FOR HOME GAMES

Priority Ducat Sale Ends Wednesday

The pre-season priority sale of football tickets to A&M's four home games ends Wednesday, Athletic Business Manager Pat Dial announced.

Ticket applications must be post-marked no later than midnight Wednesday. More than 50,000 ticket application blanks were mailed to former students, current students, faculty members, university employees and option holders.

Starting Thursday, Aug. 1, mail order applications will be processed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Fans can order single-game ducats or books of season tickets. Price is $4 for a single game or $16 for a book of four tickets—one for each of the home games. A 25-cent mailing fee should accompany orders. Checks should be made out to: Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, Texas A&M.

The four games at College Station pit the Aggies against Houston on Oct. 12, Baylor on Oct. 26, SMU on Nov. 9 and Texas on Nov. 28. The Houston tilt is the only night contest.

Fans also can order tickets for Aggie road games. The prices vary. The LSU ticket cost is $4.75 while Ohio State and Arkansas tickets are $5 each. The rest of the road games—Texas Tech, TCU and Rice—have $4 ticket prices.

Schoolboy Football Starts In 6 Weeks

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just six weeks away is history's mightiest football race.

It's the 44th Texas Interscholastic League campaign and 935 teams will begin the long march. No other football race, even in Texas, ever was that big.

In 1920, when the League first started a championship campaign, there were 198 schools. They did not know it but they were working for playoff spots. Because it was in November that Roy Bedichek, director of the Interscholastic League, decided to match the teams with the best records in a playoff for the first Texas schoolboy title.

Cleburne and Houston Heights finally emerged as the finalists and played a scoreless tie in the mud at Austin.

NOW 44 YEARS later 935 schools will play for four state championships and a multitude of regional titles in the biggest football campaign of them all.

Last year 918 teams competed for an all-time record. To the amazement of most everybody, the League classification list for 1963 shows there will be 17 more teams than ever before.

Every classification has increased except eight and six-man football where the same number—57 and 71 respectively—will go to the post in September.

Defending state championships are San Antonio Brackenridge in Class AAAA, Dumas in Class AAA, Jacksboro in Class AA and Rotan in Class A.

The Interscholastic League over the years will be reviewed in a book that emerges from the Texas Press at Waco the first week in August. Its title is "Autumn's mightiest Legions" and it tells the story of Texas schoolboy football from the playing field to the courtroom.

YES, TEXAS schoolboy football has thrice been in the courts. The last time, the League established its right to enforce its rules unless they conflicted with the laws of the land.

This is among facts revealed in a book that tells about the only state championship ever decided by the Class B schools and of a state championship that the League itself has tried to forget for 50 years.

In 1926 Anson and Marlin met for the Class B championship at Abilene. Anson won 3-0 but Marlin's little men made such a great showing against terrific odds that Dewey Mayhew, the Marlin coach, was hired by Abilene.

The game wasn't supposed to be played but the League hadn't written its rules right to prevent it. It rewrote them the next year to forbid Class B from ever going beyond the regional level.
