member Authors Industrial Arts Textbook

Dr. Everett R. Glazener, associate professor of industrial education, is the author of a textbook, "Industrial Arts Drawing," recently released by the Steck Publishing Co. of Austin.

The new text is the second publication written by Dr. Glazener for the series. The previous one was "Industrial Arts Metalwork," adopted recently on the Texas textbook listing.

The new textbook, designed as a broad coverage of the several areas of drafting, is intended as an introductory text for junior high school classes in industrial arts.

Dr. C. M. Simmang, head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, and Associate Professor R. H. Fletcher plan to attend the American Society of Engineering Educators meeting in Philadelphia June 16-21.

Simmang will participate in national and regional meetings of mechanical engineering department heads, and Fletcher will be a panel member for the Fourth Summer Institute of the Teacher Improvement Program.

Dr. Louis S. Kornicker of the A&M faculty will leave Friday for Naples, Italy, where he will present two papers to an international symposium. He is an associate professor in the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology and specializes in geological oceanography.

The Anton and Reinhard Dohrn Zoological Station at Naples sponsors

the symposium June 10 to 19.

Dr. Kornicker is the only Texan and one of four United States scientists invited to present papers.

Also attending the symposium will be scientists from throughout Europe and England, Israel and Australia.

Dr. Robert E. Stevenson of the A&M Marine Laboratory at Galveston will present a paper at the third annual international Conference on Hurricanes and Tropical Storms at Mexico City. He plans to leave Thursday and return June 13.

Accompanying Dr. Stevenson will be graduate student, Reed S. Armstrong.

Dr. Stevenson is a senior research scientist in the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology's Galveston laboratory.

Lie Detector Course Ends

Ten students received certificates of training last week at the South west's first school for polygraph examiners on the A&M campus.

At noon Friday school officials told the class members they are qualified to conduct examination to detect "attempted deception with the lie detector."

Once an individual completes actual examinations he will be considered for a "graduate certificate" by the Polygraph School.

The class included law enforcement officers and commercial polygraph examiners from eight Texas towns and Fort Lauderdale, Fla. They are:

Dudley P. Johnson, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Richard A. Cowart, Hulingen; Bennett A. Cook, Houston; Kenneth L. Kipe, Houston;

Joe B. Hubbard, Irving; Thomas H. Brouillard, LaMarque; Charles S. Bond, San Antonio; Joe Howard Temple, Wake Village; Russell L. Goolsby, Weslaco and Richard J. Holdeman, Wichita Falls.
