Linnstaedter Runs Quarterback Slot

The wiry little guy shook his head slowly and said: "We just flat gave it to 'em. Fumbles and penalties killed us all night."

The speaker was Jim Linnstaedter, the short 165-pound dart-and-dodger from Brenham, who had just completed his first game as a varsity quarterback for the Aggies. A senior, the 5-10 Linnstaedter is the No. 1 quarterback this year after two seasons as a halfback.

"I like it at quarterback," he said. "The switch hasn't been difficult because I was quarterback on the freshman team here."

Back to the LSU game and remembering the 14-6 loss inflicted by the Tigers, Linnstaedter said, "I thought we were going to have a big night at the start when we hit for two quick first downs. I thought about the third time I ran with the ball on the option play that I might break and go all the way. Then we got hit with a 15-yard penalty."

"I made a few mistakes on the run-pass options," he continued. "Once I think I could have made a first down if I had run but I passed and it was too high for (Travis) Reagan. LSU wasn't as good as they were a year ago."

Linnstaedter gained a net 44 yards on 13 runs and completed two of four passes for 15 yards.

Coach Hank Foldberg said afterwards that he thought Linnstaedter did a creditable job, considering it was his first varsity game. "He'll improve and the team will improve with him."

Linnstaedter was a tailback at Brenham High where he won all-state and all-America football honors.

He was the leading rusher for the Aggies last year as a halfback, a position to which he had been switched after his freshman season. He was almost ready to by-pass football his senior year until he learned that Foldberg planned to move him back to quarterback.

"Wonder if we'll have to practice Sunday?," Linnstaedter said to no one in particular. "After the way we played, we should have to practice Sunday."

★★★ Brotherton, Swan Move To First Unit

Two Aggies moved up to the first team as a result of their play against LSU Saturday night.

Speedy Bucks Debut Against Ags Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes getting set for the Buckeyes to open Saturday as hosts to Texas A&M, a brand new foe, summed up the outlook Monday with "we always have a tough time with those Texas teams."

Hayes said the Bucks had accomplished more during this fall's training than at any time during his previous 12 seasons. He attributed this to the fact "we had to start from scratch because of so many new men, and we got through it without a serious injury."

Of his squad, Hayes said: "We are well conditioned. We have speed, and we have it at the right spots. Our line, in size, will be about average in the conference—but it will be the best blocking line in the league."

"Our passing will be up to our usual standards. We have good passers and good receivers. We get kidded a lot about not passing—but we have been winning without passing, while teams that were not winning were passing quite often. In 1961 we didn't pass too much, but we had the most effective aerial attack in the Big Ten. Every time we threw, we averaged 9.2 yards."

Mistakes Cost Aggies Victory

"We just beat ourselves."

This one succinct comment from Aggie halfback George Hargett pretty well summed up A&M's opening loss to Louisiana State University.

Coach Hank Foldberg called the game "disappointing" and there were several reasons to go along with him. The most noticeable error was the punt coverage on Jim Keller's 58-yard kick which LSU speedster Joe LaBruzzo turned into an 83-yard touchdown run.

A&M's bugaboo in past years—the fumble—cropped up twice to kill Aggie drives. The first slippery ball came in the second quarter and set up the Tigers' second score. Bill Uzzell, converted from quarterback to halfback, lost the ball on the A&M 49 and it was recovered by LSU's White Graves. Twelve plays later, Danny LeBlanc went over from the four for the TD.

The second fumble came in the third quarter after the Cadets had opened the period with a drive to the Bengal 20-yard line. Hargett hit left guard and was hit hard by Tiger linebackers, losing the ball. Billy Truax recovered for LSU, stopping A&M's biggest threat outside their scoring drive in the fourth period.

FOLDBERG was also displeased with the line play that apparently folded up after LaBruzzo's jaunt in the second quarter.

But a backward look at the game reveals all is not black for the Marron and White. The general consensus of post-game reports indicates the Aggies are going to mean bad news to conference foes.

Foldberg showed 68,000 fans packed in Tiger Stadium that the Aggies have an offense too. The big pre-season question mark—quarterback—has changed to an exclamation point.

JIM LINNSTAEDTER, who quarterbacked the 1960 Fish team then was moved to halfback for his sophomore and junior years, is back at his old position and displaying the skill that won him all-state and all-American honors in high school. The steely-eyed senior from Brenham took charge on the first A&M series of downs and moved the team steadily to the LSU 34 before a holding penalty knocked the Farmers back 15 yards and killed the drive.

Linnstaedter looked good on roll-outs, gaining 56 yards in 13 attempts to lead A&M in rushing. He also connected on two of four passes for 15 yards.

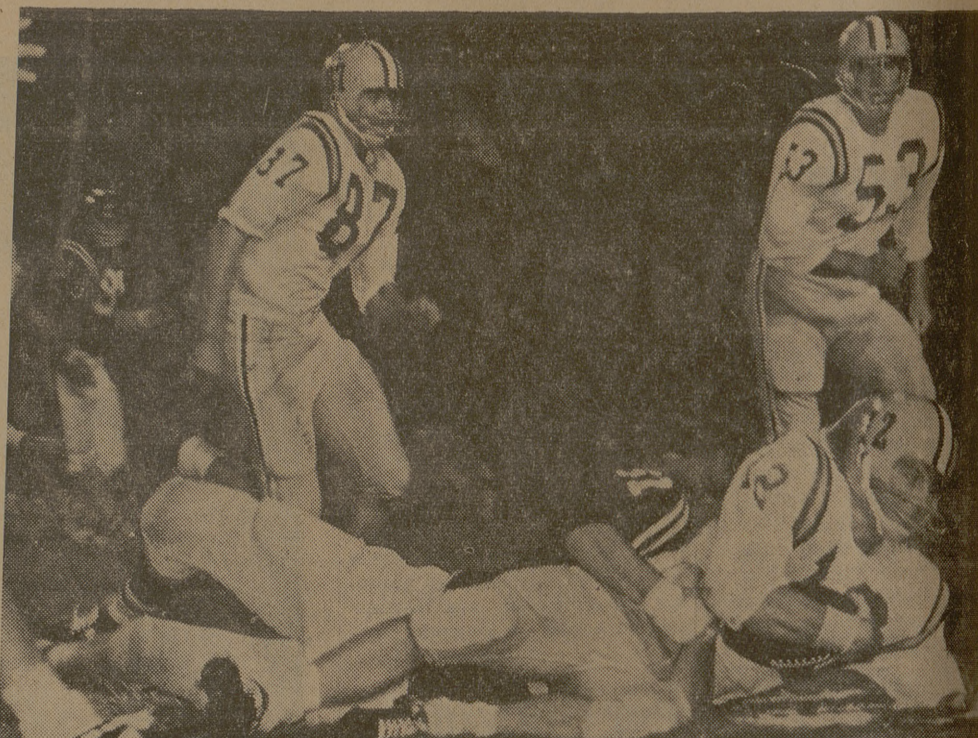

But the most pleasant surprise was the showing of soph signal caller Charles LaGrange. LaGrange entered in the fourth quarter and, after throwing an interception, settled down and guided the Maroon 45 yards for their only score.

LAGRANGE stood out on one particular play when the Cadets up behind powerful support from all sections of the country Tuesday to challenge Southern California for the No. 1 ranking among college football teams.

The Southern Cal Trojans, undefeated national champions in 1962 and a solid pre-season pick to repeat, clung to the top position in The Associated Press poll—but precariously—after squeaking past Colorado 14-0 in their opening game.

ALABAMA, the best of the collegians in 1961, was just a hot breath away in second after smothering Georgia 32-7 and the Oklahoma Sooners climbed into third place—a notch—on the strength of a 31-14 victory over Clemson.

that has definite championship overtones while Alabama strives to improve its status against imposing Tulane at Tuscaloosa.

THE FIRST week's principal casualties were second-ranked Mississippi, held to a scoreless tie by Memphis State, and tenth-ranked Washington, upset 10-7 by the Air Force Academy.

Both dropped completely from the Top Ten with two newcomers—Georgia Tech and Pittsburgh—making their appearance as the Nos. 9 and 10 teams, respectively.

GEORGIA TECH beat Florida in a televised opener a week ago and sat it out last week-end. Pitt tumbled UCLA in an intersectional tussle 20-0 last Friday night.

Navy made the greatest climbing from ninth to fifth, routing a massive and highly rated West Virginia team. The Midshipmen were just like Texas, which moved from fourth after trimming Tulane. Then followed, as the lower Wisconsin, Northwestern, Arkansas, Georgia Tech and Pitt.

Wisconsin, the defending Ten king, leaped over Northern's head apparently because voters were more impressed by Badgers' 41-0 victory over Northern Michigan than the Wildcats' 23-12 decision over Missouri. Kansas, 21-0 winner over Oklahoma State, was the only team stand still—in eighth place.

TCU Runner, Hog QB Lead SWC Stats

DALLAS (AP)—Texas Christian's Tommy Crutcher, Arkansas' Bill Gray and Texas Tech's David Parks started living up to expectations the first week of Southwest Conference football as they took the lead in the major offensive categories.

Crutcher, workhorse of TCU's power attack, gained 90 yards on 19 carries to take the lead in rushing by 23 yards over Jim Lindsey of Arkansas.

Gray completed six of 10 passes for 115 yards to jump to No. 1 by a neat margin. Tommy Wade of Texas and Gray Mills of Texas Christian were next with four of seven and four of nine respectively.

Parks, the do-everything wingman of the Red Raiders, caught four passes for 55 yards. That was one more reception than Charley Talbert of Texas, Travis Reagan of A&M and George Hargett of A&M.

Phil Harris of Texas made two touchdowns and two points after to lead in scoring with 14 points. H. L. Daniels of Texas Tech, who kicked three field goals against Washington State, is second with 10 points.

Garry Thomas of Texas Christian took over the No. 1 spot in punting when he booted three times against Kansas for an average of 50.0 yards. Ernie Koy of Texas is second with five for 42.4
